Stamp Price Hike PO Strike Bargain?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged Congress today to increase the cost of mailing a first-class letter to 10 cents to help pay for the postal part of the new pay raises proposed for about 5.9 million federal employes.

In a special message, Nixon said his administration "is committed to a policy of pay-as-you-go." He described that as not only good business but "insurance against inflation."

The President announced that the planned 6 per cent increase for all federal civilian and military personnel, retroactive to last Dec. 27, will require "further actions which will result in some modification of our 1971 budgetary program."

Without going into details, Nixon said that he will propose "additional revenue which will neither require extending the surtax nor raising income tax rates."

About the only specific thing he mentioned in the tax area was a plan to accelerate collection of estate and gift taxes which would provide a one-time-only federal windfall of $1.5 billion in receipts in the 1971 fiscal year that begins July 1.

For the current fiscal year ending June 30, Nixon said, the $1.2 billion cost of the 6 per cent retroactive pay boost "can be met from budgeted and surplus funds."

Undeclared War Service Nixed

BOSTON (AP) — The state of Massachusetts prepared today a Supreme Court challenge of the use of U.S. armed forces in the Vietnam fighting without an express congressional mandate.

Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn said he would seek a quick test of a new state law providing that as matters stand servicemen from Massachusetts can refuse to take part in such hostilities.

Quinn said 19-year-old John J. O'Brien of Medford, a soldier under orders for shipment to Vietnam April 19, already had offered himself for a legal test.

The law went into the books Thursday with the signature of Republican Gov. Francis W. Sargent, who commented:

"The issue is whether and when, under our Constitution, a citizen can be compelled to engage in a conflict that lacks a congressional declaration of war."

The new state law says that in the absence of such a declaration, servicemen from Massachusetts are authorized to decline assignment to fighting which is "not an emergency" and "not otherwise authorized in the powers granted to the President as Commander in Chief."

The state law requires the Massachusetts attorney general to represent any Massachusetts serviceman seeking its protection.

Sargent said, "The bill is sincere, but its effects are doubtful. If signing this bill will bring an answer from the U.S. Supreme Court, then I believe America will be well served by this act."

Legal experts said Quinn's first move would be a motion before the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court for permission to file a complaint with the U.S. Supreme Court.

If the U.S. Supreme Court declined to entertain the complaint, Quinn then could bring it in a U.S. District Court with the idea of working his way up to the Supreme Court by a longer judicial process.

Welfare Plan Crackdown Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Twiname, the federal welfare administrator, vows a crackdown against 39 states now failing to meet government welfare requirements.

"From now on we'll be bringing cases directly to Washington for determination after six months of unsuccessful negotiations in field offices," Twiname said in an interview. "Things won't be stretched out forever."

He acted after a government survey showed that as of Jan. 1 only 11 states were in total compliance with congressional amendments, Supreme Court decisions, and agency standards dating back to 1967.

Compliance deadlines are months past for all states.

The department of Health, Education and Welfare began enforcement proceedings against two states, Nevada and Connecticut, in recent months. But no state has yet lost its share of federal welfare aid—the stiffest penalty provided by law.

Twiname indicated enforcement proceedings will be started against as many other states as necessary.

George Wiley, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Organization, was skeptical about government enforcement.

"It has taken HEW a year to admit that 40 states are in noncompliance," he said. "I must wonder how long it will take them to bring those states into compliance."

GOP Confident Carswell Will Be Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces showed increasing confidence today as anti-Carswell senators pressed an all-out effort to capture 16 undeclared Senate votes holding the key to confirmation of President Nixon's Supreme Court nominee.

Unleashing a torrent of speeches and statements, opponents of G. Harrold Carswell held the Senate floor until long after dark Thursday, centering their assault on Nixon's assertion that his power of appointment is threatened.

They also fired off a letter to the Justice Department demanding to know procedures for checking Supreme Court nominees. And they produced a new document they said proved Carswell misled the Judiciary Committee on the extent of his involvement in establishing a white-only golf club.

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., told a newsman those against confirmation of the 50-year-old Florida federal judge were counting on swinging crucial votes by hammering away on the floor and in private at a letter Nixon sent to Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, earlier in the week.

In that letter, Nixon said charges against Carswell of racism and mediocrity were baseless and that those opposing the judge were seeking to rob the President of the constitutional power to appoint members of the court.

"The record shows that the Senate has been granted a clear and significant independent role in the appointment of Supreme Court justices and has exercised the responsibility throughout the nation's history," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

Back-To-Work Pleas Ignored By Controllers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite pledges by union leaders to get their men back to work, air traffic controllers continued calling in sick today and airline travel remained curtailed.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said the absentee rate in its 21 regional control centers showed little change on the 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. shift.

"We see a slight improvement over-all, but not enough to have much effect," the spokesman said. "The facilities that have been bad are still bad."

In New York, a focal point in the strike, 63 of 164 controllers scheduled to work reported sick at the Islip, L.I., air route center which controls traffic in several Eastern states. No controllers reported in at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport tower which was manned by supervisory personnel.

The number of controllers staying off the job remained about the same at Kansas City and Minneapolis. In Chicago, all 10 controllers at the O'Hare tower reported for duty but the nearby Aurora Control Center declined to give out numbers on strikers.

Leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization—PATCO—agreed Thursday to order their men back to work by the weekend.

U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr., then dismissed contempt proceedings against PATCO Executive Director F. Lee Bailey and two other union leaders.

Later, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman confirmed that three controllers who had been ordered from Baton Rouge, La., to new posts and who had not reported to their new assignments were in the early stages of dismissal proceedings.

Lineup Listed In Carswell Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the current Senate lineup in the fight over Judge G. Harrold Carswell's nomination to the Supreme Court:

The number of senators who have declared against a motion to send the nomination back to Judiciary Committee, thus killing it, stands at 46.

Truckers Back On Job

Wage Increase Of $1 Per Hour Agreed Upon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of striking truck drivers went back to work today under a tentative agreement that reportedly will hike their average wage by more than $1 an hour over three years.

Teamsters union acting president Frank E. Fitzsimmmons asked the strikers to return to their jobs pending a mail vote by the 425,000 workers covered by the tentative agreement announced Thursday.

Most Stay On Job

Most of the 425,000 drivers had stayed on the job after the old contract expired midnight Tuesday but wildcat strikes in dozens of cities added up to the biggest trucking walkout in the nation's history.

"Tentative agreement has been reached on monetary issues for a new contract," said a joint announcement by Fitzsimmons and chief industry negotiator Ray F. Beagle of Trucking Employers Inc.

Achievement Noted

"The parties substantially worked it out for themselves," said J. Curtis Counts, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service who had participated in the talks. He called the agreement "an achievement for collective bargaining."

Details of the agreement were withheld pending results of the mail referendum among the workers but sources in the negotiations confirmed the wage hike figure of more than $1 per hour for the approximately 325,000 city truck drivers. These men now average about $4 an hour and about $10,000 a year with overtime and other benefits.

Driving Raise Set

There was also a reported raise of 1¾ cents a mile for the 100,000 long distance drivers who are now paid from 11 to 14 cents a mile and earn an average of $13,000 a year.

The total three-year cost of the agreement was reported at well over $2 billion.

Fitzsimmons and Beagle said some remaining details on geographical area supplements to the national contract will be worked out by next week.

Arson Blamed In Three CMU Fires

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — Damage was estimated at $5,000 today from four small fires which investigators said were set deliberately Thursday night in a building housing the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Central Michigan University.

The fires were reported in wastebaskets and on bulletin boards of Central Hall, a three story 62-year-old building on the campus.

Investigators from the State Police fire marshal division said it had been determined that arson was involved.

No one was reported injured in the blaze. Most students and faculty were away for the weeklong Easter holiday.

Congress Riding Herd In Beef Price Hassle?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cattle industry spokesman says he is alarmed by a congressional panel's urging creation of a federal commission to keep watch on beef production from ranch to supermarket.

C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, said the proposal might be the first step toward government supervision of the industry.

"Based on our limited knowledge of the report, the tenor of it is quite alarming, even if such a commission is considered on a temporary basis," he said.

A special studies subcommittee headed by Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., recommended Thursday a commission of not more than 18 members is needed for at least two years to study whether meat production is meeting the needs of the consumer.

The report, which also advocates liberalization of U.S. import laws so more hamburger-type beef can be admitted from overseas, is expected to be considered Wednesday by the House Committee on Government Operations.

A major contention of the report is that beef production, including imports, has not increased fast enough to satisfy consumer appetites without higher prices.

"Congress should establish a commission to determine the adequacy of the meat supply for consumers at reasonable prices with a reasonable return to producers, packers and distributors," the report said.

Monagan, contacted in Waterbury, Conn., said he did not intend the proposed commission to be a regulatory body over the cattle industry.

Disclosure of the report came as the Nixon administration turned down an opportunity to expand meat imports this year to help ease consumer meat prices at retail stores.

Missing 26 Days

Whereabouts Of Rap A Mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — Where is H. Rap Brown?

No Word: Kunstler

"We've had no word whatsoever. It's incomprehensible why we haven't heard from him," declared Kunstler, who says he doesn't know where Brown is.

Brown's wife could not be reached. The FBI says it does not know Brown's whereabouts.

Brown was to stand trial on charges of arson and incitement to riot stemming from a 1967 disturbance in Cambridge, Md. The trial has been reset for April 20 in Ellicott City.

Dorchester County State's Atty. William B. Yates Jr. prosecutor in the case, said, "I have nothing to base any conjecture on, but I think he'll appear for trial."

Penalty Slated

Yates said the additional seven-year penalty for not showing might be some incentive for Brown to appear.

"I feel this, really, that he's not dead," Kunstler said Thursday. "And I think his wife shares that feeling. I think that somewhere, sometime he'll turn up and make a statement.

"If he's underground," Kunstler said, "it would be hard for him to tell anyone. How do you communicate? By letter? By phone? Then you give yourself away."

The doorman at Mrs. Brown's apartment house in Upper Manhattan said Thursday he hasn't seen Brown. "In weeks, maybe months." He also had not seen Mrs. Brown recently, and no one answered the door at her apartment.

Stays With Friends

Kunstler said she had been staying with friends in various places since the address of the apartment was printed in newspapers.

Brown left for Bel Air March 8.

'Open Marxists' Tab Placed On 'Weathermen'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has used the controversial "Rap Brown" antiriot law against the radical left for a second time, indicting 12 SDS Weatherman leaders the Justice Department's top criminal lawyer calls "open Marxists."

The 12, including police fugitive Kathy Boudin and chief Weatherman Mark Rudd, were accused Thursday of conspiring to incite—and participating in—violence during the "four days of rage" sponsored by the militant faction of Students for a Democratic Society last Oct. 8-11 in Chicago.

The indictments by a Chicago federal grand jury came less than two months after the tumultuous trial of the Chicago 7—first defendants to be tried under the 1968 antiriot law—closed in the court of U.S. District Judge Julius J. Hoffman.

Ironically, Judge Hoffman, one of eight judges in the court, was selected under a random assignment method to hear the Weatherman case.

The indictments charged each of the 12 with one count of conspiring between June 30 and Oct. 11, 1969, "to travel in and use the facilities of interstate commerce with the intent to incite, organize, promote, encourage, participate in and carry on a riot." Each also was charged with one to four counts of crossing state lines with the intent of inciting a riot.

Downstate Buried Again

Spring Shudders Under Blanket Of Snow

By The Associated Press

Spring shuddered again Thursday as it vanished from Michigan beneath a blanket of snow for the second time in a week.

Up to 10 inches of soggy new snow fell upon portions of the state still white from a fall of up to 13 inches the previous Thursday.

Lansing reported a 24 - hour record snowfall for April of 17 inches. The Weather Bureau said snow started in the state's capital at 4:13 p.m. Wednesday and didn't end until 2:30 p.m. Thursday. The previous Lansing 24 - hour April snowfall record was 9.9 inches on April 4, 1920.

Roads were hit hard by the latest storm with at least one state trooper's car among the stranded vehicles when I 96 was blocked for a time in Kent County.

5-Mile Traffic Backup

A five-mile traffic backup occurred on I 94, near Battle Creek as drivers found forward movement difficult due to a combination of rain, sleet and snow.

Bus service in Lansing was halted until today because of the storm although many streets cleared quickly once the snow stopped.

A school in Sandusky in the thumb made plans Thursday afternoon to keep about 250 students overnight when heavy snow made the roads impassable. But the children were sent home late in the afternoon when snowplows cleared the way for schoolbuses.

Snow Melts

By midafternoon, the sun poked through the clouds above western Michigan and the snow began to melt away. State Police reported main roads open again with no major trouble spots.

Battle Creek was troubled by the storm briefly as the city manager called a weather emergency and traffic virtually came to a stop. But within hours, traffic was moving almost normally again.

At one time, stalled cars and snow drifts blocked I 96 between Lansing and Grand Rapids in six places. But road crews had the highway open again by midafternoon.

Drifting Closes Roads

Drifting snow closed I 94 in Berrien County for a time.

Power failures were perhaps the most persistent problem as Consumers Power Co. reported that more than 34,000 customers across the state were without power for a time during the storm.

To the East, the Saginaw area was battered. Thousands of homes were blacked out during the night. All schools closed by noon as snow blocked most rural roads around Saginaw.

Lightning, which accompanied the snow in some sections of western Michigan, was blamed for knocking two broadcast stations off the air for a time. Station WKZO in Kalamazoo lost its am radio service for nearly an hour because of lightning and another bolt halted broadcast by WOOD-TV and FM in Grand Rapids for nearly six hours although the station continued broadcasts on am radio.

Several school districts closed their doors but the list of school

"If he's underground," Kunstler said, "it would be hard for him to tell anyone. How do you communicate? By letter? By phone? Then you give yourself away."

The doorman at Mrs. Brown's apartment house in Upper Manhattan said Thursday he hasn't seen Brown, "in weeks, maybe months." He also had not seen Mrs. Brown recently, and no one answered the door at her apartment.

Kunstler said she had been staying with friends in various places since the address of the apartment was printed in newspapers.

'Open Marxists' Tab Placed On 'Weathermen'

The 12, including police fugitive Kathy Boudin and chief Weatherman Mark Rudd, were accused Thursday of conspiring to incite—and participating in—violence during the "four days of rage" sponsored by the militant faction of Students for a Democratic Society last Oct. 8-11 in Chicago.

The indictments by a Chicago federal grand jury came less than two months after the tumultuous trial of the Chicago 7—first defendants to be tried under the 1968 antiriot law—closed in the court of U.S. District Judge Julius J. Hoffman.

Ironically, Judge Hoffman, one of eight judges in the court, was selected under a random assignment method to hear the Weatherman case.

The indictments charged each of the 12 with one count of conspiring between June 30 and Oct. 11, 1969, "to travel in and use the facilities of interstate commerce with the intent to incite, organize, promote, encourage, participate in and carry on a riot." Each also was charged with one to four counts of crossing state lines with the intent of inciting a riot.

Downstate Buried Again

Spring Shudders Under Blanket Of Snow

By The Associated Press

Spring shuddered again Thursday as it vanished from Michigan beneath a blanket of snow for the second time in a week.

Up to 10 inches of soggy new snow fell upon portions of the state still white from a fall of up to 13 inches the previous Thursday.

Lansing reported a 24 - hour record snowfall for April of 17 inches. The Weather Bureau said snow started in the state's capital at 4:13 p.m. Wednesday and didn't end until 2:30 p.m. Thursday. The previous Lansing 24 - hour April snowfall record was 9.9 inches on April 4, 1920.

Roads were hit hard by the latest storm with at least one state trooper's car among the stranded vehicles when I 96 was blocked for a time in Kent County.

5-Mile Traffic Backup

A five-mile traffic backup occurred on I 94, near Battle Creek as drivers found forward movement difficult due to a combination of rain, sleet and snow.

Bus service in Lansing was halted until today because of the storm although many streets cleared quickly once the snow stopped.

A school in Sandusky in the thumb made plans Thursday afternoon to keep about 250 students overnight when heavy snow made the roads impassable. But the children were sent home late in the afternoon when snowplows cleared the way for schoolbuses.

Snow Melts

By midafternoon, the sun poked through the clouds above western Michigan and the snow began to melt away. State Police reported main roads open again with no major trouble spots.

Battle Creek was troubled by the storm briefly as the city manager called a weather emergency and traffic virtually came to a stop. But within hours, traffic was moving almost normally again.

At one time, stalled cars and snow drifts blocked I 96 between Lansing and Grand Rapids in six places. But road crews had the highway open again by midafternoon.

Drifting Closes Roads

Drifting snow closed I 94 in Berrien County for a time.

Power failures were perhaps the most persistent problem as Consumers Power Co. reported that more than 34,000 customers across the state were without power for a time during the storm.

To the East, the Saginaw area was battered. Thousands of homes were blacked out during the night. All schools closed by noon as snow blocked most rural roads around Saginaw.

Lightning, which accompanied the snow in some sections of western Michigan, was blamed for knocking two broadcast stations off the air for a time. Station WKZO in Kalamazoo lost its am radio service for nearly an hour because of lightning and another bolt halted broadcast by WOOD-TV and FM in Grand Rapids for nearly six hours although the station continued broadcasts on am radio.

Several school districts closed their doors but the list of school

'High Point' Attacks Continue

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong kept up their new "high point" of intensified attacks across South Vietnam today, shelling 60 positions and battling South Vietnamese troops in the northern Mekong Delta and American forces near the Cambodian border.

Casualties continued to rise. Official but incomplete reports said at least 79 Americans, 267 South Vietnamese troops and 770 enemy had been killed since Tuesday night, when the Communist command launched its heaviest attacks in eight months.

Another [illegible]ican and 748 South V[illegible]oops were reported [illegible].

At least 104 [illegible]namese civilians were reported killed and 292 wounded.

Hearing On Ore Injunction Slated For April 13

A hearing to determine whether or not a temporary restraining order will be issued against the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. in a suit brought by a group of north Escanaba residents against the railroad will be held in Circiut Court for Delta County in Escanaba at 9:30 a.m. Monday, April 13.

The action against the railroad was filed in Circuit Court Monday and asks injunctive relief from dust, noise, fumes and vibration, etc., originating at the C&NW's iron ore dumping, stockpiling, shiploading and rail yard facility in north Escanaba.

An order from the court could result in shutdown of the terminal or limit operations to conditions specified by the court.

Attorney Nino Green of Gladstone, who filed the action, said the plaintiffs are not asking that the terminal operation be closed, but that the court "enjoin the result" of the C&NW activity.

The railroad already is under order of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission to install dust control equipment and to take other measures to eliminate air pollution in the north Escanaba area. Plans developed by the railroad in cooperation with the Roy F. Weston Co. of Harrisburg, Pa., were submitted to the Air Pollution Control Commission last month and will be reviewed at the April 21 commission meeting in Lansing.

Judge Fred J. Bouchard of the 11th Judicial Circuit (Saginaw County) will preside at the hearing in the absence of Delta County Circuit Judge Bernard H. Davidson of Marquette who has been assigned that week to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The hearing will not consider demands for damages by the plaintiffs totaling $615,000. Hearing on the damage part of the suit will be scheduled later.

The Farmers Home Administration is a branch of the United States Department of Agriculture, with financing programs in the general areas of farm and rural housing.

FHA programs are designed to help eligible, low to moderate income families who are unable to obtain credit from a local source.

Voters To Pick Three Councilmen Monday

Voters of Escanaba will elect a "new" city council on Monday, April 6. The council has five members and three of the five seats are at stake.

The retirement of Ed Cox from the council after 15 yars of service was recognized with a resolution of appreciation adopted by the Council last evening. He is not a candidate for reelection.

Also retiring from the Council is Dupuie, who with Pryal was appointed to fill vacancies. Pryal is a candiate in Monday's election.

Dedicated Service

Cox expressed appreciation for the opportunity to serve the people of Escanaba and said he had found pleasure in working with present and past councils. He reviewed the industrial development of the community and noted that the council is aware of the importance of a good industrial climate, the jobs that industry provides, and the taxes it pays.

"We've got to take care of the industries we have," he said.

Commenting on his own philosophy as a councilman, Cox recalled that years ago Edward E. Edick, then Escanaba High School principal, advised him that "if you are honest in your decisions you will be right at least 90 per cent of the time." Cox added: "And I hope I have been."

Mayor Chase praised Cox for his "dedicated" service and Councilman Bink said: "Ed Cox never rode the fence. You always knew where he stood on a question."

Industrial Growth

The Council resolution cited Cox for his service from 1951 until 1962 and from 1966 until 1970, including two years as mayor—1958-60

The resolution notes that "he initiated and encouraged strong industrial development and expansion programs to attract new industry to our city, and Escanaba industries to expand within our boundaries."

In Monday's election the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. on Monday in the seven precincts, which are located at:

First—Franklin School, Second — New Jefferson School, Third—Bay de Noc Community College West Hall, Fourth—Old Jefferson School, Fifth — Junior High School, Sixth—Lemmer School, Seventh—Webster School.

The Candidates

At stake in the election are two council seats for terms of four years, and one for a term of two years.

John W. Curran, 420 S. 13th St., Harnischfeger employe.

Jon R. Taylor, 1639 S. 16th St., insuranceman.

Candidates for the two-year unexpired term:

Eugene O. Slagstad, 224 N. 14th St., Harnischfeger employe.

On Monday, April 13, the "new" council will meet for reorganization, and if custom is followed the council will elect as mayor the candidate who received the highest vote on April 6.

The first regular meeting of the new council will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday, April 16, in the Civic Center, with the new mayor presiding.

VA Reducing Premiums On GI Insurance

Insurance rate reductions up to 35 per cent in two classes of G. I. National Service Life Insurance policies were announced by Donald E. Johnson, administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Veterans holding policies affected by the new rates will save $10,000,000 in premium payments every year, Johnson said.

The administrator said also that premium reductions becoming effective this fall will benefit almost 600,000 veterans, approximately 10 per cent of VA's total number of policy holders.

Premiums on one group of about 164,000 life insurance policies will be reduced an average of 18 per cent, saving veterans about $5.6 million annually, Johnson said. These reductions result from increased interest earnings in this insurance fund. He said this reduction applied only to policies bearing the prefix "J"—not to those with "JR" and "JS."

He added that these policies were issued in 1965 and 1966 when insurance programs were re-opened to certain disabled veterans who were insurable as standard insurance risks.

Administrator Johnson said premium reductions averaging 35 per cent will be made to a second group of some 420,000 veterans with five year renewable term policies bearing prefixes "V", "RS" and "W" and carrying the "optional total disability income" rider.

Reductions on these riders will save these veterans about $5 million a year. They were made possible because claims were less than anticipated.

Johnson stressed that since affected veterans will be notified of the premium reductions, it is not necessary to contact the VA.

P&H Promotes John Moore

Appointment of John A. Moore of Escanaba to the position of Manager-Manufacturing and Office Employment at Harnischfeger's main plant in Milwaukee was announced today by Jack Boeecher, director of personnel and industrial relations.

Moore joined Harnischfeger in June, 1959 as an industrial engineer at the firm's Milwaukee operations. He was transferred to Escanaba in September, 1961, and served as an industrial engineer at the Electrical Products plant until his assignment to the personnel department at the Construction Equipment plant in July, 1963.

Since that time he has served in various capacities involving the suggestion program, job evaluation, labor relations, contract negotiations and college recruiting. He was promoted to personnel supervisor in 1966 and to his present position, employe relations manager, in 1969. He has served as editor of Harnischfeger's Escanaba inplant news organ, the "Noon News," since 1967.

Large Die-Offs Of Alewives Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department warned Thursday that some areas of Lake Michigan may experience large die-offs of alewives—but not as serious as in 1967.

Asst. Secretary Leslie L. Glasgow said the population of alewives in Lake Michigan in 1969 appeared to be about 60 per cent higher than in 1968 but was still substantially below 1967 when millions of dead fish washed up on the beaches.

The alewife is a small fish which serves as food for larger fish and is caught commercially for fish meal and pet food.

It is believed to have entered the Great Lakes by way of the St. Lawrence River.

Glasgow said severe winter temperatures and the stress of adjusting to warmer waters in the spring may touch off widespread alewife deaths.

He said the areas most likely to be affected are the shores of Illinois and Indiana.

The Austrian Anti-Noise League was quietly dissolved because its chairman and secretary for two years were the only members.

THE NEW BRANCH BANK of the State Bank of Escanaba will look like this when completed. C. E. Noetzel of Detroit is the architect.

Bank To Build Branch Facility

Forrest A. Henslee, executive vice president of the State Bank of Escanaba, announced that the Bank's Board of Directors has approved plans for a new branch bank facility at the southeast corner of 25th St. and 1st Ave. N.

The property, which is adjacent to the new Delta Shopping Plaza, was acquired in August, 1969.

C. E. Noetzel, A. I. A. of Detroit, who specializes in designing bank buildings, is the architect.

Henslee said that the new branch will provide complete banking services including drive-up banking, continuing the State Bank policy of providing modern convenient banking facilities for the residents of the Escanaba area.

A British Crown Colony, the 320 Fiji Islands and atolls are scattered like small emeralds across 250,000 square miles of the southwest Pacific between New Zealand and the Equator, the National Geographic Society says.

Kidney Foundation Field Secretary Will Speak Here

The newly appointed field director of the Michigan Kidney Foundation, David P. St. Clair, will be in Escanaba on April 13-14.

During his stay here, the local chapter is setting up a busy speaking schedule for him to appear at various clubs, schools and community meetings.

St. Clair has been actively coordinating community interest and support throughout the state on kidney problems, diseases and programs to treat them. He is a graduate of Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis and received his bachelors and masters degrees from Butler University.

For 13 years he served in the pastoral ministry in Indiana followed by institutional chaplaincy working in psychiatric and general hospital programs. While at the University of Michigan Hospital working on in-patient care on behalf of the Michigan Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, he developed a close involvement with kidney disease patients and home dialysis programs.

He succeeds former field director Gary O'Donnell who has been appointed acting executive director of the Michigan Kidney Foundation.

Politicians Must Share Blame For Viet War: Demo

EAST LANSING (AP) —Zolton Ferency, one of three announced Democratic contenders for the governor's chair, says political campaigns "must become schools of thought and responsible politicians must do the teaching."

Ferency's comments were included in remarks for Thursday to campaign workers meeting on the Michigan State University campus.

"The people of Michigan have made it plain that they will not tolerate politicians who seek personal political advantage by making unfounded, irresponsible attacks upon the political opposition for the sole purpose of gaining votes," Ferency said.

"It is sheer hypocrisy to attempt to put the major share of the blame for the massive and tragic consequences of the war in Vietnam at the doorstop of the Nixon-Agnew Administration or to impose a measure of guilt by political association upon Michigan Republicans such as George Romney or William Milliken."

Ferency said "the fact of the matter is that all we Democrats and Republicans alike, for better or for worse, must assume our share of the awful burdens of the war in Vietnam, wether we like it or not."

VFW Field Service Confab Slated Here

The third annual Upper Peninsula Field Service Conference will be held at the Hiawatha VFW Post 2998 clubrooms on April 11.

Activities will get under way at 10 a. m. and are scheduled to end at 6 p. m.

Taking part in the Saturday session will be the following officials from the Detroit Regional Office of the Veterans Administration: Robert Fitzgerald, manager; Clarence A. Brosteau, ajudication officer; Chester Hobson, contact officer, as well as members of the Department of Michigan VFW service staff.

Department Commander of the VFW, James Milliorn, along with 14th District Commander Harry Johnson and 15th District Commander Chester Butler, will also be in attendance.

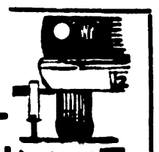

The VFW Auxiliary will be represented by 14th District President Eleanor DeSautel and 15th District President Joyce Stoychoff.

Officers of the Hiawatha Post are going all out to make the event a success and suggest that all Escanaba area veterans attend the service sessions at some time during the day.

Downstate officials will be glad to answer any questions regarding rehabilitation.

Japanese pedestrians, threading their way through traffic oozing through Tokyo's streets, supposedly are made immune from injury by holding aloft small yellow flags supplied at street corners.

Escanaba Daily Press

A Panax Publication

Ralph S. Kanatsck, Gen. Mgr. David L. Andrews, Editor

Misdirected Effort

The Delta County Board of Supervisors, now the Board of Commissioners, earlier this month passed a resolution requesting legislation to repeal the state law requiring county boards to publish the minutes of all board meetings in a general circulation newspaper.

In place of newspaper publication, the board suggests that it be required "to prepare a report of its proceedings immediately after each session and copies of these reports shall be made available to anyone who desires same at the Delta County Clerk's office or other designated place."

Reasons for the request, according to the resolution, are that the present published report "serves a questionable few readers who could just as well secure these reports from the clerk's office or other designated places in the county . . . the board has found it difficult to receive satisfactory or prompt service in this function and the cost of such printing is an ever increasing budgetary item, and . . . meetings are open to the press and radio and news media are always present to report on the proceedings."

Fortunately, the requirement to publish minutes is contained in a state law and does not fall within the jurisdiction of the county board. The thinking behind the law is much sounder than the resolution passed unanimously by Delta County's five supervisors.

Undoubtedly there would be a savings — last year the county paid the Delta Reporter of Gladstone $1,199 for publication of minutes — but the expenditure is a minor item when matched against the benefits of honest government conducted under the scrutiny of the public. There may not be more than a few who take the time to wade through the offciial minutes each month, but the mere requirement that minutes be published puts the county board on notice that its deliberations are public matters.

A "report" of the type suggested by the county board is immediately suspect because there is no guarantee that the report would be anywhere near as complete as official minutes must be.

There also is faulty reasoning in the thought that the meetings are open to the public, press and radio and that the "news media are always present." Seldom do more than a few citizens show up for a board meeting — there were meetings last year when the only observer present was a newspaper reporter — and even the news media is not "always" present. The Daily Press, for example, which has been the most faithful of the various area news outlets in reporting on county board proceedings in its news columns, was not present at the Rapid River meeting when the board passed the resolution in question.

It is not the function of a newspaper or radio station to serve as an official organ for the county board or any other governmental unit. Reports on meetings are published and broadcast, but they are necessarily selective, and no effort is made to detail every item of business transacted. Indeed, the official language of resolutions approved sometimes isn't available until days after the meeting.

The Board of Supervisors, rather than attempt to silence one of its few links with the public, might well consider some effort at expanding its communication.

Action by the board to schedule its meetings at various sites around the county to make itself more accessible to the people was a move in the right direction. But instead of trying to shorten up on its public reports, the board should consider expanding them. There also could be more effort put into advance information on meetings, specifying what business will be discussed and how it relates to the community.

Good government is government by the people. It serves no purpose to deal the people out except for a few hours on election day.

WLUC-TV of Marquette will start construction this spring on two translator stations which will re-broadcast its programming in the L'Anse-Baraga and the Calumet-Houghton-Hancock areas. Construction permits for the stations were granted earlier this month by the Federal Communications Commission.

Thursday, March 19, just wasn't their day for Michael Grandelis and Ronald Zanella. They took turns at the wheel of an auto and two different departments took turns arresting them. Zanella, 32, Ironwood, had the wheel first. He was arrested and jailed after the car hit a parked car. Ironwood police requested he relinquish the wheel and accompany them to the station from the accident site. Grandelis took over. Ironwood officers got on the radio to the Hurley Police Department and that department relayed the word to the Iron County Sheriff's Department. Iron County officers arrested Grandelis, 22, Hurley, for speeding.

Reappointment of Joseph Karry as police chief of Hancock, by acting City Manager Mildred Robinson, raised questions from city councilmen regarding an arson case in that city. City Attorney Sterling Schrock told the council that he had instructed Karry and anyone else concerned with the case in any way not to release any information as it would not be in the best interests of the case. The council approved the chief's appointment for another year by a 4-3 vote.

"I LIKE TO MAKE MY FRIENDS HAPPY!"

Law-Abiding Dissenter Facing Census Dilemma

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some of my young conservative and libertarian friends have put me on the spot.

They are taking a stand that many of the questions contained in the 1970 Census Form, which everybody will have received now that the mail has started flowing again, cannot legally be asked because they are an unconstitutional invasion of privacy. The Constitution, so it is argued, provides for nothing more than a plain count of the population every 10 years. Nothing about tabulations of flush toilets, or electric dishwashers, or the assessed valuation of one's house.

My friends fear that the "answers to the questions posed in the Census will be turned over to other government agencies in order to harass the citizenry."

And the portentous conclusion is drawn that the information might be included in a "newly created National Data Bank and later used to compile a dossier on every citizen in this nation."

It could be that the protesters, many of whom are directors of such organizations as Young Americans for Freedom, the United Republicans of America, and the Youth Advisory Committee on the Selective Service System, are entirely correct in their feeling that use of the census to pry into the condition of one's kitchen and bathroom has a totalitarian potential. We have too many snoopers around, and it is good to see Sen. George McGovern at one end of the political spectrum and Sen. Strom Thurmond at the other endorsing the anti-snooper point of view that is ably set forth by the Committee for a Voluntary Census in a pronouncement that offers financial and legal assistance to anybody who refuses to answer impertinent queries.

My dilemma is that if I were to go along with the protesters and add my name to a manifesto stating that "we refuse to cooperate in any manner with the 1970 census other than to be counted as provided by the Constitution," I would be letting myself in for extended court action that might make it wholly impossible to live up to my contractual obligations as a writer.

In addition, there are other considerations that must weigh heavily on one who considers that Congress, the Supreme Court, and the Executive are doing many things every day that would have given the Founding Fathers apoplexy.

The 13th Amendment abolished involuntary servitude save as punishment for the commission of a crime, yet we draft young men to fight, which is clearly against the Amendment's wording. The General Welfare clause of the Constitution has been twisted totally out of shape to accommodate spending vast sums of tax money to promote the Specific Welfare of favored pressure groups.

The very existence of the Federal Communications Commission, which makes rules about what may be said over the air, is an affront to the First Amendment, which supposedly guarantees free speech to everybody.

If we were to strike against all the obvious infringements of our Constitutional rights, the streets would be filled, no work would be done, and government of any sort would become an impossibility.

The lugubrious fact is that, even though our representatives, our judges, and our officials are engaged, under any strict construction of the law, in a score of lawless doings every day in the week, it is necessary that we accept their stupidities and their derelictions until we can change things by peacefully persuading Congress and the courts to take a second look at their own malfeasances.

Galling as it is, we cannot keep society together if we substitute individual interpretation of the law for what the Supreme Court mistakenly says is the law. The most we can do is to broadcast our individual opinions about the misinterpretation of the Constitution that has been going on for 30 years in hopes that we can change the climate of opinion and set legislators and judges back on a Constitutional path.

I would dearly love to join my young friends in a refusal to answer the 1970 Census questions. But if I did, how could I write columns condemning rioters, arsonists, draft card burners, and the intellectuals who refuse to pay taxes to support a war fought by conscript troops?

One can't pick and choose about taking personal stands in the matter of interpreting the Constitution for one's self. To preserve the civil fabric the processes of legality must be upheld even though our lawmakers and lawgivers demonstrate every day that they cannot read our fundamental law.

WEATHER REPORTS

In response to the editorial that appeared in a recent edition of The Escanaba Daily Press concerning the U. S. Weather Bureau, I wish to bring out the facts concerning the operation of the Weather station in Escanaba.

The Weather Bureau, located in the Post Office, is currently manned by two high school students. We are searching for a third person, free at 9:30 a. m. and 12 noon, to fill a third position. An applicant must study several meteorological manuals and pass a written examination before obtaining his certificate to take weather observations. Since the two students have classes at these two times, we are, unfortunately, unable to take these observations. Other observations are taken at 6 a. m., 3 p. m., 6 p. m., and midnight.

Unfortunately, several years ago when the Weather Bureau was taken out of Escanaba, the full time meteorologist was removed. The weather station is now equipped to gather such information as temperature, wind speed and direction, high-low temperature, sea-level pressure, and precipitation. This information, along with a description of the current and past weather conditions, is sent, via teletype, to the U. S. Weather Bureau in Detroit. Based on the information gathered here and in other places in the U: P., a forecast for the Escanaba area is cofpiled. This, at times, may not be the best, but I feel it is better than having to depend on a forecast for Marquette or Sault Ste. Marie.

Forecasts are received at 6:30 a. m., 12:30 p. m., and 6:30 p. m. They are then, along with the local information, recorded on an automatic telephone answering service. Depending on the length of the forecasts, we occasionally do have to talk quickly. We have 75 seconds in which to make the tape.

I agree completely that a full time 1st order Weather Station in Escanaba is sorely needed, but I do feel the present Weather Bureau is providing a service to the people of the Escanaba Area. This is the impression I get from people with whom I have talked and by the number of times the office phone rings a day. I feel the services offered now would be missed if the station were removed completely.

ANNIVERSARY

The Escanaba League of Women Voters would like to take this opportunity to thank its supporters and other members of the community for their contributions to the League's 50th anniversary drive.

The League of Women Voters celebrated its 50th anniversary in February. The Escanaba League as well as the 39 Leagues throughout the state participated in the national, public fund raising drive to raise $11 million to expand League services and activities at all levels of government.

A special word of thanks is due the sponsor's committee, a group of Escanaba business and professional men who assisted the League in the drive, the Escanaba Daily Press, the Delta Reporter, and Radio Stations WLST and WDBC for their special contributions.

Contributions received from this drive will be used to expand and finance Escanaba League activities. Contributions beyond the needs of the local group will be sent to the national organization.

Some of the local League's activities include holding candidates' meetings before elections, distributing non-partisan information about candidates and issues, providing opportunities for voters to learn new voting procedures, and attend-City Council and School Board meetings as impartial observers. In addition the League studies vital government issues and works for those upon which it has reached agreement after careful consideration.

Once again, a sincere thank you.

2. Let's say you're South and have the A-10-5 of a suit facing the K-9-8-7-6 in dummy. How would you play this combination to give yourself the best chance for four tricks? (Assume you have all the entries you need to lead from either hand.)

1. About as good a way as any is to ruff the spade and cash four high trumps, discarding the ace of hearts from dummy. Now cash the K-Q of hearts, discarding the A-K of diamonds from dummy. Concede a diamond to the queen and the rest of the tricks are yours.

2. Obviously, if the suit is divided 3-2, it is easy to make four tricks, so you start by assuming a 4-1 or 5-0 division.

The best way of catering to both these possibilities is to lead dummy's six and duck if East follows low.

Let's first consider the 5-0 division. If East has all of them, the six wins and you continue with the seven to assure four winners. If West has all five, East shows out on the six and you go up with the ace, return the ten, and again you are sure of four tricks.

The problem is more complicated if the suit is divided 4-1. The only cases that matter are those where West has Q-J-4-3, Q-J-4-2, Q-J-3-2, the singleton 4, 3 or 2, or the singleton queen or jack. Leading the six and letting it run wins in the first six cases and loses in the last two. (If the six loses to West's queen or jack, you plan to lead the ace next.)

Many players attack this combination by playing the ace and then the ten, planning to finesse if no honor has appeared, but this method of play is successful in only five of the eight pertinent cases (the first three and the last two). On top of that, these players lose when there is a 5-0 division and East has all five.

Wearing Hairpiece Keeps Man Guessing

Dear Ann Landers: Now that men's hairpieces are becoming more popular, I'm sure you'll be getting this problem from a good many male readers. I'm a bachelor with a fairly active social life. I wear a toupee.

Problem One: When a woman starts to run her fingers through your hair, what do I say?

Second Problem: Most women prefer to skip the preliminaries and go straight to bed. What should I do?

My toupee is well fastened to my head but I would not risk sleeping in it. I experimented one night while sleeping alone and awakened to find my hairpiece under the pillow.

How does a man tell a woman that the hair she has been admiring is not his own?— Urbana

Dear Urb: Do you really need a hairpiece? You sound as if you need a bodyguard.

Have you heard of the new type toupee that stays on during hurricanes? The hair is embedded in a plastic shield and held to the head by adhesive pads rather than glue.

I am not selling hairpieces this season so please don't ask the brand name or where it can be obtained. And this goes for all readers who are interested.

Dear Ann Landers: A midnight phone call informed me that my sister lay near death in a hospital. Her husband had taken her there after she began to hemorrhage following a botched abortion by a barber. I write this letter after a second call five days later saying, "She will make it."

My sister was not an unwed mother. She is 31 and has three children. Her husband approved of the abortion. Their proved the abortion. Their three youngsters are under six years of age. Illness and unemployment put them in a bad financial bind. They just could not see having a fourth child at this time. The barber had performed hundreds of successful abortions, according to their information, but this time something went wrong.

How many times must this tragic story be repeated before we can get some humane laws passed in this country? Why do American women have to go to Japan and Sweden and Mexico and London? Why must this be a matter for the government? What could be more personal than the decision to have a child or not to have one?

I hope you will take a stand on this issue immediately. — Sister's Champion

Dear Champion: I have taken a stand. Twice. I've gone on record in favor of the sharp revision of existing abortion laws. The laws in most states now are highly unrealistic and cruelly discriminatory against the poor. Moreover, the bad laws force physicians to make false statements regarding the dangers which might result from the birth of a child. Public sentiment is slowly but surely turning in this direction and I say it's high time. Congratulations to Hawaii. They have recently passed the best abortion legislation of all. How lovely that the last should be first!

Misdirected Effort

The Delta County Board of Supervisors, now the Board of Commissioners, earlier this month passed a resolution requesting legislation to repeal the state law requiring county boards to publish the minutes of all board meetings in a general circulation newspaper.

In place of newspaper publication, the board suggests that it be required "to prepare a report of its proceedings immediately after each session and copies of these reports shall be made available to anyone who desires same at the Delta County Clerk's office or other designated place."

Reasons for the request, according to the resolution, are that the present published report "serves a questionable few readers who could just as well secure these reports from the clerk's office or other designated places in the county . . . the board has found it difficult to receive satisfactory or prompt service in this function and the cost of such printing is an ever increasing budgetary item, and . . . meetings are open to the press and radio and news media are always present to report on the proceedings."

Fortunately, the requirement to publish minutes is contained in a state law and does not fall within the jurisdiction of the county board. The thinking behind the law is much sounder than the resolution passed unanimously by Delta County's five supervisors.

Undoubtedly there would be a savings — last year the county paid the Delta Reporter of Gladstone $1,199 for publication of minutes — but the expenditure is a minor item when matched against the benefits of honest government conducted under the scrutiny of the public. There may not be more than a few who take the time to wade through the offciial minutes each month, but the mere requirement that minutes be published puts the county board on notice that its deliberations are public matters.

A "report" of the type suggested by the county board is immediately suspect because there is no guarantee that the report would be anywhere near as complete as official minutes must be.

There also is faulty reasoning in the thought that the meetings are open to the public, press and radio and that the "news media are always present." Seldom do more than a few citizens show up for a board meeting — there were meetings last year when the only observer present was a newspaper reporter — and even the news media is not "always" present. The Daily Press, for example, which has been the most faithful of the various area news outlets in reporting on county board proceedings in its news columns, was not present at the Rapid River meeting when the board passed the resolution in question.

It is not the function of a newspaper or radio station to serve as an official organ for the county board or any other governmental unit. Reports on meetings are published and broadcast, but they are necessarily selective, and no effort is made to detail every item of business transacted. Indeed, the official language of resolutions approved sometimes isn't available until days after the meeting.

The Board of Supervisors, rather than attempt to silence one of its few links with the public, might well consider some effort at expanding its communication.

Action by the board to schedule its meetings at various sites around the county to make itself more accessible to the people was a move in the right direction. But instead of trying to shorten up on its public reports, the board should consider expanding them. There also could be more effort put into advance information on meetings, specifying what business will be discussed and how it relates to the community.

Good government is government by the people. It serves no purpose to deal the people out except for a few hours on election day.

"I LIKE TO MAKE MY FRIENDS HAPPY!"

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some of my young conservative and libertarian friends have put me on the spot.

They are taking a stand that many of the questions contained in the 1970 Census Form, which everybody will have received now that the mail has started flowing again, cannot legally be asked because they are an unconstitutional invasion of privacy. The Constitution, so it is argued, provides for nothing more than a plain count of the population every 10 years. Nothing about tabulations of flush toilets, or electric dishwashers, or the assessed valuation of one's house.

My friends fear that the "answers to the questions posed in the Census will be turned over to other government agencies in order to harass the citizenry."

And the portentous conclusion is drawn that the information might be included in a "newly created National Data Bank and later used to compile a dossier on every citizen in this nation."

It could be that the protesters, many of whom are directors of such organizations as Young Americans for Freedom, the United Republicans of America, and the Youth Advisory Committee on the Selective Service System, are entirely correct in their feeling that use of the census to pry into the condition of one's kitchen and bathroom has a totalitarian potential. We have too many snoopers around, and it is good to see Sen. George McGovern at one end of the political spectrum and Sen. Strom Thurmond at the other endorsing the anti-snooper point of view that is ably set forth by the Committee for a Voluntary Census in a pronouncement that offers financial and legal assistance to anybody who refuses to answer impertinent queries.

My dilemma is that if I were to go along with the protesters and add my name to a manifesto stating that "we refuse to cooperate in any manner with the 1970 census other than to be counted as provided by the Constitution," I would be letting myself in for extended court action that might make it wholly impossible to live up to my contractual obligations as a writer.

2. Obviously, if the suit is divided 3-2, it is easy to make four tricks, so you start by assuming a 4-1 or 5-0 division.

The best way of catering to both these possibilities is to lead dummy's six and duck if East follows low.

Let's first consider the 5-0 division. If East has all of them, the six wins and you continue with the seven to assure four winners. If West has all five, East shows out on the six and you go up with the ace, return the ten, and again you are sure of four tricks.

The problem is more complicated if the suit is divided 4-1. The only cases that matter are those where West has Q-J-4-3, Q-J-4-2, Q-J-3-2, the singleton 4, 3 or 2, or the singleton queen or jack. Leading the six and letting it run wins in the first six cases and loses in the last two. (If the six loses to West's queen or jack, you plan to lead the ace next.)

Many players attack this combination by playing the ace and then the ten, planning to finesse if no honor has appeared, but this method of play is successful in only five of the eight pertinent cases (the first three and the last two). On top of that, these players lose when there is a 5-0 division and East has all five.

Night-flying moths use the moon as a beacon, National Geographic says. By keeping the lunar image at a fixed angle on the eye's retina, they can maintain fairly straight courses. When they make use of an electric map or a candle flame, however, moths fly in ever smaller circles until they crash into the light source.

Wearing Hairpiece Keeps Man Guessing

Dear Ann Landers: Now that men's hairpieces are becoming more popular, I'm sure you'll be getting this problem from a good many male readers. I'm a bachelor with a fairly active social life. I wear a toupee.

Problem One: When a woman starts to run her fingers through your hair, what do I say?

Second Problem: Most women prefer to skip the preliminaries and go straight to bed. What should I do?

My toupee is well fastened to my head but I would not risk sleeping in it. I experimented one night while sleeping alone and awakened to find my hairpiece under the pillow.

How does a man tell a woman that the hair she has been admiring is not his own?—Urbana

Dear Urb: Do you really need a hairpiece? You sound as if you need a bodyguard.

Have you heard of the new type toupee that stays on during hurricanes? The hair is embedded in a plastic shield and held to the head by adhesive pads rather than glue.

I am not selling hairpieces this season so please don't ask the brand name or where it can be obtained. And this goes for all readers who are interested.

Dear Ann Landers: A midnight phone call informed me that my sister lay near death in a hospital. Her husband had taken her there after she began to hemorrhage following a botched abortion by a barber. I write this letter after a second call five days later saying, "She will make it."

My sister was not an unwed mother. She is 31 and has three children. Her husband approved of the abortion. Their proved the abortion. Their three youngsters are under six years of age. Illness and unemployment put them in a bad financial bind. They just could not see having a fourth child at this time. The barber had performed hundreds of successful abortions, according to their information, but this time something went wrong.

How many times must this tragic story be repeated before we can get some humane laws passed in this country? Why do American women have to go to Japan and Sweden and Mexico and London? Why must this be a matter for the government? What could be more personal than the decision to have a child or not to have one?

I hope you will take a stand on this issue immediately. — Sister's Champion

Dear Champion: I have taken a stand. Twice. I've gone on record in favor of the sharp revision of existing abortion laws. The laws in most states now are highly unrealistic and cruelly discriminatory against the poor. Moreover, the bad laws force physicians to make false statements regarding the dangers which might result from the birth of a child. Public sentiment is slowly but surely turning in this direction and I say it's high time. Congratulations to Hawaii. They have recently passed the best abortion legislation of all. How lovely that the last should be first!

City Holds To Act 345 Policy On Retirement

Escanaba Fire Capt. Ernest Guindon, who has 27 years service with the Escanaba Fire Department, will retire on April 23 at the age of 60.

The retirement will be in compliance with a directive by City Manager George Harvey under the provisions of Act 345, despite Guindon's effort to continue his employment past age 60.

Guindon was represented at last night's Council meeting by Atty. Nino Green. He said he thought the city should base retirement policy on individual cases, considering the person's health, rank, seniority, responsibility and other factors.

The Council, after considerable discussion and after hearing representatives of the fire and police department employes say they wanted the Counicl to continue the present policy, unanimously ratified administration policy on police-fire retirement at age 60.

Group Decision

James Christensen, representing the firemen, and Robert Garvelle, representing the police officers, said police-fire employes "back the city policy 100 per cent for retirement at age 60."

Their statements were made to the council at the invitation of Councilman Edward J. Cox, who said he felt the employe groups, and not an individual, should be consulted on whether a policy change is wanted.

Cox asked Christensen and Gravelle if they were "intimidated by City Manager Harvey or the Council" in advance of their statements and they replied: "Not in any way."

In other business the Council:

Approved at the request of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission license reclassifications for five taverns, despite a request for a delay by a group of licensees, the Escanaba Liquor Vendors. The Council expressed amused bewilderment at the request for the delay until after the city election on Monday.

Act On Licenses

"If we tabled this it would sure as the dickens not be because of the election," smiled Mayor Cecil B. Chase.

Reclassification to Class C tavern, subject to police approval was granted to Bay View Tavern, Bay de Noc Tavern, Spars', the Palm, and Bonamer's.

Council accepted a petition from residents of S. 9th St. between 3rd Ave. S. and 6th Ave. S. for the reconstruction of the street surface. The city hopes to include $25,000 in the budget for the work this year, said Harvey.

Adopted a resolution calling upon the public to cooperate in the observance of Cancer Control Week, April 6-11, which consicides with the Crusade campaign of the Delta County Cancer Society.

A CHECK FOR $1,000 from the Richard Lewis Memorial Fund to purchase printing equipment for the Escanaba Area public schools was presented to the school system Thursday. Richard Lewis, a 1967 graduate of the high school, was a student of printing and had been employed by the Delta Reporter of Gladstone before entering military service. He was killed in Vietnam. Members of the family said "he would have wanted they money to be used this way." The presentation was made around one of two light tables purchased as a memorial to Richard Lewis. Joining the presentation were, from left, Robert Micensky, principal of the high school; Dennis Foltman, printing instructor; Mrs. Richard Lewis, widow of the young soldier; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lewis of Escanaba, his parents, and Luther M. Barrett, superintendent of schools who accepted the memorial check on behalf of the school system. (Daily Press Photo)

Spring Shudders Under Blanket Of Michigan Snow

closings failed to approach the number reported a week earlier. However, the number of closings might have been far greater if many schools had not been marking spring vacation.

Depths of up to 10 inches were reported over much of an area from Lansing west to Lake Michigan and south into Indiana.

Grand Rapids reported eight inches of snow, while Flint and Saginaw each had eight. Three inches fell in Detroit and the heavy snow and reduced visibility forced closing of Detroit Metropolitan Airport briefly during the afternoon.

Flights Interrupted

Airports in Battle Creek and Grand Rapids had flights interrupted by the storm but resumed operations in the afternoon. Railroads and bus lines reported delays due to the storm but service was returning to normal late in the day.

Ironically, the storm was predicted—at least by the old farmer's almanac, which also pinpointed the storm a week earlier.

Today's forecast called for continued cold temperatures but no additional heavy snowfall. Some snow was forecast for areas in the northern lower peninsula, which missed the brunt of Thursday's storm.

Two In Court In Fish Case

Two men charged in connection with a confrontation between citizens and Department of Natural Resources officers at Fairport Tuesday appeared in District Court in Delta County this morning.

Emil D. Vetter Jr., 35, of Fairport, pleaded innocent to a charge of engaging in commercial fishing operation without a proper license. He was released on $100 personal recognizance bond to appear for trial at a date to be set later by the court.

Leslie Ranguette, 30, of Fairport, who was charged with being a disorderly person and also with obstructing, resisting and opposing Department of Natural Resources officers while they were engaged in the process of monitoring commercial fishing operations, also eppeared before Judge Dean Shipman.

Arraignment on the disorderly charge was delayed pending appointment by the court of an attorney. Ranguette also requested a preliminary examination on the obstruction charge. He was releasd on $500 personal recognizance bond.

Seven other men who also were involved in the incident have been charged, according to Prosecuting Attorney John Beauchamp. They have been asked to appear voluntarily in District Court.

In another conservation case, Allen J. Kossow, 32, of Rte. 1, Gladstone, pleaded no contest to a charge of possession of a loaded gun in an automobile and a plea of guilty automatically was entered for him by the court. He was ordered to pay a $25 fine and $16 court costs or serve eight days in the county jail. Kossow originally had pleaded innocent to the charge. He was arrested in December, officers said.

Whereabouts Of Rap Brown Still 'Big Mystery'

just south of Bel Air on the road to Baltimore. In the wreckage were the bodies of two friends of Brown—Ralph E. Featherstone and William H. "Che" Payne.

"There are three possibilities," Kunstler said recently. "One, that he was taken out of the blown-up car before it was blown up and has been kept somewhere—kidnaped—or murdered. That's the theory that worries Mrs. Brown the most.

Bombing Theory

"Two, the theory of the authorities: that the two men blew themselves up while carrying a device with some nefarious purpose—perhaps to bomb the nearby state troopers' barracks—and that Rap was not involved.

"Or three, that he's underground, in or out of the U.S."

Kunstler said he was inclined to doubt the third theory. Brown "could have split," he said, "although it's not likely in my mind."

Appealing Sentence

He noted that Brown had always shown up at every previous trial, "even at a much headier time — when he was a much more hunted man than now."

Brown 26, is appealing a five-year prison sentence for violating the federal firearms act. He was convicted in 1968 in New Orleans. The terms of his bail limited his travel to New York, except for trial appearances.

If he fails to appear for the Maryland trial, the judge may declare his $10,000 bail forfeit.

The defense unsuccessfully pleaded for an indefinite adjournment on grounds that Brown could not be found.

Gainers, Losers Even In Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed in moderately active trading early today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down .53 at 791.84 this morning.

Gainers and losers were about even among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some analysts say the late-session downdrift Thursday may be the pause necessary for some strength gathering before a major assault on the 800 resistance level in the Dow.

A broker said further lateral movement might be required before enough momentum to hit 800 from the current level is generated.

The market followed an indecisive pattern Thursday after flirting with a modest gain early in the session. Slightly higher volume was looked upon as a favorable sign, however.

City Holds To Act 345 Policy On Retirement

Escanaba Fire Capt. Ernest Guindon, who has 27 years service with the Escanaba Fire Department, will retire on April 23 at the age of 60.

The retirement will be in compliance with a directive by City Manager George Harvey under the provisions of Act 345, despite Guindon's effort to continue his employment past age 60.

Guindon was represented at last night's Council meeting by Atty. Nino Green. He said he thought the city should base retirement policy on individual cases, considering the person's health, rank, seniority, responsibility and other factors.

The Council, after considerable discussion and after hearing representatives of the fire and police department employes say they wanted the Counicl to continue the present policy, unanimously ratified administration policy on police-fire retirement at age 60.

Group Decision

James Christensen, representing the firemen, and Robert Garvelle, representing the police officers, said police-fire employes "back the city policy 100 per cent for retirement at age 60."

Their statements were made to the council at the invitation of Councilman Edward J. Cox, who said he felt the employe groups, and not an individual, should be consulted on whether a policy change is wanted.

Cox asked Christensen and Gravelle if they were "intimidated by City Manager Harvey or the Council" in advance of their statements and they replied: "Not in any way."

In other business the Council:

Approved at the request of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission license reclassifications for five taverns, despite a request for a delay by a group of licensees, the Escanaba Liquor Vendors. The Council expressed amused bewilderment at the request for the delay until after the city election on Monday.

Act On Licenses

"If we tabled this it would sure as the dickens not be because of the election," smiled Mayor Cecil B. Chase.

Reclassification to Class C tavern, subject to police approval was granted to Bay View Tavern, Bay de Noc Tavern, Spars', the Palm, and Bonamer's.

Council accepted a petition from residents of S. 9th St. between 3rd Ave. S. and 6th Ave. S. for the reconstruction of the street surface. The city hopes to include $25,000 in the budget for the work this year, said Harvey.

Adopted a resolution calling upon the public to cooperate in the observance of Cancer Control Week, April 6-11, which consicides with the Crusade campaign of the Delta County Cancer Society.

A CHECK FOR $1,000 from the Richard Lewis Memorial Fund to purchase printing equipment for the Escanaba Area public schools was presented to the school system Thursday. Richard Lewis, a 1967 graduate of the high school, was a student of printing and had been employed by the Delta Reporter of Gladstone before entering military service. He was killed in Vietnam. Members of the family said "he would have wanted they money to be used this way." The presentation was made around one of two light tables purchased as a memorial to Richard Lewis. Joining the presentation were, from left, Robert Micensky, principal of the high school; Dennis Foltman, printing instructor; Mrs. Richard Lewis, widow of the young soldier; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lewis of Escanaba, his parents, and Luther M. Barrett, superintendent of schools who accepted the memorial check on behalf of the school system. (Daily Press Photo) closings failed to approach the number reported a week earlier. However, the number of closings might have been far greater if many schools had not been marking spring vacation.

Depths of up to 10 inches were reported over much of an area from Lansing west to Lake Michigan and south into Indiana.

Grand Rapids reported eight inches of snow, while Flint and Saginaw each had eight. Three inches fell in Detroit and the heavy snow and reduced visibility forced closing of Detroit Metropolitan Airport briefly during the afternoon.

Flights Interrupted

Airports in Battle Creek and Grand Rapids had flights interrupted by the storm but resumed operations in the afternoon. Railroads and bus lines reported delays due to the storm but service was returning to normal late in the day.

Ironically, the storm was predicted—at least by the old farmer's almanac, which also pinpointed the storm a week earlier.

Today's forecast called for continued cold temperatures but no additional heavy snowfall. Some snow was forecast for areas in the northern lower peninsula, which missed the brunt of Thursday's storm.

Two In Court In Fish Case

Two men charged in connection with a confrontation between citizens and Department of Natural Resources officers at Fairport Tuesday appeared in District Court in Delta County this morning.

Emil D. Vetter Jr., 35, of Fairport, pleaded innocent to a charge of engaging in commercial fishing operation without a proper license. He was released on $100 personal recognizance bond to appear for trial at a date to be set later by the court.

Leslie Ranguette, 30, of Fairport, who was charged with being a disorderly person and also with obstructing, resisting and opposing Department of Natural Resources officers while they were engaged in the process of monitoring commercial fishing operations, also appeared before Judge Dean Shipman.

Arraignment on the disorderly charge was delayed pending appointment by the court of an attorney. Ranguette also requested a preliminary examination on the obstruction charge. He was releasd on $500 personal recognizance bond.

Seven other men who also were involved in the incident have been charged, according to Prosecuting Attorney John Beauchamp. They have been asked to appear voluntarily in District Court.

In another conservation case, Allen J. Kossow, 32, of Rte. 1, Gladstone, pleaded no contest to a charge of possession of a loaded gun in an automobile and a plea of guilty automatically was entered for him by the court. He was ordered to pay a $25 fine and $16 court costs or serve eight days in the county jail. Kossow originally had pleaded innocent to the charge. He was arrested in December, officers said.

just south of Bel Air on the road to Baltimore. In the wreckage were the bodies of two friends of Brown—Ralph E. Featherstone and William H. "Che" Payne.

"There are three possibilities," Kunstler said recently. "One, that he was taken out of the blown-up car before it was blown up and has been kept somewhere—kidnaped—or murdered. That's the theory that worries Mrs. Brown the most.

Bombing Theory

"Two, the theory of the authorities: that the two men blew themselves up while carrying a device with some nefarious purpose—perhaps to bomb the nearby state troopers' barracks—and that Rap was not involved.

"Or three, that he's underground, in or out of the U.S."

Kunstler said he was inclined to doubt the third theory. Brown "could have split," he said, "although it's not likely in my mind."

Appealing Sentence

He noted that Brown had always shown up at every previous trial, "even at a much headier time — when he was a much more hunted man than now."

Brown 26, is appealing a five-year prison sentence for violating the federal firearms act. He was convicted in 1968 in New Orleans. The terms of his bail limited his travel to New York, except for trial appearances.

If he fails to appear for the Maryland trial, the judge may declare his $10,000 bail forfeit.

The defense unsuccessfully pleaded for an indefinite adjournment on grounds that Brown could not be found.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Because the inside of a bureau drawer is rarely finished, it is highly susceptible to excessive moisture and excessive dryness. The resulting expansions and contractions cause the drawer to perform erratically at certain times of the year, the exact periods being determined by the conditions inside the home.

The most common bureau drawer trouble is binding. The drawer sticks when you open it and sticks when you close it. Unless it has come apart at some point, it is binding because moisture has entered the wood, swelling and warping it so that it will not move smoothly.

In many cases, this condition can be cured simply by rubbing paraffin or some other lubricant along the sliding edges. Do not make the common mistake of using soap, which may make the drawer slide more easily but will permit additional moisture to enter the wood, causing new trouble later on.

If the lubricant fails to work, it may be necessary to sand both the drawer edges and the slides, then reapply the lubricant. Take off only as much wood as needed, otherwise you will wind up with a drawer that is ill-fitting even though it opens and closes without binding. Because of this possibility, planing should be attempted only as a last resort. This type of remedy requires a very fine touch to be certain that too much wood is not removed.

Sometimes you will find that the bottom of the drawer has come out of its groove, a condition usually caused by placing heavy objects in the drawer. In that event you will have to determine how to make the repair depending on how bad the damage is. Be sure, too, that the frame which holds the drawer has not come loose at some point.

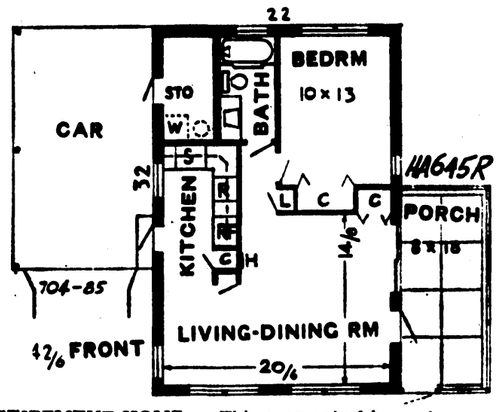

When a drawer opens partially but will not yield to moderate pressure, it can be loosened with the use of heat. This can come from an electric bulb carefully placed in the opening until the wood shrinks or by keeping the entire bureau overnight in a room where there is a space heater or a dehumidifier. But first be certain that the cause of the stoppage isn't an object inside the drawer rather than warpage of the wood. The offender usually can be dislodged by a little patient poking around or by first removing another drawer. If it can't, remember that the backs of many bureaus usually are held in place with small screws or nails and can be easily removed.

Bureau drawers can be prevented from binding by giving all unfinished parts a coat of clear sealer. If you decide to do this, first remove all traces of paraffin or other lubricant, which can be reapplied after the sealer has dried.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

RETIREMENT HOME — This economical home is compact, but it has spacious rooms. The kitchen has an L-shaped counter and there is a storage room combined with a laundry corner. Sliding doors separate the living room and the porch. The modern look of this one bedroom house is achieved by means of the somple, angular lines of the windows and the porch framing. Plan HA645R, with 704 square feet of living space, requires a minimum lot of 55 ft. by 75 ft. It was designed by architect Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

By ANDY LANG

Q. — We are having a house built soon and want to eliminate something we have in our present home — the noise of water flowing through the thin walls, lack of insulation insulation, etc. How can we be sure that the same thing will not happen in our new house?

A. — Explain your fears to your contractor and he will explain to you what steps can be taken to achieve the degree of sound conditioning you want. Don't be surprised, however, if he tells you that the use of extra or different materials will add to the total cost of the house, although it will be a good investment to achieve your objective. More and more, builders are finding that buyers are willing to pay something extra to control noises. One product being used is brushed directly onto the plumbing lines while a house is being built and is said to stay pliable with the expansion and contraction of the pipes.

Q. — I recently bought some power tools and have started to make small wooden objects. I intend to branch out soon and begin making larger things, like furniture. An old woodworker tells me there is nothing like vegetable glue which is heated before using. Is he right?

A. — This type of glue is not too practical for home use, since it requires special equipment for heating and applying. You're better off to use one of the many modern glues on the market, each of which has special properties for special purposes and none of which has to be heated before using. Even the old-time cabinet makers, who made extensive use of glues that had to be heated, are switching to the new types of adhesive.

Plexiglas In Sheets Has Many Uses

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Plexiglas in sheets — transparent, white, colored — has been made available to lumber yards, hardware stores and other outlets. It is ideal for making cube tables, display racks, picture frames and other objects.

For example, you may make the popular five-sided transparent cube. An 18-inch cube that sells for about $60 in stores may be made for about $15, plus the cost of sanding materials and adhesive. Plexiglas prices vary from store to store on ready-made items, but there should be quite a saving if you do it yourself.

Patience is the key ingredient in making the cube. But you'll need digital dexterity and time.

A cube looks simple, but when you are putting five sides together permanently, many things come into play — sheets must be supported carefully as you work and the adhesive must be applied so that the sides are secure and there are no dribbles on the material.

It may be a good idea to make a small cube (4 inches) before you begin a large one. The smaller cube can be a model that may be referred to while the large cube is being made. Hopefully, you will not make twice, the same mistake.

You may decide not to make a large cube after experimenting with a small one. If you do, the small cube will not have been a total loss — use it to display something on a table.

An experienced do-it-yourselfer with the knack of interpreting the nunances of manufacturer's directions will have little trouble with directions and illustrations that should be available at stores where the material is sold.

Here are directions used by a husband-wife do-it-yourself team, who made a pretty five-sided 18-inch cube of one-quarter inch material in less than two hours.

All four edges of the top (18¼ inch) piece and two adjacent edges of each of the other four pieces should be sanded and polished. That will leave two adjacent sanded, unpolished sides on each of the four 18-inch pieces. They are the sides that will be cemented and will not show when the cube is made.

To refinish the sides: First sand the edges with medium grit (60-80) paper. Follow with a sanding of "wet or dry" 150 grit sandpaper. Then sand with grits of 400. The polished sides are buffed with a clean muslin wheel attachment on the end of a standard electric drill which should be dressed with a good grade of fine grit buffing compound or jeweler's rouge. If you like, finish it with a clean, soft buffing wheel.

Masking paper should be peeled off acrylic sheets. Put two pieces together this way: Stand them on edge (right angle) two polished edges are on top. Fit one sanded side edge into the side of the other panel so that the transparent side edge may be seen and the sanded edge hidden. Use masking tape in several places to hold the edges secure. Add the other two pieces in the same way so that your box has four polished side edges showing with masking tape holding it together securely. If you have made a mistake, there is time to correct it.

Plexiglas requires special cement, available at the same outlets. The liquid may run like water. Transfer a small amount of it to a squirt-top container that can be controlled easily, or use an eye dropper or an oil can with a very fine spout.

Place the cube with sanded edges down on top of the 18¼ inch top. Masking tape should be placed a several places near the corners to hold cube to top in position.

Apply cement to the joints where the narrow sanded edges of the side panels rest on the table top, starting at the corner, inside the cube. Hold a cloth in the other hand to wipe up any adhesive that spills.

Let the top dry for about 15 minutes before proceeding with the sides. Now, turn the cube on a side and run cement along the joint. Do the same with the other sides. You may then remove the masking tape.

A second pair of hands is very helpful in making the large cube. One person can hold it in place while the other person applies the masking tape or cement.

Towns, Cities Seen As Sparring Mates In Pollution Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The head of a giant corporation supported the threat of fines and penalties against industries and others Thursday in the nationwide battle against air and water pollution.

Herbert D. Doan, president of Dow Chemical Co., said that at the same time it should be the cities and towns that apply the pressure to clean up.

"I would just as soon see the federal government let the municipalities" get the job done, Doan told a news conference at the National Pollution Control Convention and Exposition.

Doan congratulated agitators for environmental cleanup "who are in the front lines, holding the fort, until the reinforcements arrived." He referred to the outcry against pollution which has forced the attention of government, industry and the populace.

"The din will die down," Doan added, "but I hope and expect not until the level of money and effort has been increased substantially."

Addressing some 1,000 participants in the three-day convention, Doan called for a rethinking of America's institutional processes ... a reworking of "management of interrelationships," and a new understanding that change must take place.

The very technology that contributed to pollution can be turned to solve the problems, he said.

"The causes of environmental problems contain the solution to the problem — the solution lies in man, in his awareness, in using his numbers and his technology to solve the problem."

The convention, sponsored by the Houston Junior Chamber of Commerce, has brought together manufacturers of devices to monitor and eliminate pollution, researchers and technologists who offer designs of plants to cope with poisonous effluents, and executives of corporations which have a stake in the environmental question.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Because the inside of a bureau drawer is rarely finished, it is highly susceptible to excessive moisture and excessive dryness. The resulting expansions and contractions cause the drawer to perform erratically at certain times of the year, the exact periods being determined by the conditions inside the home.

The most common bureau drawer trouble is binding. The drawer sticks when you open it and sticks when you close it. Unless it has come apart at some point, it is binding because moisture has entered the wood, swelling and warping it so that it will not move smoothly.

In many cases, this condition can be cured simply by rubbing paraffin or some other lubricant along the sliding edges. Do not make the common mistake of using soap, which may make the drawer slide more easily but will permit additional moisture to enter the wood, causing new trouble later on.

If the lubricant fails to work, it may be necessary to sand both the drawer edges and the slides, then reapply the lubricant. Take off only as much wood as needed, otherwise you will wind up with a drawer that is ill-fitting even though it opens and closes without binding. Because of this possibility, planing should be attempted only as a last resort. This type of remedy requires a very fine touch to be certain that too much wood is not removed.

Sometimes you will find that the bottom of the drawer has come out of its groove, a condition usually caused by placing heavy objects in the drawer. In that event you will have to determine how to make the repair depending on how bad the damage is. Be sure, too, that the frame which holds the drawer has not come loose at some point.

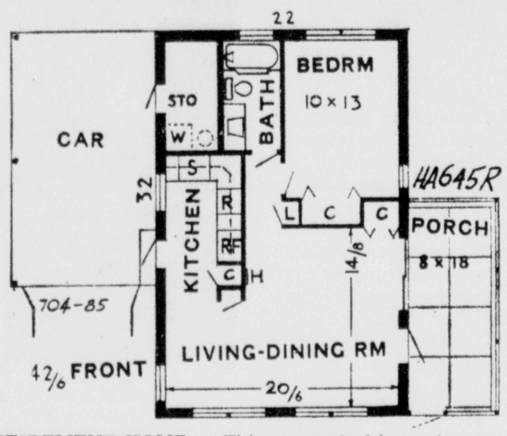

When a drawer opens partially but will not yield to moderate pressure, it can be loosened with the use of heat. This can come from an electric bulb carefully placed in the opening until the wood shrinks or by keeping the entire bureau overnight in a room where there is a space heater or a dehumidifier. But first be certain that the cause of the stoppage isn't an object inside the drawer rather than warpage of the wood. The offender usually can be dislodged by a little patient poking around or by first removing another drawer. If it can't, remember that the backs of many bureaus usually are held in place with small screws or nails and can be easily removed.

Bureau drawers can be prevented from binding by giving all unfinished parts a coat of clear sealer. If you decide to do this, first remove all traces of paraffin or other lubricant, which can be reapplied after the sealer has dried.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

RETIREMENT HOME — This economical home is compact, but it has spacious rooms. The kitchen has an L-shaped counter and there is a storage room combined with a laundry corner. Sliding doors separate the living room and the porch. The modern look of this one bedroom house is achieved by means of the sompple, angular lines of the windows and the porch framing. Plan HA645R, with 704 square feet of living space, requires a minimum lot of 55 ft. by 75 ft. It was designed by architect Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710.

Q. — We are having a house built soon and want to eliminate something we have in our present home — the noise of water flowing through the thin walls, lack of insulation insulation, etc. How can we be sure that the same thing will not happen in our new house?

A. — Explain your fears to your contractor and he will explain to you what steps can be taken to achieve the degree of sound conditioning you want. Don't be surprised, however, if he tells you that the use of extra or different materials will add to the total cost of the house, although it will be a good investment to achieve your objective. More and more, builders are finding that buyers are willing to pay something extra to control noises. One product being used is brushed directly onto the plumbing lines while a house is being built and is said to stay pliable with the expansion and contraction of the pipes.

Interesting Roof On Ranch

RESTRAINT AND SOPHISTICATION are combined in this contemporary ranch, which utilizes vertical siding, special windows and interesting roof to produce a house that is "different" yet has clean architectural lines.

By ANDY LANG

Continuity of design is evident in this crisp-looking contemporary ranch, intended for a family requiring three or four bedrooms and for placement on a lot with a fairly sizable frontage.

Inside, directly behind the spacious foyer, is a sunken living room with a tray-beamed sloped ceiling and a two-way stone fireplace. On the foyer and dining room sides of the living room are decorative wrought iron railings. Sliding glass doors lead to a patio area. All in all, a most impressive room for either the family or guests.

Modern in every respect is the combined kitchen - family room to the left of the foyer. There's plenty of space here for informal meals and relaxation. The kitchen area alone is almost 18' long, completely equipped with sink, dishwasher, counter-top range, wall oven with a metal ventilating hood, refrigerator and an abundance of cabinets. A planning desk which could include anything from writing materials, recipe books, telephone or intercom is shown between the kitchen and family room section.

A laundry-mud room is next to the kitchen and has access to the two-car garage and the rear. While the plans show the garage doors to the front, the floor plan includes an alternate side entrance where the width of the lot permits. Architect William G. Chirgotis has another suggestion: if the house is built on a sloping lot, the garage can be located under the bedroom wing. In that event, the lot could have less frontage than if the garage were located at the left side of the house.

To the right of the living room is a room that could be used as a den or a fourth bedroom. Like the master bedroom and the living room, it has sliding glass doors to the rear patio. The master bedroom suite includes a dressing area with two closets, one a walk-in, and a private bath that has a full-width sliding door bathtub glass enclosure and a recessed vanity. The hall bath, with dual entry, is a divided room with a mirrored double-basin vanity and overtub shower. There is plenty of closet space in the bedroom wing which, as previously mentioned, has a skylight over its central foyer. Two bedrooms are at the front.

With its natural v-joint siding, long sweeping silhouette hip roof and tapered skylight, large front and continuous ribbon-windows, Design S-39 has a pleasant contemporary appearance matched by the modern, spacious look on the inside.

FLOOR PLAN: Large foyer gives an immediate long view of the living room. There's a similar vista to the left of the foyer, where the family room and the kitchen flow into each other, using only a planning desk as a partial divider.

S-39 STATISTICS

Design S-39 has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen, laundry, foyer, four bedrooms and two bathrooms. The habitable area totals 2218 square feet. Over-all dimensions, including the two-car garage, are 91' 4" by 40' 8". If the garage is placed under the bedroom wing, the dimensions change to 67' 4" by 40' 8". In that case, the stairway in the foyer would lead to the underground garage as well as the basement.

Hijacked Plane N. Korea Bound

SEOUL (AP) — Young Japanese ultra-leftists who hijacked a jet airliner to Korea Tuesday released 103 persons in Seoul today, took a Japanese government official aboard as hostage and then took off for North Korea.

Among the 99 passengers and four stewardesses freed after 79 hours' captivity were two American men living in Tokyo, Pepsi Cola executive Herbert Brill of New York and the Rev. Daniel MacDonald of San Francisco. The rest were Japanese.

Q.—We have grown tired of the wallpaper design in our bedroom and have decided to paint over it. The paper is securely attached to the wall and I don't think there will be any problem about it coming loose. What I want to know is whether any special type of paint must be used. The paper has a kind of light rose color. Will I have to put on two coats? Will the color in the paper bleed through?

A.—Generally, it is not a good idea to apply latex paint over wallpaper, since the water in the paint might loosen the paper. However, you can solve this problem and at the same time insure against the color coming through by applying a first coat of aluminum paint. One coat of your selected color then may be sufficient, but you'll have to judge for yourself after the paint has been applied and allowed to dry. Either latex or solvent-thinned paint may be used over the aluminum covering.

Q.—Our large wooden salad bowl, which we have had for many years, is losing whatever finish it had. How can it be refinished so that no taste of the finishing material will get into the salad?

A.—Rub the bowl with a very fine grade of sandpaper. Brush away all grit. Apply linseed oil to the inside and outside surfaces, wiping off any excess. Using a dry, clean cloth, rub the oil well into the wood. Place the bowl where fresh air can get at it and leave it there for a couple of days. It then is ready for use. The finish will last a long time if the bowl is dried immediately each time it is washed with cold water. Never let it soak in water and never, never put it in a dishwasher.

When using a paint roller, the excess paint should be rolled off on the ridges in the tray. A further precaution to prevent dripping while the paint is being applied is to make the first stroke an upward one.

A reader tells us he rejuvenated an old piano by covering it with wallpaper which blended with the paper on the wall of the room in which the piano was located. He said the wallpaper didn't hold too well until he discovered that it was necessary to roughen the surface of the piano by sanding it lightly.

When doing concrete work, interesting effects can be achieved by dragging a long-handed brush across the surface while it is still fairly wet. It not only gives the concrete a kind of character but makes it less slippery.

If you need more room for canned goods but haven't the space for a full cabinet, try a narrow closet with shallow shelves. One of its benefits is that you don't have to go fumbling around in the back of a deep cabinet to find what you want.

In an emergency, a small hole in a screen can be repaired by spreading a transparent cement over it. When you get a chance to go to a hardware store, buy a small screen patch and place it over the damaged spot. Each patch has tiny ends on it so that it can be hooked on to the screening.

Interesting Roof On Ranch

RESTRAINT AND SOPHISTICATION are combined in this contemporary ranch, which utilizes vertical siding, special windows and interesting roof to produce a house that is "different" yet has clean architectural lines.

By ANDY LANG

Continuity of design is evident in this crisp-looking contemporary ranch, intended for a family requiring three or four bedrooms and for placement on a lot with a fairly sizable frontage.

Among the eye-catching features of the exterior are a trellised roof which casts interesting shadows over the double-door entrance and a tapered skylight roof that admits natural light during the day into the central foyer of the bedroom wing.

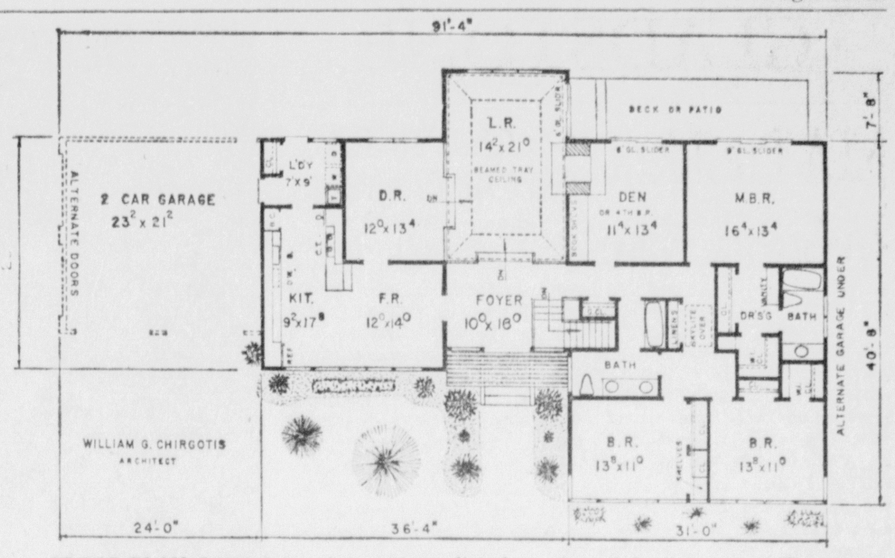

Inside, directly behind the spacious foyer, is a sunken living room with a tray-beamed sloped ceiling and a two-way stone fireplace. On the foyer and dining room sides of the living room are decorative wrought iron railings. Sliding glass doors lead to a patio area. All in all, a most impressive room for either the family or guests.

Modern in every respect is the combined kitchen - family room to the left of the foyer There's plenty of space here for informal meals and relaxation. The kitchen area alone is almost 18' long, completely equipped with sink, dishwasher, counter-top range, wall oven with a metal ventilating hood, refrigerator and an abundance of cabinets. A planning desk which could include anything from writing materials, recipe books, telephone or intercom is shown between the kitchen and family room section.

A laundry-mud room is next to the kitchen and has access to the two-car garage and the rear. While the plans show the garage doors to the front, the floor plan includes an alternate side entrance where the width of the lot permits. Architect William G. Chirgotis has another suggestion: if the house is built on a sloping lot, the garage can be located under the bedroom wing. In that event, the lot could have less frontage than if the garage were located at the left side of the house.

To the right of the living room is a room that could be used as a den or a fourth bedroom. Like the master bedroom and the living room, it has sliding glass doors to the rear patio. The master bedroom suite includes a dressing area with two closets, one a walk-in, and a private bath that has a full-width sliding door bathtub glass enclosure and a recessed vanity. The hall bath, with dual entry, is a divided room with a mirrored double-basin vanity and over-tub shower. There is plenty of closet space in the bedroom wing which, as previously mentioned, has a skylight over its central foyer. Two bedrooms are at the front.

With its natural v-joint sliding, long sweeping silhouette hip roof and tapered skylight, large front and continuous ribbon-windows, Design S-39 has a pleasant contemporary appearance matched by the modern, spacious look on the inside.

FLOOR PLAN: Large foyer gives an immediate long view of the living room. There's a similar vista to the left of the foyer, where the family room and the kitchen flow into each other, using only a planning desk as a partial divider.

S-39 STATISTICS

Design S-39 has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen, laundry, foyer, four bedrooms and two bathrooms. The habitable area totals 2218 square feet. Over-all dimensions, including the two-car garage, are 91' 4" by 40' 8". If the garage is placed under the bedroom wing, the dimensions change to 67' 4" by 40' 8". In that case, the stairway in the foyer would lead to the underground garage as well as the basement.

Hijacked Plane N. Korea Bound

SEOUL (AP) — Young Japanese ultra-leftists who hijacked a jet airliner to Korea Tuesday released 103 persons in Seoul today, took a Japanese government official aboard as hostage and then took off for North Korea.

Among the 99 passengers and four stewardesses freed after 79 hours' captivity were two American men living in Tokyo, Pepsi Cola executive Herbert Brill of New York and the Rev. Daniel MacDonald of San Francisco. The rest were Japanese.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

Q.—We have grown tired of the wallpaper design in our bedroom and have decided to paint over it. The paper is securely attached to the wall and I don't think there will be any problem about it coming loose. What I want to know is whether any special type of paint must be used. The paper has a kind of light rose color. Will I have to put on two coats? Will the color in the paper bleed through?

A.—Generally, it is not a good idea to apply latex paint over wallpaper, since the water in the paint might loosen the paper. However, you can solve this problem and at the same time insure against the color coming through by applying a first coat of aluminum paint. One coat of your selected color then may be sufficient, but you'll have to judge for yourself after the paint has been applied and allowed to dry. Either latex or solvent-thinned paint may be used over the aluminum covering.

Q.—Our large wooden salad bowl, which we have had for many years, is losing whatever finish it had. How can it be refinished so that no taste of the finishing material will get into the salad?

A.—Rub the bowl with a very fine grade of sandpaper. Brush away all grit. Apply linseed oil to the inside and outside surfaces, wiping off any excess. Using a dry, clean cloth, rub the oil well into the wood. Place the bowl where fresh air can get at it and leave it there for a couple of days. It then is ready for use. The finish will last a long time if the bowl is dried immediately each time it is washed with cold water. Never let it soak in water and never, never put it in a dishwasher.

Marine Hospital Possible Drug Treatment Site

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken indicated Thursday that Michigan soon may be able to take over the abandoned marine hospital in Detroit for use as a dangerous drug treatment center.

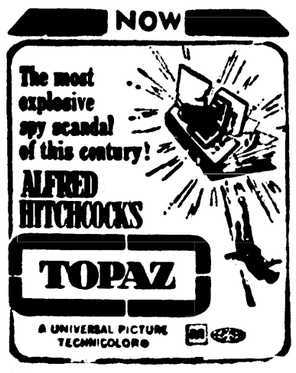

Milliken reported that U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R- Mich., says federal officials declared the hospital property as surplus and that it would be conveyed to the state.

The executive office quoted Griffin as saying the federal declaration meant the hospital—idle since being abandoned last year by the U.S. Public Health Service — now reverted to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "to be turned over to the state."

Milliken outlined acquisition of the hospital and its use as a comprehensive community mental health and dangerous drug treatment center in a recent special message to the Legislature.

He proposed $1.7 million in federal and state funds to operate the facility in the next fiscal year.

Sales Of Autos In March Said Worst Since '62

DETROIT (AP)—Spurred by the worst March sales in eight years, the U.S. auto industry reported Thursday the worst first quarter sales of new cars since 1967.

The four major U.S. producers reported sales of 1,782,434 cars in the three months ended March 31, down 12.2 per cent from the 2,029,857 sold at this time last year.

Sales for March—traditionally one of the strongest selling months of the year — were 646,673, down 10.1 per cent from March, 1969. This made it the worst March since 1962, when 616,357 cars were sold.

The decline was led by industry giant General Motors, which reported its March sales were off 16.4 per cent from last year and down 18.2 per cent for the first quarter. GM sales plunged 22.4 per cent in the final 10 days of March.

The general downward trend in the industry was reversed by the two smallest producers, Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp.

In 1968, 216 million persons passed through United States' customs inspection. They arrived at 400 ports of entry, ranging from New York to tiny airports where only a few international charter flights land in a year.

hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Before washing a wool sweater, I lay an old, folded sheet on my carpet, shape the sweater on it and draw the outline of the sweater with a pencil.

After I have hand-washed the sweater in a commercial product, I put it in my automatic washer and turn it to "spin dry." When the water is all wrung out, I remove it, shape it and then pin it onto the outline I have drawn on the sheet.

I use this same outline each time and the sweater is always the same size with little work and no measuring at all.

Dear Heloise:

The posts supporting my clothesline are steel and the bars at the ends of the posts are hollow.

I found that all sorts of things—from birds to wasps—were taking up residence in them.

The foil may be held with rubber bands.

Marine Hospital Possible Drug Treatment Site

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken indicated Thursday that Michigan soon may be able to take over the abandoned marine hospital in Detroit for use as a dangerous drug treatment center.

Milliken reported that U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R- Mich., says federal officials declared the hospital property as surplus and that it would be conveyed to the state.

The executive office quoted Griffin as saying the federal declaration meant the hospital—idle since being abandoned last year by the U.S. Public Health Service — now reverted to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "to be turned over to the state."

Milliken outlined acquisition of the hospital and its use as a comprehensive community mental health and dangerous drug treatment center in a recent special message to the Legislature.

He proposed $1.7 million in federal and state funds to operate the facility in the next fiscal year.

4-H Club To Take Part In Program

Lynne and Terese Madden, Jane VanHorn, Maureen DeKeyser, Marianne Dollhopf, Patti Kennedy, Sharon and Carol Christiansen will arrange the decorations.

The Firesiders and Lynne and Terese Madden will entertain at the Kiwanis Pancake Day.

Sales Of Autos In March Said Worst Since '62

DETROIT (AP)—Spurred by the worst March sales in eight years, the U.S. auto industry reported Thursday the worst first quarter sales of new cars since 1967.

The four major U.S. producers reported sales of 1,782,434 cars in the three months ended March 31, down 12.2 per cent from the 2,029,857 sold at this time last year.

Sales for March—traditionally one of the strongest selling months of the year — were 646,673, down 10.1 per cent from March, 1969. This made it the worst March since 1962, when 616,357 cars were sold.

The decline was led by industry giant General Motors, which reported its March sales were off 16.4 per cent from last year and down 18.2 per cent for the first quarter. GM sales plunged 22.4 per cent in the final 10 days of March.

The general downward trend in the industry was reversed by the two smallest producers, Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp.

In 1968, 216 million persons passed through United States' customs inspection. They arrived at 400 ports of entry, ranging from New York to tiny airports where only a few international charter flights land in a year.

hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Before washing a wool sweater, I lay an old, folded sheet on my carpet, shape the sweater on it and draw the outline of the sweater with a pencil.

After I have hand-washed the sweater in a commercial product, I put it in my automatic washer and turn it to "spin dry." When the water is all wrung out, I remove it, shape it and then pin it onto the outline I have drawn on the sheet.

I use this same outline each time and the sweater is always the same size with little work and no measuring at all.

Dear Heloise:

The posts supporting my clothesline are steel and the bars at the ends of the posts are hollow.

I found that all sorts of things—from birds to wasps—were taking up residence in them.

The foil may be held with rubber bands.

Coffee Breaks Prove Popular In Offices

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Many Americans stay on the job today not because they like work or need the money but because they enjoy the coffee breaks.

These twice-a-day pauses in the office grind have become the nation's most popular social institution. They are better than cocktail parties because, after all, you don't get paid while attending a cocktail party.

Employes who used to phone in sick at the slightest sneeze now drag themselves into the office, even though they look at death's door, because they can't stand the thought of staying home and missing the goings-on during the coffee breaks.

Clarion Clara—Everybody likes to join the throng at the table of this breezy belle, because she works in the personnel department, sees all the memos, and has all the latest inside gossip. The best way to keep your own reputation safe is to sit with Clara, so she can't talk about you.

Milton the Miser—He never forks out a dime for a cup of java. He simply roams the place stealing napkins, sugar cubes, and plastic tableware for the use of his wife, his 10 kids, and his dear old mother-in-law.

The Shop Steward—Actually he hates coffee, but he is ruining his stomach drinking 12 cups a day because in 1953 he found a fly in one. His big hope now is that he can find a second fly in another cup and thus have grounds for a union grievance against an unsanitary and negligent management.

Bibulous Bill—After carefully pouring three drops of coffee in the bottom of his plastic cup, he goes out to his locker and fills it up the rest of the way with bourbon. By the end of the day Bill is so high he puts his arm around the water cooler and starts telling it off-color jokes.

Henry the Hermit—He buys two cups of coffee and deliberately spills one all over the table so no one will want to sit with him. Then he opens a copy of Henry George's "Progress and Poverty" and reads it in aloof silence. Once or twice a year he startles everybody by breaking out in a wild chuckle.

Socialable Sid-He thinks the way to get ahead is to charm everyone, and feels that day is lost in which he fails to slap every other employe on the back at least twice. His morning coffee break lasts all morning; his afternoon coffee break lasts all afternoon. The only time he leaves the cafeteria is to go to the washroom.

Bertram the Businessman—While others are wasting their time enjoying their coffee, Bertie goes from table to table trying to peddle them something. He'll sell you anything from an insurance policy to a cemetery plot, a pair of shoelaces, an everlasting light bulb or a cut-priced diamond engagement ring.

Vera the Vamp—This office cuite isn't looking for coffee—she's looking for a husband. Anything that moves and is masculine is a target for Vera. Everytime she adjusts her skirt or takes a sip from her cup, she makes it appear as if she were playing a scene in a Roman orgy staged by Cecil B. DeMille.

The Mighty Man Himself—A sudden silence falls as the Boss stalks into the cafeteria on his once-a-month visit, somberly draws his cup of coffee, stares bleakly around at the abashed revelers and goes back to his office. There, as he drinks it in solitary grandeur, he wonders why everybody has more fun during the office coffee breaks than he does.

Crime Funds

LANSING (AP) —The Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice has awarded $84,000 in crime control funds to Genesee County for a youth assistance program.

The commission also allocated $30,424 toward establishing a program for prevention and control of drug dependence and abuse. An office of drug abuse within the executive office will serve as information center and coordinating point for state government activity.

Although most starfish have five rays, some have six or more, and 12-armed species have been taken in the Gulf of Mexico.

Lansing Employe Works 'Overtime' Due To Snowfall

LANSING (AP)— Douglas Savala borrowed a pair of galoshes from a coworker Thursday to help shovel out and push vehicles of workers who'd been authorized to leave the secretary of state's branch office early because of heavy snow.

"We excused the employes about 11:45 this morning," Savala reported in a telephone interview from the office—about a half-mile off a main road between Lansing and Potterville.

"We'd had the parking lot plowed out about 10 a.m. but by the time everybody wanted to leave — all the cars were snowed in again."

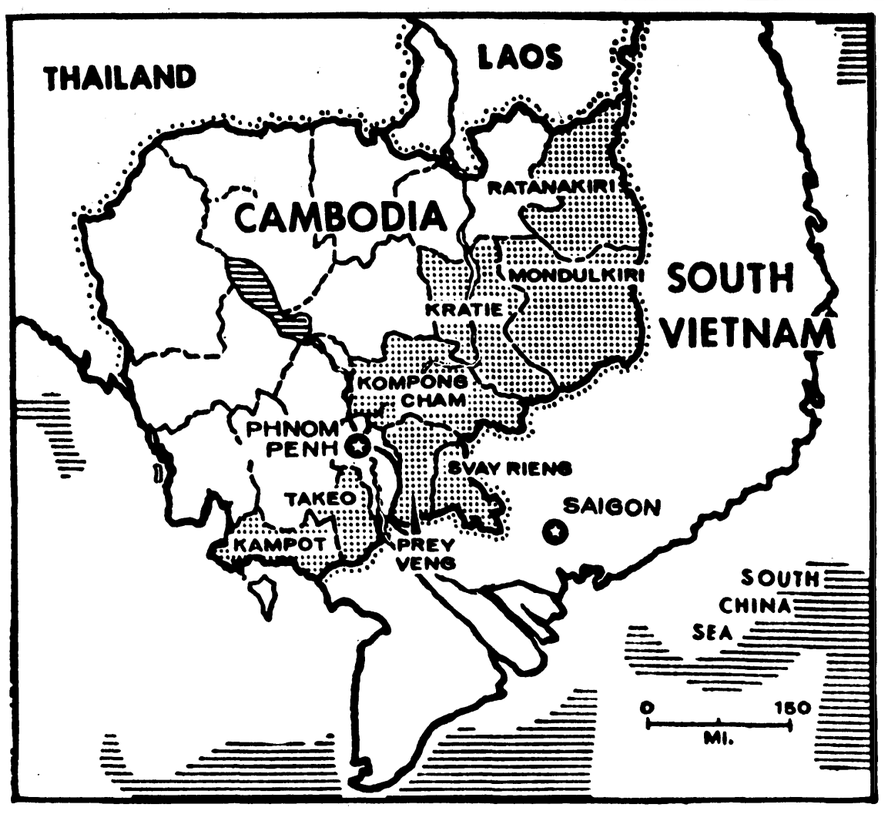

So Savala and "some of the fellas and gals out here" pushed their way into the parking lot to help free the cars, numbering about 100.

Road Toll Off

LANSING (AP)— Michigan's traffic death toll for March fell 13 per cent below last year and 8 per cent below the five-year average, State Police report, but delayed reports may boost the figures.

A total of 150 motorists died last month, 23 fewer than the 173 killed in March, 1969.

SHADED AREAS are Cambodian provinces where the North Vietnam and Viet Cong troops exert heaviest pressure on the populace to support ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk. The border area with South Vietnam is about 500 miles long. South Vietnamese troops and U. S. aircraft have attacked across it west of Saigon.

Ford, Autolite May Separate

DETROIT (AP) — A federal judge took under advisement Thursday an eight-year-old antitrust suit in which the government is seeking to force Ford Motor Company to drop its highly profitable Autolite parts division.

Chief Federal Judge Ralph Freeman said he did not expect to hand down his decision for at least two months.

"It's a difficult matter, as the government even conceded in court, for me to decide," Freeman said after hearing final oral arguments in court.

Freeman ruled in 1968 that the acquisition of Autolite by Ford violates the Clayton Antitrust Act. He still must decide, however, what Ford should do about it.

The government is asking that Ford be ordered to divest itself of its Autolite spark plug and battery-making facilities, and the Autolite name.

Ford attorneys argue that complete divestiture is not necessary to remedy the violation. They propose that the company be allowed to keep its Autolite plants in Fostoria, Ohio; Owosso, Mich., and Shreveport, La., with a promise to buy some of its spark plugs from Eltra Corporation.

Eltra is the firm from which Ford acquired the Autolite name and facilities in 1961 for $28 million.

Ford contends that by pledging to buy spark plugs from Eltra, it will create a fourth major manufacturer of spark plugs.

About 95 per cent of the nation's current spark plug production is handled by Champion, A-C and Autolite.

Coffee Breaks Prove Popular In Offices

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Many Americans stay on the job today not because they like work or need the money but because they enjoy the coffee breaks.

These twice-a-day pauses in the office grind have become the nation's most popular social institution. They are better than cocktail parties because, after all, you don't get paid while attending a cocktail party.

Employes who used to phone in sick at the slightest sneeze now drag themselves into the office, even though they look at death's door, because they can't stand the thought of staying home and missing the goings-on during the coffee breaks.

Clarion Clara—Everybody likes to join the throng at the table of this breezy belle, because she works in the personnel department, sees all the memos, and has all the latest inside gossip. The best way to keep your own reputation safe is to sit with Clara, so she can't talk about you.

Milton the Miser—He never forks out a dime for a cup of java. He simply roams the place stealing napkins, sugar cubes, and plastic tableware for the use of his wife, his 10 kids, and his dear old mother-in-law.

The Shop Steward—Actually he hates coffee, but he is ruining his stomach drinking 12 cups a day because in 1953 he found a fly in one. His big hope now is that he can find a second fly in another cup and thus have grounds for a union grievance against an unsanitary and negligent management.

Bibulous Bill—After carefully pouring three drops of coffee in the bottom of his plastic cup, he goes out to his locker and fills it up the rest of the way with bourbon. By the end of the day Bill is so high he puts his arm around the water cooler and starts telling it off-color jokes.

Henry the Hermit—He buys two cups of coffee and deliberately spills one all over the table so no one will want to sit with him. Then he opens a copy of Henry George's "Progress and Poverty" and reads it in aloof silence. Once or twice a year he startles everybody by breaking out in a wild chuckle.

Socialable Sid-He thinks the way to get ahead is to charm everyone, and feels that day is lost in which he fails to slap every other employe on the back at least twice. His morning coffee break lasts all morning; his afternoon coffee break lasts all afternoon. The only time he leaves the cafeteria is to go to the washroom.

Bertram the Businessman—While others are wasting their time enjoying their coffee, Bertie goes from table to table trying to peddle them something. He'll sell you anything from an insurance policy to a cemetery plot, a pair of shoelaces, an everlasting light bulb or a cut-priced diamond engagement ring.

Vera the Vamp—This office cuite isn't looking for coffee—she's looking for a husband. Anything that moves and is masculine is a target for Vera. Everytime she adjusts her skirt or takes a sip from her cup, she makes it appear as if she were playing a scene in a Roman orgy staged by Cecil B. DeMille.

The Mighty Man Himself—A sudden silence falls as the Boss stalks into the cafeteria on his once-a-month visit, somberly draws his cup of coffee, stares bleakly around at the abashed revelers and goes back to his office. There, as he drinks it in solitary grandeur, he wonders why everybody has more fun during the office coffee breaks than he does.

Crime Funds

LANSING (AP) —The Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice has awarded $84,000 in crime control funds to Genesee County for a youth assistance program.

The commission also allocated $30,424 toward establishing a program for prevention and control of drug dependence and abuse. An office of drug abuse within the executive office will serve as information center and coordinating point for state government activity.

Although most starfish have five rays, some have six or more, and 12-armed species have been taken in the Gulf of Mexico.

Lansing Employe Works 'Overtime' Due To Snowfall

LANSING (AP)— Douglas Savala borrowed a pair of galoshes from a coworker Thursday to help shovel out and push vehicles of workers who'd been authorized to leave the secretary of state's branch office early because of heavy snow.

"We excused the employes about 11:45 this morning," Savala reported in a telephone interview from the office—about a half-mile off a main road between Lansing and Potterville.

"We'd had the parking lot plowed out about 10 a.m. but by the time everybody wanted to leave — all the cars were snowed in again."

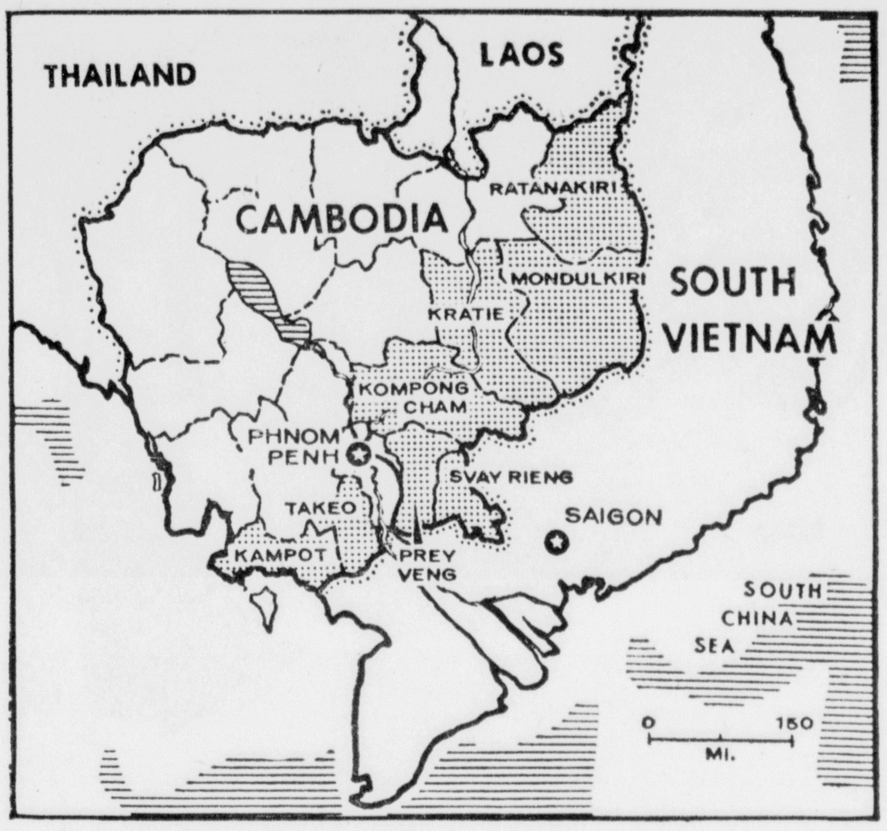

So Savala and "some of the fellas and gals out here" pushed their way into the parking lot to help free the cars, numbering about 100.

Road Toll Off

LANSING (AP)— Michigan's traffic death toll for March fell 13 per cent below last year and 8 per cent below the five-year average, State Police report, but delayed reports may boost the figures.

A total of 150 motorists died last month, 23 fewer than the 173 killed in March, 1969.

SHADED AREAS are Cambodian provinces where the North Vietnam and Viet Cong troops exert heaviest pressure on the populace to support ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk. The border area with South Vietnam is about 500 miles long. South Vietnamese troops and U. S. aircraft have attacked across it west of Saigon.

Ford, Autolite May Separate

DETROIT (AP) — A federal judge took under advisement Thursday an eight-year-old antitrust suit in which the government is seeking to force Ford Motor Company to drop its highly profitable Autolite parts division.

Chief Federal Judge Ralph Freeman said he did not expect to hand down his decision for at least two months.

"It's a difficult matter, as the government even conceded in court, for me to decide," Freeman said after hearing final oral arguments in court.

Freeman ruled in 1968 that the acquisition of Autolite by Ford violates the Clayton Antitrust Act. He still must decide, however, what Ford should do about it.

The government is asking that Ford be ordered to divest itself of its Autolite spark plug and battery-making facilities, and the Autolite name.

Ford attorneys argue that complete divestiture is not necessary to remedy the violation. They propose that the company be allowed to keep its Autolite plants in Fostoria, Ohio; Owosso, Mich., and Shreveport, La., with a promise to buy some of its spark plugs from Eltra Corporation.

Eltra is the firm from which Ford acquired the Autolite name and facilities in 1961 for $28 million.

Ford contends that by pledging to buy spark plugs from Eltra, it will create a fourth major manufacturer of spark plugs.

About 95 per cent of the nation's current spark plug production is handled by Champion, A-C and Autolite.

Suva, capital of Fiji, ranks as the most important city in the Pacific islands after Honolulu. It lies at the hub of air and sea lanes converging on the palms and beaches that ring an enormous circle of cobalt sea.

Knicks, Phoenix Notch Victories

By The Associated Press

It's probably only a quirk of the National Basketball Association's solar system, but the Suns are rising in the West.

The Phoenix Suns, that is, in the Western Division.

The surprising Suns burned Los Angeles 112-98 Thursday night and took a 2-1 lead over the favored Lakers in their best-of-7 Western semifinal series.

In the East, the New York Knicks clobbered Baltimore 101-80 for a 3-2 edge over the powderless Bullets, who misfired terribly in the fourth period, when they managed a meager three baskets in 30 shots and were outscored 25-11.

The other two semifinal series could end tonight. In the East, the Philadelphia 76ers, down three games to one, take on the Milwaukee Bucks at Madison, Wis. The Atlanta Hawks, winners of the Western regular season pennant, go after a four-game sweep of the Bulls in Chicago.

"We've got them (the Lakers) where we want them—at home," said Jerry Colangelo, the Phoenix coach-general manager, when his club returned from a split in Los Angeles.

The Suns took a slim lead in the third period Thursday night and poured it on in the fourth. Gail Goodrich paced the Suns with 29 points and Paul Silas had 21, along with 16 rebounds, as Phoenix controlled the boards 59-32.

Jerry West topped the Lakers with 31 points but Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain were held to a subpar 20 and 11, respectively.

"The play of Paul Silas has been the big story of the series," Baylor said before the game. "We expected Connie Hawkins to get his share of points and rebounds. But Silas, he's been a little too much."

Silas has 78 points and 53 rebounds in the three games. Hawkins scored 19 points Thursday night.

The Knicks bounced back from two straight defeats and walloped the Bullets behind a scintillating 36-point, record 36-rebound performance by Willis Reed, the NBA's most valuable player.

"He chased me off the court," said Baltimore's Wes Unseld, who outrebounded tentire New York team with 34 in Sunday's game as the Bullets began their comeback. Unseld had only 10 points and 13 rebounds thursday night.

Reed took a cortisone shot in his ailing left knee and said, "It did the job, but I hope I don't have to take another one before Sunday," meaning the nationally televised (ABC-TV) sixth game in Baltimore.

The Knicks led only 76-69 after three periods but moved out to a 91-72 spread as the Bullets canned only one of their first 18 shots in the final quarter.

"I saw what Unseld did to us in the third game," said Reed, whose 36 rebounds was a team record, "and I decided I could do it, too. That game I just didn't have it, and sometimes the ball just doesn't bounce your way. Tonight it did."

Gladstone Coach To Leave System After Five Years

GLADSTONE — Carl Backstrom, a teacher and coach at Gladstone High School for the past five years, is leaving the Gladstone School System at the end of the current school year, according to Wes Fleet, School Superintendent.

Backstrom coached junior varsity basketball, cross country and golf during his stay at Gladstone. He plans to teach and coach at Perhman, Minn. as well as taking over management of a resort in the area.

Backstrom is married and the father of four children.

Grenier Picks Off 7-10 Split

GLADSTONE—Bob Grenier, bowling in the Independent League at the Midway Lanes Thursday night, picked up the near-impossible 7-10 split. The split pickup was not quite enough though, as his team lost to the Midway Lanes five by a 1093-993 margin.

Pilots' Lights Snuffed Out; Loud Echoes Left

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Pilots became a thing of the past Thursday when a bankruptcy referee affixed his signature to an order allowing the American League team's sale to Milwaukee Brewers Inc.

But the past apparently is going to be recalled by loud echoes one of these days.

William Dwyer, special assistant state attorney general, said an $82 million antitrust suit against the league and the owners of the defunct Seattle baseball franchise probably will come up in court in about a year.

"Routine cases usually take about nine months," Dwyer said. "This isn't a routine case."

The suit, brought by Washington State and Seattle, seeks damages for economic injury it contends will result from loss of the Pilots.

When the federal bankruptcy referee, Sidney Volinn, signed the order at 7:50 p.m. EST, he gave the state and the city the go ahead on the suit. Volinn had suspended all legal action while he considered a petition from the Pilots owners for permission to sell to the Brewers for $10.8 million, most of which was to pay off $8.13 million in debts.

Even before the suit comes up in court, however, organized baseball may be in for trouble because of the sale.

Sens. Warren Magnuson and Henry Jackson and Rep. Brock Adams, all Washington Democrats, have said they will introduce legislation in Congress next week in an effort to strip the sport of its 50-year-old immunity from federal antitrust law.

In Olympia, Wash., the state capital, Gov. Dan Evans said, "I think the leadership in the American League and the league owners that have led us to this sorry state of events can't be condemned too much for the way in which they treated this area."

The state's antitrust suit "may end up to the detriment of all of baseball," Evans said.

"If it does, the fault can be laid directly at the feet of the owners of the teams in the American League."

Evans said he hopes Milwaukee fares better on its second try with major league baseball.

"I think the best comment," the governor said, "is to hope the people of Milwaukee are treated better than the people of Seattle and the state of Washington were treated."

Red Wings' Hopes Much Brighter Now

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings chances of getting into the Stanley Cup hockey series were much brighter today thanks to a brilliant performance by their two "senior citizens"—Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio.

The 42-year-old Howe and 38-year-old Delvecchio each contributed a goal as the Wings overpowered the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 last night to climb into third place in the National Hockey League's east division.

The win moved the Wings a point ahead of the Montreal Canadiens who were idle last night. Detroit found itself with a three point lead over the fifth place New York Rangers whom they face in a big season-windup two game series this weeknd.

With only Toronto mathematically out of the race, the other five teams continued their helter skelter scramble for the four playoff spots in the division.

"There are still a lot of ands, and buts in this race and about the only thing I can say is that we are very much in it," said the Wings' coach Sid Abel after seeing Toronto's winless streak extended to five straight.

"This Toronto game was the one I really wanted for now we have the three point edge and the Rangers will have to come to us," he added.

"They have to win both games from us to nudge us out of the race and that's not going to happen. We have momentum now and the team's confidence is growing," Abel said.

Delvecchio, who blitzed the Leafs with a goal just 16 seconds after the game started, was equally confident the Wings would make the playoffs. "If worse came to worst, all we would have to do would be to tie either of the games and we'd be in . .but we are going to do better than that. . .we will be out to win them both."

The first game of the week-end series will be played at Detroit's Olympia Saturday night and the teams then will catch separate planes and fly to New York for a Sunday matinee. If the Wings win Saturday night, they will have their first Stanley Cup berth in four years and the Sunday game will be just a season windup.

On the other hand if the red hot Rangers win Saturday night all the marbles could be up for grabs Sunday.

Delvecchio, who went scoreless in the Wings first 34 games, notched his 20th goal of the season moments after the opening faceoff against the Leafs. It marked the 11th season, the last three in a row, that he hit the 20-goal mark.

All three members of the Wings famed Production Line—Delvecchio, Howe and Frank Mahovlich—scored in the relatively easy triumph over the last place Leafs. Delvecchio had a pair of assists as well, while Howe and Mahovlich had one each.

The Leafs, down 2-0 in the opening seven minutes, finally got on the scoreboard with Norm Ullman's power play goal early in the second period but Howe got that goal back 23 seconds later to send the Wings out in front 3-1.

Detroit ran the lead to 4-1 on Mahovlich's goal midway in the second period and the Leafs could muster only a third period goal by Bob Pulford as they wound up on the short end.

Jimmy Roberts' unassisted goal in the first period was all Ernie Wakely needed to blank the Flyers. Wakely kicked out 34 shots to record his fourth shutout of the season.

Philadelphia, with just one game left to play, has a two point edge on Oakland and Minnesota but both the Seals and North Stars have two games to play. The Flyers have lost 15 of their last 20 starts, managing just two victories and three ties over the stretch.

Even before the suit comes up in court, however, organized baseball may be in for trouble because of the sale.

Sens. Warren Magnuson and Henry Jackson and Rep. Brock Adams, all Washington Democrats, have said they will introduce legislation in Congress next week in an effort to strip the sport of its 50-year-old immunity from federal antitrust law.

In Olympia, Wash., the state capital, Gov. Dan Evans said, "I think the leadership in the American League and the league owners that have led us to this sorry state of events can't be condemned too much for the way in which they treated this area."

The state's antitrust suit "may end up to the detriment of all of baseball," Evans said.

"If it does, the fault can be laid directly at the feet of the owners of the teams in the American League."

Evans said he hopes Milwaukee fares better on its second try with major league baseball.

"I think the best comment," the governor said, "is to hope the people of Milwaukee are treated better than the people of Seattle and the state of Washington were treated."

Red Wings' Hopes Much Brighter Now

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings chances of getting into the Stanley Cup hockey series were much brighter today thanks to a brilliant performance by their two "senior citizens"—Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio.

The 42-year-old Howe and 38-year-old Delvecchio each contributed a goal as the Wings overpowered the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 last night to climb into third place in the National Hockey League's east division.

The win moved the Wings a point ahead of the Montreal Canadiens who were idle last night. Detroit found itself with a three point lead over the fifth place New York Rangers whom they face in a big season-windup two game series this weeknd.

With only Toronto mathematically out of the race, the other five teams continued their helter skelter scramble for the four playoff spots in the division.

"There are still a lot of ands, and buts in this race and about the only thing I can say is that we are very much in it," said the Wings' coach Sid Abel after seeing Toronto's winless streak extended to five straight.

"This Toronto game was the one I really wanted for now we have the three point edge and the Rangers will have to come to us," he added.

"They have to win both games from us to nudge us out of the race and that's not going to happen. We have momentum now and the team's confidence is growing," Abel said.

Delvecchio, who blitzed the Leafs with a goal just 16 seconds after the game started, was equally confident the Wings would make the playoffs. "If worse came to worst, all we would have to do would be to tie either of the games and we'd be in . .but we are going to do better than that. . .we will be out to win them both."

The first game of the week-end series will be played at Detroit's Olympia Saturday night and the teams then will catch separate planes and fly to New York for a Sunday matinee. If the Wings win Saturday night, they will have their first Stanley Cup berth in four years and the Sunday game will be just a season windup.

On the other hand if the red hot Rangers win Saturday night all the marbles could be up for grabs Sunday.

All three members of the Wings famed Production Line—Delvecchio, Howe and Frank Mahovlich—scored in the relatively easy triumph over the last place Leafs. Delvecchio had a pair of assists as well, while Howe and Mahovlich had one each.

The Leafs, down 2-0 in the opening seven minutes, finally got on the scoreboard with Norm Ullman's power play goal early in the second period but Howe got that goal back 23 seconds later to send the Wings out in front 3-1.

Detroit ran the lead to 4-1 on Mahovlich's goal midway in the second period and the Leafs could muster only a third period goal by Bob Pulford as they wound up on the short end.

Jimmy Roberts' unassisted goal in the first period was all Ernie Wakely needed to blank the Flyers. Wakely kicked out 34 shots to record his fourth shutout of the season.

Philadelphia, with just one game left to play, has a two point edge on Oakland and Minnesota but both the Seals and North Stars have two games to play. The Flyers have lost 15 of their last 20 starts, managing just two victories and three ties over the stretch.

And it comes out tasting the way Americans expect brandy to taste.

We don't expect you to pledge allegiance to our product or anybody's just because it happens to be home-grown. But next time you buy a bottle of brandy, why shouldn't it be one of ours? HARTLEY

Strikes-n-Spares

With Mike Utt

After many weeks of writing about all the 200 games and doing a lot of wishing and hoping, it finally happened. While bowling on the last night of league play in the Bay de Noc League Tuesday night, yours truly hit the 200 mark for the first time this season, a 202, to lead the Escanaba Daily Press team out of the cellar in the league standings.

X X X

Four other bowlers also hit their first 200 games of the season this week. Joyce Kolsh had a 213, Nancy Perron 208 and Helen Derouin a 212 last Thursday evening at the Bowl-A-Rama, while Bertha Paulson came up with a 206 on Tuesday night, also at the Bowl-A-Rama.

Wes Ward tried his hardest to come up with that big 300 game last Thursday night in the Happy Hour League, but the magic mark still managed to remain untouched this season. Wes had eight strikes in a row in his first game before missing and wound up with a 255 and then started off his second game with five in a row before finishing with a 223. Wes had a 637 series for the night.

Don DeGrand beat her with a 191 game in a 494 series and Mike Bittner had 166 and 173 games in a 480 series.

Gladstone Lions Club Honors Coach Of Year

By DON HOWES

Jim Henderson, head coach at Bay de Noc Community College, was the principal speaker. A feature of the program was the presentation of the U.P. Sportswriters Association Coach-of-the-Year award to Gordon LeDuc of the Holy Name Crusaders by last year's recipient, Bob Krysiak of the Menominee Maroons.

Jim Pinar, WDBC sports announcer, acted as toastmaster for the event. He introduced Eldon (Cappy) Keil, first recipient of the Coach-of-the-Year trophy, and LeDuc.

Pinar also commended Bill Wood of Gladstone High School and Brother Felix of Holy Name High School for their dedication in the field of sports. Both are leaving their respective schools at the end of the school year.

Pinar then introduced the assistant coaches — Fred Boddy, 8th grade, Jim Barrett, freshmen and Carl Backstrom, junior varsity. He congratulated the freshman team for their fine 17-1 season record. Backstrom had words of praise for members of the junior varsity team in talking of their season.

Coach Jack Ingalls presented members of the Gladstone varsity squad and made a few remarks on the 1969-70 basketball season. He praised his coaching staff, the overall basketball program and cheerleaders and gave special recognition to Cliff Young and his teammates.

Mike Utt, former sports editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, presented Cliff Young, most valuable player of the Gladstone team, with a certificate for being named to the All U.P. Class B first team by the U.P. Sportswriters.

Pinar commended LeDuc on his fine season at Holy Name and for winning three regional titles at three different locations. He also pointed out that LeDuc is the first coach at Holy Name to receive this outstanding award.

Gordy LeDuc praised his team for the fine season they had this year. "Without their fine effort, I would never have received this special award," he said.

In his first year at Holy Name, LeDuc brought the Crusaders as far as any team had been in the school's history, reaching the state Class B quarter finals before losing. After a 16-5 season, LeDuc now has a career record of 107-65 in eight years of coaching. Last year he guided Marquette Bishop Baraga to the Class D state championship.

The main speaker, Jim Henderson, talked about the importance of basketball. He pointed out the goals and values of a basketball program are good for a young person to have because they will help an athlete to set high moral and scholastic achievement standards.

Hurlers, Hitter Enjoy Great Day

By The Associated Press

Chicago was in a deep freeze. Milwaukee and Montreal were snowed under. But Hank Aaron, like a summer day in Atlanta, was sizzling ... and so were Tom Seaver and Jim Palmer.

While baseball's northern cities, readying themselves for next week's season openers despite heavy spring snowfalls, continued digging out Thursday, Atlanta slugger Aaron and pitching stars Seaver of the New York Mets and Palmer of Baltimore sparkled in exhibition victories in the southland.

Seaver, tuning up for his opening day assignment in titsburgh Tuesday, fired seven shutout innings as the Mets trimmed the Pirates 2-0 under the lights at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Palmer, going the full nine innings for the Orioles at Houston, Beat The Astros 4-1 with a three-hitter.

New snowstorms in wintry Chicago forced the Cubs and White Sox to shift their weekend exhibition windup series from the Windy City to Tulsa, Okla. The Cubs nipped the White Sox 5-4 at Arlington, Tex., Thursday night on Glenn Beckert's run-scoring single with two out in the eighth inning.

In Milwaukee, eager fans plodded through slush at County Stadium after a six-inch snowfall to buy Brewers' season tickets. The new American League club, successor to the ill-fated Seattle Pilots, is scheduled to entertain California Tuesday in its opener. "It's bedlam," summed up a club official.

And in Montreal, where the Expos are to play their home opener next Wednesday against St. Louis, six inches of snow fell ... The day after groundskeepers cleared Jarry Park of snow and ice accumulated through the Canadian winter.

"We had the field in excellent shape," said Lou Martin, the Expos' director of operations, "and the 10 tons of straw I had on the infield all winter left everything fine. Now we've got to start again."

Left-hander Chris Short, making a new start with Philadelphia after missing almost the entire 1969 season following a back operation, pitched six scoreless innings, giving up two hits, in a 5-0 victory over Kansas City. Short has allowed just two earned runs in 28 innings this spring.

In other exhibition action, the New York Yankees outscored Montreal 9-7; Detroit slugged Washington 11-3; Oakland bounced Milwaukee 11-4; San Francisco downed San Diego 8-2; Minnesota shaded Boston 5-4 and the Phils' "B" squad beat Cincinnati 8-4.

In other developments, Washington released Zoilo Versalles, the veteran shortstop who was the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1965, and St. Louis traded infielder Steve Huntz to San Diego for relief pitcher Billy McCool.

The hot hitting of Aaron, who has gone 21 for 42 in exhibition play, helped knuckleballer Phil Niekro toss the Braves past the Indians and Sam McDowell, who struck out 12 in seven innings but was rocked for 13 hits. Niekro scattered six Cleveland hits over the first eight innings.

Seaver checked the hard-hitting Pirates on two safeties, struck out nine and drove in the only run the Mets needed with a second inning single off Steve Blass, his scheduled mound opponent in the season opener.

Palmer became the second Baltimore pitcher to go the distance—Mike Cuellar had worked nine innings last weekend—as the Orioles won with the help of a triple and single by Don Buford and two errors by Houston catcher John Edwards.

Bobby Murcer's first exhibition homer, a three-run blast in New York's five-run sixth inning rally at New Orleans, carried the Yanks past the Expos, who were without Manager Gene Mauch, hospitalized in West Palm Beach, Fla., with a virus.

Home runs by Bill Freehan, Willie Horton and Dalton Jones propelled the Tigers to their third straight victory and Reggie Jackson cracked his first homer of the spring to pace the Athletics' 15-hit attack against Milwaukee.

Smith Makes Final Tiger Roster Cuts

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Manager Mayo Smith has made his final spring training squad cuts for the Detroit Tigers, and three rookies have stuck with the team.

The cuts were made following Detroit's 11-3 exhibition clobbering of Washington Thursday, the team the Tigers will take on Monday to open the American League season in the nation's capital.

Perhaps the biggest surprise has been the performance of shortstop Szotkiewicz (Sock-ah-wits) who batted just .198 at Montgomery, Ala., of the Southern League last year. He has impressed in the field and has batted .263 this spring.

The 23-year-old native of Wilmington, Del., will be used as a backup to Cesar Gutierrez.

"Gutierrez has played well," Mayo said. "But we will pinch hit for him at times when we're looking for a long ball. So then we'll need to bring Szotkiewicz in to play short."

Sent to Tigertown for minor league assignment were pitcher Les Cain, rookie pitchers Bob Reed and Norm McRae, rookie infielder Tim Marting, and rookie catcher Gene Lamont.

The Tigers currently have 26 players, including veteran Tom Tresh who general manager Jim Campbell said he is trying to deal to another team. If no one takes Tresh, he may either quit baseball or accept an offer from Campbell to play at Detroit's Toledo farm club.

Tresh, originally from Detroit, now lives in Mount Pleasant, Mich., where he recently received a degree from Central Michigan University.

He starred with the Yankees from 1962 through mid-1969 when he was traded to the Tigers for outfielder Ron Woods. In 1962, Tresh was chosen AL Rookie of the Year, batting .286, hitting 20 home runs, and knocking in 93.

He has a lifetime batting average of .245, with 153 home runs and 530 RBIs.

He had fair to strong batti averages until he slumped to .219 in 1967, a year in which he was hampered by a reinjured right knee.

The following year, he hit just .195 and last year finished with .211.

"The last three years I was bothered by me knee and now that I have had surgery (after last season) I don't have a chance to see if it was a success," he said in the Marchant Stadium Clubhouse in Lakeland.

"I really don't think I was given much of a chance," he said. "But a man (Smith) has got to make his team up and has to make a decision.

Smith seemed somewhat upset at trimming Tresh.

"Here's a guy who all his life has given 100 per cent. "Mayo declared, holding his hand on his head and nodding dejectedly. "It's easy cutting the bums, but guys like him, well...."

"I just hope somebody gives him a shot," Smith said.

Scherman, Cain, Reed and McRae were all battling for the 10th and final spot on Smith's pitching corps. Scherman, who was with Detroit briefly at the start and end of last season, has looked good his last few exhibition appearances.

The 25-year-old southpaw has a 1-0 record in four regular season games.

Maddox was labeled a bright prospect from the moment the Tigers opened spring training Feb. 20. Although he got off to a poor start and said he had some doubts about sticking, he steadily improved as a replacement for sore-armed Mickey Stanley in centerfield.

The 22-year-old former Big Ten batting champion from the University of Michigan has been hitting about .240 in Grapefruit League play with 20 hits, three homers and seven runs batted in.

In Thursday's romp, the Tigers tagged Casey Cox for all their 11 runs in a three-inning span.

Detroit scored two in the third, then had a five-run barrage in the fourth, including a three-run homer by Bill Freehan. The Bengals added four more in the fifth with two coming on a homer by Willie Horton which bounced off the top of the wall in deepest centerfield, 420 feet away.

Dalton Jones followed with a solo blast.

Ken McMullen knocked in Washington's first run with a double in the second and Tim French sent home another score with a two-bagger. McMullen added a long solo homer in the fourth, off starter and winner Joe Niekro.

Strikes-n-Spares

With Mike Utt

After many weeks of writing about all the 200 games and doing a lot of wishing and hoping, it finally happened. While bowling on the last night of league play in the Bay de Noc League Tuesday night, yours truly hit the 200 mark for the first time this season, a 202, to lead the Escanaba Daily Press team out of the cellar in the league standings.

X X X

Four other bowlers also hit their first 200 games of the season this week. Joyce Koish had a 213, Nancy Perron 208 and Helen Derouin a 212 last Thursday evening at the Bowl-A-Rama, while Bertha Paulson came up with a 206 on Tuesday night, also at the Bowl-A-Rama.

Wes Ward tried his hardest to come up with that big 300 game last Thursday night in the Happy Hour League, but the magic mark still managed to remain untouched this season. Wes had eight strikes in a row in his first game before missing and wound up with a 255 and then started off his second game with five in a row before finishing with a 223. Wes had a 637 series for the night.

Gladstone Lions Club Honors Coach Of Year

By DON HOWES

Jim Henderson, head coach at Bay de Noc Community College, was the principal speaker. A feature of the program was the presentation of the U.P. Sportswriters Association Coach-of-the-Year award to Gordon LeDuc of the Holy Name Crusaders by last year's recipient, Bob Krysiak of the Menominee Maroons.

Jim Pinar, WDBC sports announcer, acted as toastmaster for the event. He introduced Eldon (Cappy) Keil, first recipient of the Coach-of-the-Year trophy, and LeDuc.

Pinar also commended Bill Wood of Gladstone High School and Brother Felix of Holy Name High School for their dedication in the field of sports. Both are leaving their respective schools at the end of the school year.

Pinar then introduced the assistant coaches — Fred Boddy, 8th grade, Jim Barrett, freshmen and Carl Backstrom, junior varsity. He congratulated the freshman team for their fine 17-1 season record. Backstrom had words of praise for members of the junior varsity team in talking of their season.

Coach Jack Ingalls presented members of the Gladstone varsity squad and made a few remarks on the 1969-70 basketball season. He praised his coaching staff, the overall basketball program and cheerleaders and gave special recognition to Cliff Young and his teammates.

Mike Utt, former sports editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, presented Cliff Young, most valuable player of the Gladstone team, with a certificate for being named to the All U.P. Class B first team by the U.P. Sportswriters.

Pinar commended LeDuc on his fine season at Holy Name and for winning three regional titles at three different locations. He also pointed out that LeDuc is the first coach at Holy Name to receive this outstanding award.

Gordy LeDuc praised his team for the fine season they had this year. "Without their fine effort, I would never have received this special award," he said.

In his first year at Holy Name, LeDuc brought the Crusaders as far as any team had been in the school's history, reaching the state Class B quarter finals before losing. After a 16-5 season, LeDuc now has a career record of 107-65 in eight years of coaching. Last year he guided Marquette Bishop Baraga to the Class D state championship.

The main speaker, Jim Henderson, talked about the importance of basketball. He pointed out the goals and values of a basketball program are good for a young person to have because they will help an athlete to set high moral and scholastic achievement standards.

Hurlers, Hitter Enjoy Great Day

By The Associated Press

Chicago was in a deep freeze. Milwaukee and Montreal were snowed under. But Hank Aaron, like a summer day in Atlanta, was sizzling ... and so were Tom Seaver and Jim Palmer.

While baseball's northern cities, readying themselves for next week's season openers despite heavy spring snowfalls, continued digging out Thursday, Atlanta slugger Aaron and pitching stars Seaver of the New York Mets and Palmer of Baltimore sparkled in exhibition victories in the southland.

Seaver, tuning up for his opening day assignment in titsburgh Tuesday, fired seven shutout innings as the Mets trimmed the Pirates 2-0 under the lights at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Palmer, going the full nine innings for the Orioles at Houston, Beat The Astros 4-1 with a three-hitter.

New snowstorms in wintry Chicago forced the Cubs and White Sox to shift their weekend exhibition windup series from the Windy City to Tulsa, Okla. The Cubs nipped the White Sox 5-4 at Arlington, Tex., Thursday night on Glenn Beckert's run-scoring single with two out in the eighth inning.

In Milwaukee, eager fans plodded through slush at County Stadium after a six-inch snowfall to buy Brewers' season tickets. The new American League club, successor to the ill-fated Seattle Pilots, is scheduled to entertain California Tuesday in its opener. "It's bedlam," summed up a club official.

And in Montreal, where the Expos are to play their home opener next Wednesday against St. Louis, six inches of snow fell ... The day after groundskeepers cleared Jarry Park of snow and ice accumulated through the Canadian winter.

"We had the field in excellent shape," said Lou Martin, the Expos' director of operations, "and the 10 tons of straw I had on the infield all winter left everything fine. Now we've got to start again."

Left-hander Chris Short, making a new start with Philadelphia after missing almost the entire 1969 season following a back operation, pitched six scoreless innings, giving up two hits, in a 5-0 victory over Kansas City. Short has allowed just two earned runs in 28 innings this spring.

In other exhibition action, the New York Yankees outscored Montreal 9-7; Detroit slugged Washington 11-3; Oakland bounced Milwaukee 11-4; San Francisco downed San Diego 8-2; Minnesota shaded Boston 5-4 and the Phils' "B" squad beat Cincinnati 8-4.

In other developments, Washington released Zoilo Versalles, the veteran shortstop who was the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1965, and St. Louis traded infielder Steve Huntz to San Diego for relief pitcher Billy McCool.

The hot hitting of Aaron, who has gone 21 for 42 in exhibition play, helped knuckleballer Phil Niekro toss the Braves past the Indians and Sam McDowell, who struck out 12 in seven innings but was rocked for 13 hits. Niekro scattered six Cleveland hits over the first eight innings.

Seaver checked the hard-hitting Pirates on two safeties, struck out nine and drove in the only run the Mets needed with a second inning single off Steve Blass, his scheduled mound opponent in the season opener.

Palmer became the second Baltimore pitcher to go the distance—Mike Cuellar had worked nine innings last weekend—as the Orioles won with the help of a triple and single by Don Buford and two errors by Houston catcher John Edwards.

Bobby Murcer's first exhibition homer, a three-run blast in New York's five-run sixth inning rally at New Orleans, carried the Yanks past the Expos, who were without Manager Gene Mauch, hospitalized in West Palm Beach, Fla., with a virus.

Home runs by Bill Freehan, Willie Horton and Dalton Jones propelled the Tigers to their third straight victory and Reggie Jackson cracked his first homer of the spring to pace the Athletics' 15-hit attack against Milwaukee.

Smith Makes Final Tiger Roster Cuts

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Manager Mayo Smith has made his final spring training squad cuts for the Detroit Tigers, and three rookies have stuck with the team.

The cuts were made following Detroit's 11-3 exhibition clobbering of Washington Thursday, the team the Tigers will take on Monday to open the American League season in the nation's capital.

Perhaps the biggest surprise has been the performance of shortstop Szotkiewicz (Sock-ah-wits) who batted just .198 at Montgomery, Ala., of the Southern League last year. He has impressed in the field and has batted .263 this spring.

The 23-year-old native of Wilmington, Del., will be used as a backup to Cesar Gutierrez.

"Gutierrez has played well," Mayo said, "But we will pinch hit for him at times when we're looking for a long ball. So then we'll need to bring Szotkiewicz in to play short."

Sent to Tigertown for minor league assignment were pitcher Les Cain, rookie pitchers Bob Reed and Norm McRae, rookie infielder Tim Marting, and rookie catcher Gene Lamont.

The Tigers currently have 26 players, including veteran Tom Tresh who general manager Jim Campbell said he is trying to deal to another team. If no one takes Tresh, he may either quit baseball or accept an offer from Campbell to play at Detroit's Toledo farm club.

Tresh, originally from Detroit, now lives in Mount Pleasant, Mich., where he recently received a degree from Central Michigan University.

He starred with the Yankees from 1962 through mid-1969 when he was traded to the Tigers for outfielder Ron Woods. In 1962, Tresh was chosen AL Rookie of the Year, batting .286, hitting 20 home runs, and knocking in 93.

He has a lifetime batting average of .245, with 153 home runs and 530 RBIs.

He had fair to strong batti averages until he slumped to .219 in 1967, a year in which he was hampered by a reinjured right knee.

The following year, he hit just .195 and last year finished with .211.

"The last three years I was bothered by me knee and now that I have had surgery (after last season) I don't have a chance to see if it was a success," he said in the Marchant Stadium Clubhouse in Lakeland.

"I really don't think I was given much of a chance," he said. "But a man (Smith) has got to make his team up and has to make a decision.

Smith seemed somewhat upset at trimming Tresh.

"Here's a guy who all his life has given 100 per cent," Mayo declared, holding his hand on his head and nodding dejectedly. "It's easy cutting the bums, but guys like him, well...."

"I just hope somebody gives him a shot," Smith said.

Scherman, Cain, Reed and McRae were all battling for the 10th and final spot on Smith's pitching corps. Scherman, who was with Detroit briefly at the start and end of last season, has looked good his last few exhibition appearances.

The 25-year-old southpaw has a 1-0 record in four regular season games.

Maddox was labeled a bright prospect from the moment the Tigers opened spring training Feb. 20. Although he got off to a poor start and said he had some doubts about sticking, he steadily improved as a replacement for sore-armed Mickey Stanley in centerfield.

The 22-year-old former Big Ten batting champion from the University of Michigan has been hitting about .240 in Grapefruit League play with 20 hits, three homers and seven runs batted in.

In Thursday's romp, the Tigers tagged Casey Cox for all their 11 runs in a three-inning span.

Detroit scored two in the third, then had a five-run barrage in the fourth, including a three-run homer by Bill Freehan. The Bengals added four more in the fifth with two coming on a homer by Willie Horton which bounced off the top of the wall in deepest centerfield, 420 feet away.

Dalton Jones followed with a solo blast.

Ken McMullen knocked in Washington's first run with a double in the second and Tim French sent home another score with a two-bagger. McMullen added a long solo homer in the fourth, off starter and winner Joe Niekro.

Bail Denied For White Panther At Marquette

DETROIT (AP) — White Panther radical John Sinclair, sentenced last August to 9½ to 10 years in prison for possession of marijuana, was denied bail Thursday in Federal court.

Judge Fred Kaess ruled the court did not have jurisdiction to review the petition.

Sinclair had asked to be freed on bond while awaiting an appeal of his August conviction in a state court, but state appellate courts have refused to hear his bail-bond petition.

The appeal of his conviction is still before the Michigan Court of Appeals. No date has yet been scheduled.

Sinclair was expecetd to appear at Thursday's hearing, but it was learned he had been returned to Marquette prison after being transferred to Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson for Thursday's court appearance. Judge Kaess said he did not know why Sinclair was not present, but ruled that the appellant's appearance was not necessary for the hearing.

Justine Ravitz, Sinclair's attorney, said he would appeal Judge Kaess's decision.

Varnum Favors Local Controls On Air Pollution

Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistique) endorses the thought that local controls are needed to supplement state control of air pollution, he has advised the Escanaba City Council.

But this opinion is not shared by Gov. William Milliken and Lt. Governor Thomas Schweigert—or at least they make no mention of it in communications from them to the Council.

The letters from the state's two top officials and the representative of the district of which Delta County is a part were solicited by the Council in a letter dated Feb. 24.

Detroit Standards?

The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air had asked the City Council for an endorsement of a proposed county pollution control ordinance. This was never given.

Instead the Council asked Milliken, Schweigert and Varnum if they did not think the state controls were effective, if not why not, and was the state staff sufficient in number to met the control need.

All three state officials expressed confidence in the State's program to control air pollution on a long-term basis; all agreed that progress is being made; but only Varnum said:

"Here in Michigan the level of acceptable air quality varies widely from one part of the state to another. Level of pollution that might be tolerable to Detroit would probably be considered a disaster in Escanaba.

The State's Role

"For this reason a local air pollution ordinance would seem to make sense. It is also likely that quicker detection and better enforcement would be possible under local air pollution ordinances.

"For these reasons, I endorse the idea of local ordinances for the control of air pollution and I intend to introduce a bill in the Legislature to encourage county air pollution ordinances by providing enabling legislation."

Varnum pointed to the effective action of the state in requiring Mead Corp. to meet "definite control standards" before it would receive a permit for its new kraft mill. Evaluation of the technical aspects of the application are beyond the capacity of most communities, he pointed out.

"The same is true of the present Chicago & North Western dust problem. It must be remembered that the City of Escanaba and not the State Air Pollution Control Commission had approved of this installation and it is now the Air Pollution Control Commission and its staff who must be relied upon for the decisions to achieve dust control with continued operation of ore dumping and transfer building," Varnum said.

Words Of Caution

Gov. Milliken's reply noted that the state is "getting the job done" but not fast enough for "some people who demand instant pollution control." To eliminate all sources and all levels of pollution in the state would be quite simple but "it would also be disastrous," he added.

The Governor said the state is undermanned "especially in reference to covering all minor and local sources of air pollution." He said he is confident the "problems" in the Escanaba area will be "resolved as rapidly as possible by the State Air Pollution Control Commission to the best interests of the people in Escanaba and to the State."

Lt. Gov. Schweigert spoke of being in agreement with the trend toward pollution controls but cautioned against "precipitous, unreasonable action."

"I am of the opinion that we should move ahead in the control of our environment as rapidly as possible without the destruction of Michigan's economic and social base," he said.

The Council, which had solicited the letters from the state officials, entered them in the record without reading at last night's council session.

Copies are available at the City Hall, the public was advised.

MICHIGAN WEEK will be observed May 16-23 and Delta County's committee has begun meetings in planned events of the week. Meeting Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce building are (from left) Ronald F. Stephenson To Honor Dr. Karm C. Kerwell

STEPHENSON — A grateful community will gather here April 6 to pay tribute to a pioneer resident who has devoted practically his entire life to serving the needs of the area.

Dr. Karm C. Kerwell, well-known Stephenson physician, will be honored at a testimonial dinner at the Stephenson Elementary School.

"It was 15 degrees below zero and we had four feet of snow on the ground," Dr. Kerwell recalled in describing his arrival in this lumber and farming community on Dec. 14, 1919. He came to join the late Dr. Edward Sawbridge who at that time was searching for a young medical assistant.

"My first thoughts were that I'd stay for a little time before going on to a better climate," said Dr. Kerwell. That stay turned out to be 50 years.

Cited By State

Two years ago, Dr. Kerwell was cited by the Michigan Medical Society in Detroit for a half-century of dedication to the medical profession.

A graduate of the University of Michigan School of Medicine in 1918, Dr. Kerwell interned at Saint Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, Ky., before joining Dr. Sawbridge at Stephenson.

Times have changed since the physician first arrived in the area. World War I had just ended and the nation was returning to normal life. The primary source of income in the Menominee County area was lumber and most of the inhabitants lived on farms.

Timber accidents and farm mishaps were numerous in those days and reaching hospitals for better medical attention was no easy chore. Horses were the main source of transportation, especially in the rural areas, when accidents occurred on farms and in the forests.

Flu Epidemic

One of the first real challenges of medical life in the forest lands of Upper Michigan that greeted the young doctor, however, was the famed flu epidemic of 1918. Those were trying days for any young physician. People had little money to pay their bills and some often paid their medical obligations in trade, using their farm products. It was rare for a woman to enter a hospital to give birth to a child. Many families had a mid-wife to care for the mother and child.

But Dr Kerwell remembers traveling considerable distances to care for the mother and baby, not to mention the hours of waiting before the birth of the child.

"We went to the sick and suffering," said Dr. Kerwell. "Most of our work in those days was house calls and often minor surgery was performed in the kitchen of the home."

"Lots Of Water"

His first automobile was a Model T Ford. "But it wasn't much good in some areas because of poor roads," he noted. One of his first orders when entering a home was, "I need lots of boiling water," he recalled.

Dr. Kerwell married the former Elsie Nelson in Wallace in 1932 and five years later they adopted a set of twins, a boy and a girl. Edward Karm Kerwell is now in the insurance business in Oconto Falls and Mrs. Jack Ruleau lives in Menominee. The senior Kerwells have five children.

The busy duties of a doctor and a family man did not keep Dr. Kerwell from performing his community obligations. He is a charter member of the Mid-County Men's Club, a member of the Twin City Medical Society, a member of the Twin City Shrine Club, a member of the Stephenson Masonic Order and the Michigan Medical Society.

Short Day Now

The doctor works a short day now but continues to visit his offices in the Stephenson Pharmacy Building every day. He'll occasionally make a trip to St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital in Menominee or Marinette General Hospital to visit patients. He likes to spend the summer at his cottage at Shakey Lakes or fishing off a pier near his cottage. He has always been an avid fisherman and hunter.

The community feels Dr. Kerwell has served the area well for the past half century.

"The community wishes him well and wants him to enjoy his retirement," said a committee member working on the testimonial project. "Somehow we feel that the history of our community would not be as interesting had it not been for the fact that Dr. Kerwell elected to spend his life here and contribute so much to the area," stated the committeeman.

Blood Donations Total 248 Units

The Red Cross today reported that although the quota had not been met a good showing was made at the blood procurement clinic which ended Thursday, with a total of 248 units contributed by Delta County donors. The quota was 280 units.

On Tuesday at Gladstone the collection was 63 units, one over quota; in Escanaba on Wednesday it was 87 and on Thursday 98 for a total of 248. The showing was, however, an improvement over the prior visit of the bloodmobile, the Red Cross reported.

Recognition was given several donors who contributed one or more gallons cumulatively, and pins were presented to:

Allen Kidd, Escanaba, 8 gallons; Joseph LaFave, Escanaba Rte. 1, 4 gallons; Gerald Babel, Escanaba, Lester Perison, Escanaba Rte. 2, Robert Thorsen, Rte. 1, Allen P. Gardiner, Escanaba, Harriet Hider, Bark River, each 3 gallon; Shirley Rolstad, Sonia Nelson, both of Escanaba 2 gallons; and Robert Ferguson and Carol Aker, Escanaba, and the Rev. Kuckhahn, Bark River, each 1 gallon.

Special gifts were presented to donors Julie Neumann, Escanaba; Gary Quick, Rapid River; Bob Campana, Marquette; Mrs. Franklin Steede, Tom Leonard and Veronica Stade, all of Escanaba.

The bloodmobile will return to Delta County in June.

Flat Rock Sets Registration Day For Kindergarten

The Flat Rock Public elementary school district announced today that kindergarten registration for 1970-71 will be held Monday, April 13, in the kindergarten room of the school building from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Present kindergarten children will not report for classes on that day.

Parents should bring the child's birth certificate.

All children entering any public or private school in Michigan for the first time also must sumbit a statement signed by a physician proving immunization against small pox, diptheria, tetanus, pertussis, measles, polio and that they have been tuberculin tested to determine the presence of infection of tuberculosis, said Supt. Leo J. Brunelle.

Bail Denied For White Panther At Marquette

DETROIT (AP) — White Panther radical John Sinclair, sentenced last August to 9½ to 10 years in prison for possession of marijuana, was denied bail Thursday in Federal court.

Judge Fred Kaess ruled the court did not have jurisdiction to review the petition.

Sinclair had asked to be freed on bond while awaiting an appeal of his August conviction in a state court, but state appellate courts have refused to hear his bail-bond petition.

The appeal of his conviction is still before the Michigan Court of Appeals. No date has yet been scheduled.

Sinclair was expecetd to appear at Thursday's hearing, but it was learned he had been returned to Marquette prison after being transferred to Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson for Thursday's court appearance. Judge Kaess said he did not know why Sinclair was not present, but ruled that the appellant's appearance was not necessary for the hearing.

Justine Ravitz, Sinclair's attorney, said he would appeal Judge Kaess's decision.

Varnum Favors Local Controls On Air Pollution

Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistique) endorses the thought that local controls are needed to supplement state control of air pollution, he has advised the Escanaba City Council.

But this opinion is not shared by Gov. William Milliken and Lt. Governor Thomas Schweigert—or at least they make no mention of it in communications from them to the Council.

The letters from the state's two top officials and the representative of the district of which Delta County is a part were solicited by the Council in a letter dated Feb. 24.

Detroit Standards?

The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air had asked the City Council for an endorsement of a proposed county pollution control ordinance. This was never given.

Instead the Council asked Milliken, Schweigert and Varnum if they did not think the state controls were effective, if not why not, and was the state staff sufficient in number to met the control need.

All three state officials expressed confidence in the State's program to control air pollution on a long-term basis; all agreed that progress is being made; but only Varnum said:

"Here in Michigan the level of acceptable air quality varies widely from one part of the state to another. Level of pollution that might be tolerable to Detroit would probably be considered a disaster in Escanaba.

The State's Role

"For this reason a local air pollution ordinance would seem to make sense. It is also likely that quicker detection and better enforcement would be possible under local air pollution ordinances.

"For these reasons, I endorse the idea of local ordinances for the control of air pollution and I intend to introduce a bill in the Legislature to encourage county air pollution ordinances by providing enabling legislation."

Varnum pointed to the effective action of the state in requiring Mead Corp. to meet "definite control standards" before it would receive a permit for its new kraft mill. Evaluation of the technical aspects of the application are beyond the capacity of most communities, he pointed out.

"The same is true of the present Chicago & North Western dust problem. It must be remembered that the City of Escanaba and not the State Air Pollution Control Commission had approved of this installation and it is now the Air Pollution Control Commission and its staff who must be relied upon for the decisions to achieve dust control with continued operation of ore dumping and transfer building," Varnum said.

Words Of Caution

Gov. Milliken's reply noted that the state is "getting the job done" but not fast enough for "some people who demand instant pollution control." To eliminate all sources and all levels of pollution in the state would be quite simple but "it would also be disastrous," he added.

The Governor said the state is undermanned "especially in reference to covering all minor and local sources of air pollution." He said he is confident the "problems" in the Escanaba area will be "resolved as rapidly as possible by the State Air Pollution Control Commission to the best interests of the people in Escanaba and to the State."

Lt. Gov. Schweigert spoke of being in agreement with the trend toward pollution controls but cautioned against "precipitous, unreasonable action."

"I am of the opinion that we should move ahead in the control of our environment as rapidly as possible without the destruction of Michigan's economic and social base," he said.

The Council, which had solicited the letters from the state officials, entered them in the record without reading at last night's council session.

Copies are available at the City Hall, the public was advised.

Stephenson To Honor Dr. Karm C. Kerwell

STEPHENSON — A grateful community will gather here April 6 to pay tribute to a pioneer resident who has devoted practically his entire life to serving the needs of the area.

Dr. Karm C. Kerwell, well-known Stephenson physician, will be honored at a testimonial dinner at the Stephenson Elementary School.

"It was 15 degrees below zero and we had four feet of snow on the ground," Dr. Kerwell recalled in describing his arrival in this lumber and farming community on Dec. 14, 1919. He came to join the late Dr. Edward Sawbridge who at that time was searching for a young medical assistant.

"My first thoughts were that I'd stay for a little time before going on to a better climate," said Dr. Kerwell. That stay turned out to be 50 years.

Cited By State

Two years ago, Dr. Kerwell was cited by the Michigan Medical Society in Detroit for a half-century of dedication to the medical profession.

A graduate of the University of Michigan School of Medicine in 1918, Dr. Kerwell interned at Saint Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, Ky., before joining Dr. Sawbridge at Stephenson.

Times have changed since the physician first arrived in the area. World War I had just ended and the nation was returning to normal life. The primary source of income in the Menominee County area was lumber and most of the inhabitants lived on farms.

Timber accidents and farm mishaps were numerous in those days and reaching hospitals for better medical attention was no easy chore. Horses were the main source of transportation, especially in the rural areas, when accidents occurred on farms and in the forests.

Flu Epidemic

One of the first real challenges of medical life in the forest lands of Upper Michigan that greeted the young doctor, however, was the famed flu epidemic of 1918. Those were trying days for any young physician. People had little money to pay their bills and some often paid their medical obligations in trade, using their farm products. It was rare for a woman to enter a hospital to give birth to a child. Many families had a mid-wife to care for the mother and child.

But Dr Kerwell remembers traveling considerable distances to care for the mother and baby, not to mention the hours of waiting before the birth of the child.

"We went to the sick and suffering," said Dr. Kerwell. "Most of our work in those days was house calls and often minor surgery was performed in the kitchen of the home."

"Lots Of Water"

His first automobile was a Model T Ford. "But it wasn't much good in some areas because of poor roads," he noted. One of his first orders when entering a home was, "I need lots of boiling water," he recalled.

Dr. Kerwell married the former Elsie Nelson in Wallace in 1932 and five years later they adopted a set of twins, a boy and a girl. Edward Karm Kerwell is now in the insurance business in Oconto Falls and Mrs. Jack Ruleau lives in Menominee. The senior Kerwells have five children.

The busy duties of a doctor and a family man did not keep Dr. Kerwell from performing his community obligations. He is a charter member of the Mid-County Men's Club, a member of the Twin City Medical Society, a member of the Twin City Shrine Club, a member of the Stephenson Masonic Order and the Michigan Medical Society.

Short Day Now

The doctor works a short day now but continues to visit his offices in the Stephenson Pharmacy Building every day. He'll occasionally make a trip to St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital in Menominee or Marinette General Hospital to visit patients. He likes to spend the summer at his cottage at Shakey Lakes or fishing off a pier near his cottage. He has always been an avid fisherman and hunter.

The community feels Dr. Kerwell has served the area well for the past half century.

"The community wishes him well and wants him to enjoy his retirement," said a committee member working on the testimonial project. "Somehow we feel that the history of our community would not be as interesting had it not been for the fact that Dr. Kerwell elected to spend his life here and contribute so much to the area," stated the committeeman.

Blood Donations Total 248 Units

The Red Cross today reported that although the quota had not been met a good showing was made at the blood procurement clinic which ended Thursday, with a total of 248 units contributed by Delta County donors. The quota was 280 units.

On Tuesday at Gladstone the collection was 63 units, one over quota; in Escanaba on Wednesday it was 87 and on Thursday 98 for a total of 248. The showing was, however, an improvement over the prior visit of the bloodmobile, the Red Cross reported.

Recognition was given several donors who contributed one or more gallons cumulatively, and pins were presented to:

Allen Kidd, Escanaba, 8 gallons; Joseph LaFave, Escanaba Rte. 1, 4 gallons; Gerald Babel, Escanaba, Lester Perison, Escanaba Rte. 2, Robert Thorsen, Rte. 1, Allen P. Gardiner, Escanaba, Harriet Hider, Bark River, each 3 gallon; Shirley Rolstad, Sonia Nelson, both of Escanaba 2 gallons; and Robert Ferguson and Carol Aker, Escanaba, and the Rev. Kuckhahn,Bark River, each 1 gallon.

Special gifts were presented to donors Julie Neumann, Escanaba; Gary Quick, Rapid River; Bob Campana, Marquette; Mrs. Franklin Steede, Tom Leonard and Veronica Stade, all of Escanaba.

The bloodmobile will return to Delta County in June.

Stamp Price Hike PO Strike Bargain?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged Congress today to increase the cost of mailing a first-class letter to 10 cents to help pay for the postal part of the new pay raises proposed for about 5.9 million federal employes.

In a special message, Nixon said his administration "is committed to a policy of pay-as-you-go." He described that as not only good business but "insurance against inflation."

The President announced that the planned 6 per cent increase for all federal civilian and military personnel, retroactive to last Dec. 27, will require "further actions which will result in some modification of our 1971 budgetary program."

Without going into details, Nixon said that he will propose "additional revenue which will neither require extending the surtax nor raising income tax rates."

About the only specific thing he mentioned in the tax area was a plan to accelerate collection of estate and gift taxes which would provide a one-time-only federal windfall of $1.5 billion in receipts in the 1971 fiscal year that begins July 1.

For the current fiscal year ending June 30, Nixon said, the $1.2 billion cost of the 6 per cent retroactive pay boost "can be met from budgeted and surplus funds."

DAVID BARTLEY, Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, smiles after signing a bill that would forbid Massachusetts draftees from fighting in an undeclared war. The bill would test the legality of boys from the state being sent to Vietnam or any other trouble spot until such wars are declared legal by Congress. The measure was signed by Gov. Francis Sargent who hopes the U. S. Supreme court takes action on the bill. (AP Wirephoto)

Undeclared War Service Nixed

BOSTON (AP) — The state of Massachusetts prepared today a Supreme Court challenge of the use of U.S. armed forces in the Vietnam fighting without an express congressional mandate.

Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn said he would seek a quick test of a new state law providing that as matters stand servicemen from Massachusetts can refuse to take part in such hostilities.

Quinn said 19-year-old John J. O'Brien of Medford, a soldier under orders for shipment to Vietnam April 19, already had offered himself for a legal test.

The law went into the books Thursday with the signature of Republican Gov. Francis W. Sargent, who commented:

"The issue is whether and when, under our Constitution, a citizen can be compelled to engage in a conflict that lacks a congressional declaration of war."

The new state law says that in the absence of such a declaration, servicemen from Massachusetts are authorized to decline assignment to fighting which is "not an emergency" and "not otherwise authorized in the powers granted to the President as Commander in Chief."

The state law requires the Massachusetts attorney general to represent any Massachusetts serviceman seeking its protection.

Sargent said, "The bill is sincere, but its effects are doubtful. If signing this bill will bring an answer from the U.S. Supreme Court, then I believe America will be well served by this act."

Legal experts said Quinn's first move would be a motion before the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court for permission to file a complaint with the U.S. Supreme Court.

If the U.S. Supreme Court declined to entertain the complaint, Quinn then could bring it in a U.S. District Court with the idea of working his way up to the Supreme Court by a longer judicial process.

Welfare Plan Crackdown Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Twiname, the federal welfare administrator, vows a crackdown against 39 states now failing to meet government welfare requirements.

"From now on we'll be bringing cases directly to Washington for determination after six months of unsuccessful negotiations in field offices," Twiname said in an interview. "Things won't be stretched out forever."

He acted after a government survey showed that as of Jan. 1 only 11 states were in total compliance with congressional amendments, Supreme Court decisions, and agency standards dating back to 1967.

Compliance deadlines are months past for all states.

The department of Health, Education and Welfare began enforcement proceedings against two states, Nevada and Connecticut, in recent months. But no state has yet lost its share of federal welfare aid—the stiffest penalty provided by law.

Twiname indicated enforcement proceedings will be started against as many other states as necessary.

George Wiley, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Organization, was skeptical about government enforcement.

"It has taken HEW a year to admit that 40 states are in noncompliance," he said. "I must wonder how long it will take them to bring those states into compliance."

GOP Confident Carswell Will Be Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces showed increasing confidence today as anti-Carswell senators pressed an all-out effort to capture 16 undeclared Senate votes holding the key to confirmation of President Nixon's Supreme Court nominee.

Unleashing a torrent of speeches and statements, opponents of G. Harrold Carswell held the Senate floor until long after dark Thursday, centering their assault on Nixon's assertion that his power of appointment is threatened.

They also fired off a letter to the Justice Department demanding to know procedures for checking Supreme Court nominees. And they produced a new document they said proved Carswell misled the Judiciary Committee on the extent of his involvement in establishing a white-only golf club.

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., told a newsman those against confirmation of the 50-year-old Florida federal judge were counting on swinging crucial votes by hammering away on the floor and in private at a letter Nixon sent to Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, earlier in the week.

In that letter, Nixon said charges against Carswell of racism and mediocrity were baseless and that those opposing the judge were seeking to rob the President of the constitutional power to appoint members of the court.

"The record shows that the Senate has been granted a clear and significant independent role in the appointment of Supreme Court justices and has exercised the responsibility throughout the nation's history," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

Mishap Kills 2

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Two persons died Thursday in a two-car crash on M-43 northeast of Kalamazoo.

The victims were identified as Lewis Cleveland, 68, of Martin and Douglas DeVries, 23, of Richland in Kalamazoo County.

Sheriff's deputies said a car driven by DeVries went out of control and crossed the centerline.

Back-To-Work Pleas Ignored By Controllers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite pledges by union leaders to get their men back to work, air traffic controllers continued calling in sick today and airline travel remained curtailed.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said the absentee rate in its 21 regional control centers showed little change on the 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. shift.

"We see a slight improvement over-all, but not enough to have much effect," the spokesman said. "The facilities that have been bad are still bad."

In New York, a focal point in the strike, 63 of 164 controllers scheduled to work reported sick at the Islip, L.I., air route center which controls traffic in several Eastern states. No controllers reported in at the Greater Pittsburgh Airport tower which was manned by supervisory personnel.

The number of controllers staying off the job remained about the same at Kansas City and Minneapolis. In Chicago, all 10 controllers at the O'Hare tower reported for duty but the nearby Aurora Control Center declined to give out numbers on strikers.

Leaders of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization—PATCO—agreed Thursday to order their men back to work by the weekend.

U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr., then dismissed contempt proceedings against PATCO Executive Director F. Lee Bailey and two other union leaders.

Later, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman confirmed that three controllers who had been ordered from Baton Rouge, La., to new posts and who had not reported to their new assignments were in the early stages of dismissal proceedings.

Lineup Listed In Carswell Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the current Senate lineup in the fight over Judge G. Harrold Carswell's nomination to the Supreme Court:

The number of senators who have declared against a motion to send the nomination back to Judiciary Committee, thus killing it, stands at 46.

Truckers Back On Job

Wage Increase Of $1 Per Hour Agreed Upon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of striking truck drivers went back to work today under a tentative agreement that reportedly will hike their average wage by more than $1 an hour over three years.

Teamsters union acting president Frank E. Fitzsimmmons asked the strikers to return to their jobs pending a mail vote by the 425,000 workers covered by the tentative agreement announced Thursday.

Most Stay On Job

Most of the 425,000 drivers had stayed on the job after the old contract expired midnight Tuesday but wildcat strikes in dozens of cities added up to the biggest trucking walkout in the nation's history.

"Tentative agreement has been reached on monetary issues for a new contract," said a joint announcement by Fitzsimmons and chief industry negotiator Ray F. Beagle of Trucking Employers Inc.

Achievement Noted

"The parties substantially worked it out for themselves," said J. Curtis Counts, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service who had participated in the talks. He called the agreement "an achievement for collective bargaining."

Details of the agreement were withheld pending results of the mail referendum among the workers but sources in the negotiations confirmed the wage hike figure of more than $1 per hour for the approximately 325,000 city truck drivers. These men now average about $4 an hour and about $10,000 a year with overtime and other benefits.

Driving Raise Set

There was also a reported raise of 1¾ cents a mile for the 100,000 long distance drivers who are now paid from 11 to 14 cents a mile and earn an average of $13,000 a year.

The total three-year cost of the agreement was reported at well over $2 billion.

Fitzsimmons and Beagle said some remaining details on geographical area supplements to the national contract will be worked out by next week.

Arson Blamed In Three CMU Fires

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP) — Damage was estimated at $5,000 today from four small fires which investigators said were set deliberately Thursday night in a building housing the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Central Michigan University.

The fires were reported in wastebaskets and on bulletin boards of Central Hall, a three story 62-year-old building on the campus.

Investigators from the State Police fire marshal division said it had been determined that arson was involved.

Congress Riding Herd In Beef Price Hassle?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cattle industry spokesman says he is alarmed by a congressional panel's urging creation of a federal commission to keep watch on beef production from ranch to supermarket.

C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, said the proposal might be the first step toward government supervision of the industry.

"Based on our limited knowledge of the report, the tenor of it is quite alarming, even if such a commission is considered on a temporary basis," he said.

A special studies subcommittee headed by Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., recommended Thursday a commission of not more than 18 members is needed for at least two years to study whether meat production is meeting the needs of the consumer.

The report, which also advocates liberalization of U.S. import laws so more hamburger-type beef can be admitted from overseas, is expected to be considered Wednesday by the House Committee on Government Operations.

A major contention of the report is that beef production, including imports, has not increased fast enough to satisfy consumer appetites without higher prices.

"Congress should establish a commission to determine the adequacy of the meat supply for consumers at reasonable prices with a reasonable return to producers, packers and distributors," the report said.

Monagan, contacted in Waterbury, Conn., said he did not intend the proposed commission to be a regulatory body over the cattle industry.

Disclosure of the report came as the Nixon administration turned down an opportunity to expand meat imports this year to help ease consumer meat prices at retail stores.

Missing 26 Days

No Word: Kunstler

"We've had no word whatsoever. It's incomprehensible why we haven't heard from him," declared Kunstler, who says he doesn't know where Brown is.

Brown's wife could not be reached. The FBI says it does not know Brown's whereabouts.

Brown was to stand trial on charges of arson and incitement to riot stemming from a 1967 disturbance in Cambridge, Md. The trial has been reset for April 20 in Ellicott City.

Dorchester County State's Atty. William B. Yates Jr. prosecutor in the case, said, "I have nothing to base any conjecture on, but I think he'll appear for trial."

Penalty Slated

Yates said the additional seven-year penalty for not showing might be some incentive for Brown to appear.

"I feel this, really, that he's not dead," Kunstler said Thursday. "And I think his wife shares that feeling. I think that somewhere, sometime he'll turn up and make a statement.

"If he's underground," Kunstler said, "it would be hard for him to tell anyone. How do you communicate? By letter? By phone? Then you give yourself away."

The doorman at Mrs. Brown's apartment house in Upper Manhattan said Thursday he hasn't seen Brown, "in weeks, maybe months." He also had not seen Mrs. Brown recently, and no one answered the door at her apartment.

Stays With Friends

Kunstler said she had been staying with friends in various places since the address of the apartment was printed in newspapers.

Brown left for Bel Air March 8.

'Open Marxists' Tab Placed On 'Weathermen'

The 12, including police fugitive Kathy Boudin and chief Weatherman Mark Rudd, were accused Thursday of conspiring to incite—and participating in—violence during the "four days of rage" sponsored by the militant faction of Students for a Democratic Society last Oct. 8-11 in Chicago.

The indictments by a Chicago federal grand jury came less than two months after the tumultuous trial of the Chicago 7—first defendants to be tried under the 1968 antiriot law—closed in the court of U.S. District Judge Julius J. Hoffman.

Ironically, Judge Hoffman, one of eight judges in the court, was selected under a random assignment method to hear the Weatherman case.

The indictments charged each of the 12 with one count of conspiring between June 30 and Oct. 11, 1969, "to travel in and use the facilities of interstate commerce with the intent to incite, organize, promote, encourage, participate in and carry on a riot." Each also was charged with one to four counts of crossing state lines with the intent of inciting a riot.

Downstate Buried Again

Spring Shudders Under Blanket Of Snow

By The Associated Press

Spring shuddered again Thursday as it vanished from Michigan beneath a blanket of snow for the second time in a week.

Up to 10 inches of soggy new snow fell upon portions of the state still white from a fall of up to 13 inches the previous Thursday.

Lansing reported a 24 - hour record snowfall for April of 17 inches. The Weather Bureau said snow started in the state's capital at 4:13 p.m. Wednesday and didn't end until 2:30 p.m. Thursday. The previous Lansing 24 - hour April snowfall record was 9.9 inches on April 4, 1920.

Roads were hit hard by the latest storm with at least one state trooper's car among the stranded vehicles when I 96 was blocked for a time in Kent County.

5-Mile Traffic Backup

A five-mile traffic backup occurred on I 94, near Battle Creek as drivers found forward movement difficult due to a combination of rain, sleet and snow.

Bus service in Lansing was halted until today because of the storm although many streets cleared quickly once the snow stopped.

A school in Sandusky in the thumb made plans Thursday afternoon to keep about 250 students overnight when heavy snow made the roads impassable. But the children were sent home late in the afternoon when snowplows cleared the way for schoolbuses.

Snow Melts

By midafternoon, the sun poked through the clouds above western Michigan and the snow began to melt away. State Police reported main roads open again with no major trouble spots.

Battle Creek was troubled by the storm briefly as the city manager called a weather emergency and traffic virtually came to a stop. But within hours, traffic was moving almost normally again.

At one time, stalled cars and snow drifts blocked I 96 between Lansing and Grand Rapids in six places. But road crews had the highway open again by midafternoon.

Drifting Closes Roads

Drifting snow closed I 94 in Berrien County for a time.

Power failures were perhaps the most persistent problem as Consumers Power Co. reported that more than 34,000 customers across the state were without power for a time during the storm.

To the East, the Saginaw area was battered. Thousands of homes were blacked out during the night. All schools closed by noon as snow blocked most rural roads around Saginaw.

Lightning, which accompanied the snow in some sections of western Michigan, was blamed for knocking two broadcast stations off the air for a time. Station WKZO in Kalamazoo lost its am radio service for nearly an hour because of lightning and another bolt halted broadcast by WOOD-TV and FM in Grand Rapids for nearly six hours although the station continued broadcasts on am radio.

Several school districts closed their doors but the list of school

'High Point' Attacks Continue

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong kept up their new "high point" of intensified attacks across South Vietnam today, shelling 60 positions and battling South Vietnamese troops in the northern Mekong Delta and American forces near the Cambodian border.

Casualties continued to rise. Official but incomplete reports said at least 79 Americans, 267 South Vietnamese troops and 770 enemy had been killed since Tuesday night, when the Communist command launched its heaviest attacks in eight months.

Another [illegible]ican and 748 South V[illegible]oops were reported [illegible].

At least 10[illegible]namese civilians were reported killed and 292 wounded.

Hearing On Ore Injunction Slated For April 13

A hearing to determine whether or not a temporary restraining order will be issued against the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. in a suit brought by a group of north Escanaba residents against the railroad will be held in Circiut Court for Delta County in Escanaba at 9:30 a.m. Monday, April 13.

The action against the railroad was filed in Circuit Court Monday and asks injunctive relief from dust, noise, fumes and vibration, etc., originating at the C&NW's iron ore dumping, stockpiling, shiploading and rail yard facility in north Escanaba.

An order from the court could result in shutdown of the terminal or limit operations to conditions specified by the court.

Attorney Nino Green of Gladstone, who filed the action, said the plaintiffs are not asking that the terminal operation be closed, but that the court "enjoin the result" of the C&NW activity.

The railroad already is under order of the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission to install dust control equipment and to take other measures to eliminate air pollution in the north Escanaba area. Plans developed by the railroad in cooperation with the Roy F. Weston Co. of Harrisburg, Pa., were submitted to the Air Pollution Control Commission last month and will be reviewed at the April 21 commission meeting in Lansing.

Judge Fred J. Bouchard of the 11th Judicial Circuit (Saginaw County) will preside at the hearing in the absence of Delta County Circuit Judge Bernard H. Davidson of Marquette who has been assigned that week to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The hearing will not consider demands for damages by the plaintiffs totaling $615,000. Hearing on the damage part of the suit will be scheduled later.

FHA Supervisor To Appear Here

The Farmers Home Administration of Escanaba announces that a supervisor will be in Manistique generally every Thursday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. in the basement of the Post Office building.

The Farmers Home Administration is a branch of the United States Department of Agriculture, with financing programs in the general areas of farm and rural housing.

FHA programs are designed to help eligible, low to moderate income families who are unable to obtain credit from a local source.

Voters To Pick Three Councilmen Monday

Voters of Escanaba will elect a "new" city council on Monday, April 6. The council has five members and three of the five seats are at stake.

The retirement of Ed Cox from the council after 15 yars of service was recognized with a resolution of appreciation adopted by the Council last evening. He is not a candidate for reelection.

Also retiring from the Council is Dupuie, who with Pryal was appointed to fill vacancies. Pryal is a candiate in Monday's election.

Dedicated Service

Cox expressed appreciation for the opportunity to serve the people of Escanaba and said he had found pleasure in working with present and past councils. He reviewed the industrial development of the community and noted that the council is aware of the importance of a good industrial climate, the jobs that industry provides, and the taxes it pays.

"We've got to take care of the industries we have," he said.

Commenting on his own philosophy as a councilman, Cox recalled that years ago Edward E. Edick, then Escanaba High School principal, advised him that "if you are honest in your decisions you will be right at least 90 per cent of the time." Cox added: "And I hope I have been."

Mayor Chase praised Cox for his "dedicated" service and Councilman Bink said: "Ed Cox never rode the fence. You always knew where he stood on a question."

Industrial Growth

The Council resolution cited Cox for his service from 1951 until 1962 and from 1966 until 1970, including two years as mayor—1958-60

The resolution notes that "he initiated and encouraged strong industrial development and expansion programs to attract new industry to our city, and Escanaba industries to expand within our boundaries."

In Monday's election the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. on Monday in the seven precincts, which are located at:

First—Franklin School, Second — New Jefferson School, Third—Bay de Noc Community College West Hall, Fourth—Old Jefferson School, Fifth — Junior High School, Sixth—Lemmer School, Seventh—Webster School.

The Candidates

At stake in the election are two council seats for terms of four years, and one for a term of two years.

John W. Curran, 420 S. 13th St., Harnischfeger employe.

Candidates for the two-year unexpired term:

Eugene O. Slagstad, 224 N. 14th St., Harnischfeger employe.

On Monday, April 13, the "new" council will meet for reorganization, and if custom is followed the council will elect as mayor the candidate who received the highest vote on April 6.

The first regular meeting of the new council will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday, April 16, in the Civic Center, with the new mayor presiding.

VA Reducing Premiums On GI Insurance

Insurance rate reductions up to 35 per cent in two classes of G. I. National Service Life Insurance policies were announced by Donald E. Johnson, administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Veterans holding policies affected by the new rates will save $10,000,000 in premium payments every year, Johnson said.

The administrator said also that premium reductions becoming effective this fall will benefit almost 600,000 veterans, approximately 10 per cent of VA's total number of policy holders.

Premiums on one group of about 164,000 life insurance policies will be reduced an average of 18 per cent, saving veterans about $5.6 million annually, Johnson said. These reductions result from increased interest earnings in this insurance fund. He said this reduction applied only to policies bearing the prefix "J"—not to those with "JR" and "JS."

He added that these policies were issued in 1965 and 1966 when insurance programs were re-opened to certain disabled veterans who were insurable as standard insurance risks.

Administrator Johnson said premium reductions averaging 35 per cent will be made to a second group of some 420,000 veterans with five year renewable term policies bearing prefixes "V", "RS" and "W" and carrying the "optional total disability income" rider.

Reductions on these riders will save these veterans about $5 million a year. They were made possible because claims were less than anticipated.

Johnson stressed that since affected veterans will be notified of the premium reductions, it is not necessary to contact the VA.

P&H Promotes John Moore

Appointment of John A. Moore of Escanaba to the position of Manager-Manufacturing and Office Employment at Harnischfeger's main plant in Milwaukee was announced today by Jack Boeecher, director of personnel and industrial relations.

Moore joined Harnischfeger in June, 1959 as an industrial engineer at the firm's Milwaukee operations. He was transferred to Escanaba in September, 1961, and served as an industrial engineer at the Electrical Products plant until his assignment to the personnel department at the Construction Equipment plant in July, 1963.

A native of Escanaba, Moore graduated from Escanaba High School in 1955 and from Stout University in 1959.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Moore, 1221 Stephenson Ave. and is married to the former Sally Boddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boddy, Sr., 427 S. 12th St. They have two children and reside on the Old State Road. Moore will be joined by his family in June.

Large Die-Offs Of Alewives Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department warned Thursday that some areas of Lake Michigan may experience large die-offs of alewives—but not as serious as in 1967.

Asst. Secretary Leslie L. Glasgow said the population of alewives in Lake Michigan in 1969 appeared to be about 60 per cent higher than in 1968 but was still substantially below 1967 when millions of dead fish washed up on the beaches.

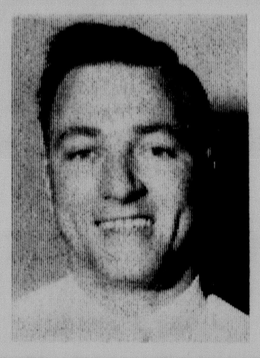

The alewife is a small fish which serves as food for larger fish and is caught commercially for fish meal and pet food.

It is believed to have entered the Great Lakes by way of the St. Lawrence River.

Glasgow said severe winter temperatures and the stress of adjusting to warmer waters in the spring may touch off widespread alewife deaths.

He said the areas most likely to be affected are the shores of Illinois and Indiana.

The Austrian Anti-Noise League was quietly dissolved because its chairman and secretary for two years were the only members.

Bank To Build Branch Facility

Forrest A. Henslee, executive vice president of the State Bank of Escanaba, announced that the Bank's Board of Directors has approved plans for a new branch bank facility at the southeast corner of 25th St. and 1st Ave. N.

The property, which is adjacent to the new Delta Shopping Plaza, was acquired in August, 1969.

C. E. Noetzel, A. I. A. ,of Detroit, who specializes in designing bank buildings, is the architect.

Henslee said that the new branch will provide complete banking services including drive-up banking, continuing the State Bank policy of providing modern convenient banking facilities for the residents of the Escanaba area.

Kidney Foundation Field Secretary Will Speak Here

The newly appointed field director of the Michigan Kidney Foundation, David P. St. Clair, will be in Escanaba on April 13-14.

During his stay here, the local chapter is setting up a busy speaking schedule for him to appear at various clubs, schools and community meetings.

St. Clair has been actively coordinating community interest and support throughout the state on kidney problems, diseases and programs to treat them. He is a graduate of Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis and received his bachelors and masters degrees from Butler University.

For 13 years he served in the pastoral ministry in Indiana followed by institutional chaplaincy working in psychiatric and general hospital programs. While at the University of Michigan Hospital working on in-patient care on behalf of the Michigan Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, he developed a close involvement with kidney disease patients and home dialysis programs.

He succeeds former field director Gary O'Donnell who has been appointed acting executive director of the Michigan Kidney Foundation.

Politicians Must Share Blame For Viet War: Demo

EAST LANSING (AP) —Zolton Ferency, one of three announced Democratic contenders for the governor's chair, says political campaigns "must become schools of thought and responsible politicians must do the teaching."

Ferency's comments were included in remarks for Thursday to campaign workers meeting on the Michigan State University campus.

"The people of Michigan have made it plain that they will not tolerate politicians who seek personal political advantage by making unfounded, irresponsible attacks upon the political opposition for the sole purpose of gaining votes," Ferency said.

"It is sheer hypocrisy to attempt to put the major share of the blame for the massive and tragic consequences of the war in Vietnam at the doorstop of the Nixon-Agnew Administration or to impose a measure of guilt by political association upon Michigan Republicans such as George Romney or William Milliken."

Ferency said "the fact of the matter is that all we Democrats and Republicans alike, for better or for worse, must assume our share of the awful burdens of the war in Vietnam, wether we like it or not."

Misdirected Effort

The Delta County Board of Supervisors, now the Board of Commissioners, earlier this month passed a resolution requesting legislation to repeal the state law requiring county boards to publish the minutes of all board meetings in a general circulation newspaper.

In place of newspaper publication, the board suggests that it be required "to prepare a report of its proceedings immediately after each session and copies of these reports shall be made available to anyone who desires same at the Delta County Clerk's office or other designated place."

Reasons for the request, according to the resolution, are that the present published report "serves a questionable few readers who could just as well secure these reports from the clerk's office or other designated places in the county . . . the board has found it difficult to receive satisfactory or prompt service in this function and the cost of such printing is an ever increasing budgetary item, and . . . meetings are open to the press and radio and news media are always present to report on the proceedings."

Fortunately, the requirement to publish minutes is contained in a state law and does not fall within the jurisdiction of the county board. The thinking behind the law is much sounder than the resolution passed unanimously by Delta County's five supervisors.

Undoubtedly there would be a savings — last year the county paid the Delta Reporter of Gladstone $1,199 for publication of minutes — but the expenditure is a minor item when matched against the benefits of honest government conducted under the scrutiny of the public. There may not be more than a few who take the time to wade through the offciial minutes each month, but the mere requirement that minutes be published puts the county board on notice that its deliberations are public matters.

A "report" of the type suggested by the county board is immediately suspect because there is no guarantee that the report would be anywhere near as complete as official minutes must be.

There also is faulty reasoning in the thought that the meetings are open to the public, press and radio and that the "news media are always present." Seldom do more than a few citizens show up for a board meeting — there were meetings last year when the only observer present was a newspaper reporter — and even the news media is not "always" present. The Daily Press, for example, which has been the most faithful of the various area news outlets in reporting on county board proceedings in its news columns, was not present at the Rapid River meeting when the board passed the resolution in question.

It is not the function of a newspaper or radio station to serve as an official organ for the county board or any other governmental unit. Reports on meetings are published and broadcast, but they are necessarily selective, and no effort is made to detail every item of business transacted. Indeed, the official language of resolutions approved sometimes isn't available until days after the meeting.

The Board of Supervisors, rather than attempt to silence one of its few links with the public, might well consider some effort at expanding its communication.

Action by the board to schedule its meetings at various sites around the county to make itself more accessible to the people was a move in the right direction. But instead of trying to shorten up on its public reports, the board should consider expanding them. There also could be more effort put into advance information on meetings, specifying what business will be discussed and how it relates to the community.

Good government is government by the people. It serves no purpose to deal the people out except for a few hours on election day.

Thursday, March 19, just wasn't their day for Michael Grandelis and Ronald Zanella. They took turns at the wheel of an auto and two different departments took turns arresting them. Zanella, 32, Ironwood, had the wheel first. He was arrested and jailed after the car hit a parked car. Ironwood police requested he relinquish the wheel and accompany them to the station from the accident site Grandelis took over. Ironwood officers got on the radio to the Hurley Police Department and that department relayed the word to the Iron County Sheriff's Department. Iron County officers arrested Grandelis, 22, Hurley, for speeding.

Reappointment of Joseph Karry as police chief of Hancock, by acting City Manager Mildred Robinson, raised questions from city councilmen regarding an arson case in that city. City Attorney Sterling Schrock told the council that he had instructed Karry and anyone else concerned with the case in any way not to release any information as it would not be in the best interests of the case. The council approved the chief's appointment for another year by a 4-3 vote.

"I LIKE TO MAKE MY FRIENDS HAPPY!"

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some of my young conservative and libertarian friends have put me on the spot.

They are taking a stand that many of the questions contained in the 1970 Census Form, which everybody will have received now that the mail has started flowing again, cannot legally be asked because they are an unconstitutional invasion of privacy. The Constitution, so it is argued, provides for nothing more than a plain count of the population every 10 years. Nothing about tabulations of flush toilets, or electric dishwashers, or the assessed valuation of one's house.

My friends fear that the "answers to the questions posed in the Census will be turned over to other government agencies in order to harass the citizenry."

And the portentous conclusion is drawn that the information might be included in a "newly created National Data Bank and later used to compile a dossier on every citizen in this nation."

It could be that the protesters, many of whom are directors of such organizations as Young Americans for Freedom, the United Republicans of America, and the Youth Advisory Committee on the Selective Service System, are entirely correct in their feeling that use of the census to pry into the condition of one's kitchen and bathroom has a totalitarian potential. We have too many snoopers around, and it is good to see Sen. George McGovern at one end of the political spectrum and Sen. Strom Thurmond at the other endorsing the anti-snooper point of view that is ably set forth by the Committee for a Voluntary Census in a pronouncement that offers financial and legal assistance to anybody who refuses to answer impertinent queries.

My dilemma is that if I were to go along with the protesters and add my name to a manifesto stating that "we refuse to cooperate in any manner with the 1970 census other than to be counted as provided by the Constitution," I would be letting myself in for extended court action that might make it wholly impossible to live up to my contractual obligations as a writer.

In addition, there are other considerations that must weigh heavily on one who considers that Congress, the Supreme Court, and the Executive are doing many things every day that would have given the Founding Fathers apoplexy.

The 13th Amendment abolished involuntary servitude save as punishment for the commission of a crime, yet we draft young men to fight, which is clearly against the Amendment's wording. The General Welfare clause of the Constitution has been twisted totally out of shape to accommodate spending vast sums of tax money to promote the Specific Welfare of favored pressure groups.

The very existence of the Federal Communications Commission, which makes rules about what may be said over the air, is an affront to the First Amendment, which supposedly guarantees free speech to everybody.

If we were to strike against all the obvious infringements of our Constitutional rights, the streets would be filled, no work would be done, and government of any sort would become an impossibility.

The lugubrious fact is that, even though our representatives, our judges, and our officials are engaged, under any strict construction of the law, in a score of lawless doings every day in the week, it is necessary that we accept their stupidities and their derelictions until we can change things by peacefully persuading Congress and the courts to take a second look at their own malfeasances.

Galling as it is, we cannot keep society together if we substitute individual interpretation of the law for what the Supreme Court mistakenly says is the law. The most we can do is to broadcast our individual opinions about the misinterpretation of the Constitution that has been going on for 30 years in hopes that we can change the climate of opinion and set legislators and judges back on a Constitutional path.

I would dearly love to join my young friends in a refusal to answer the 1970 Census questions. But if I did, how could I write columns condemning rioters, arsonists, draft card burners, and the intellectuals who refuse to pay taxes to support a war fought by conscript troops?

One can't pick and choose about taking personal stands in the matter of interpreting the Constitution for one's self. To preserve the civil fabric the processes of legality must be upheld even though our lawmakers and lawgivers demonstrate every day that they cannot read our fundamental law.

WEATHER REPORTS

In response to the editorial that appeared in a recent edition of The Escanaba Daily Press concerning the U. S. Weather Bureau, I wish to bring out the facts concerning the operation of the Weather station in Escanaba.

The Weather Bureau, located in the Post Office, is currently manned by two high school students. We are searching for a third person, free at 9:30 a. m. and 12 noon, to fill a third position. An applicant must study several meteorological manuals and pass a written examination before obtaining his certificate to take weather observations. Since the two students have classes at these two times, we are, unfortunately, unable to take these observations. Other observations are taken at 6 a. m., 3 p. m., 6 p. m., and midnight.

Unfortunately, several years ago when the Weather Bureau was taken out of Escanaba, the full time meteorologist was removed. The weather station is now equipped to gather such information as temperature, wind speed and direction, high-low temperature, sea-level pressure, and precipitation. This information, along with a description of the current and past weather conditions, is sent, via teletype, to the U. S. Weather Bureau in Detroit. Based on the information gathered here and in other places in the U: P., a forecast for the Escanaba area is cofpiled. This, at times, may not be the best, but I feel it is better than having to depend on a forecast for Marquette or Sault Ste. Marie.

Forecasts are received at 6:30 a. m., 12:30 p. m., and 6:30 p. m. They are then, along with the local information, recorded on an automatic telephone answering service. Depending on the length of the forecasts, we occasionally do have to talk quickly. We have 75 seconds in which to make the tape.

I agree completely that a full time 1st order Weather Station in Escanaba is sorely needed, but I do feel the present Weather Bureau is providing a service to the people of the Escanaba Area. This is the impression I get from people with whom I have talked and by the number of times the office phone rings a day. I feel the services offered now would be missed if the station were removed completely.

(Editor's Note: As late as 4:45 Thursday afternoon the recorded weather message being broadcast in Escanaba began: "Good evening, this is the United States Weather Bureau. At 6 o'clock this evening . . ." The report from Wednesday was nearly 24 hours out of date! This is service?)

ANNIVERSARY

The Escanaba League of Women Voters would like to take this opportunity to thank its supporters and other members of the community for their contributions to the League's 50th anniversary drive.

The League of Women Voters celebrated its 50th anniversary in February. The Escanaba League as well as the 39 Leagues throughout the state participated in the national, public fund raising drive to raise $11 million to expand League services and activities at all levels of government.

A special word of thanks is due the sponsor's committee, a group of Escanaba business and professional men who assisted the League in the drive, the Escanaba Daily Press, the Delta Reporter, and Radio Stations WLST and WDBC for their special contributions.

Contributions received from this drive will be used to expand and finance Escanaba League activities. Contributions beyond the needs of the local group will be sent to the national organization.

Some of the local League's activities include holding candidates' meetings before elections, distributing non-partisan information about candidates and issues, providing opportunities for voters to learn new voting procedures, and attend-City Council and School Board meetings as impartial observers. In addition the League studies vital government issues and works for those upon which it has reached agreement after careful consideration.

Once again, a sincere thank you.

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. Here is a double-dummy problem, and you should therefore have no compunctions about looking at all four hands in attempting to find the solution.

You are declarer with the South hand at Six Clubs and West leads the king of spades. How do you play the hand?

NORTH
♠ 10 9 8 7 5 4 3
♥ A
♣ Q 3 2

WEST
♠ K Q J 2
♥ 8 7 6 5
♦ Q 6 5 4 3

EAST
♠ A 6
♥ J 10 9 4 3 2

SOUTH
♥ K Q
♦ J 10 9 8 7
♣ A K J 10 9 8

2. Let's say you're South and have the A-10-5 of a suit facing the K-9-8-7-6 in dummy. How would you play this combination to give yourself the best chance for four tricks? (Assume you have all the entries you need to lead from either hand.)

1. About as good a way as any is to ruff the spade and cash four high trumps, discarding the ace of hearts from dummy. Now cash the K-Q of hearts, discarding the A-K of diamonds from dummy. Concede a diamond to the queen and the rest of the tricks are yours.

2. Obviously, if the suit is divided 3-2, it is easy to make four tricks, so you start by assuming a 4-1 or 5-0 division.

The best way of catering to both these possibilities is to lead dummy's six and duck if East follows low.

Let's first consider the 5-0 division. If East has all of them, the six wins and you continue with the seven to assure four winners. If West has all five, East shows out on the six and you go up with the ace, return the ten, and again you are sure of four tricks.

The problem is more complicated if the suit is divided 4-1. The only cases that matter are those where West has Q-J-4-3, Q-J-4-2, Q-J-3-2, the singleton 4, 3 or 2, or the singleton queen or jack. Leading the six and letting it run wins in the first six cases and loses in the last two. (If the six loses to West's queen or jack, you plan to lead the ace next.)

Many players attack this combination by playing the ace and then the ten, planning to finesse if no honor has appeared, but this method of play is successful in only five of the eight pertinent cases (the first three and the last two). On top of that, these players lose when there is a 5-0 division and East has all five.

Night-flying moths use the moon as a beacon, National Geographic says. By keeping the lunar image at a fixed angle on the eye's retina, they can maintain fairly straight courses. Wearing Hairpiece Keeps Man Guessing

Dear Ann Landers: Now that men's hairpieces are becoming more popular, I'm sure you'll be getting this problem from a good many male readers. I'm a bachelor with a fairly active social life. I wear a toupee.

Problem One: When a woman starts to run her fingers through your hair, what do I say?

Second Problem: Most women prefer to skip the preliminaries and go straight to bed. What should I do?

My toupee is well fastened to my head but I would not risk sleeping in it. I experimented one night while sleeping alone and awakened to find my hairpiece under the pillow.

How does a man tell a woman that the hair she has been admiring is not his own?—Urbana

Dear Urb: Do you really need a hairpiece? You sound as if you need a bodyguard.

Have you heard of the new type toupee that stays on during hurricanes? The hair is embedded in a plastic shield and held to the head by adhesive pads rather than glue.

I am not selling hairpieces this season so please don't ask the brand name or where it can be obtained. And this goes for all readers who are interested.

Dear Ann Landers: A midnight phone call informed me that my sister lay near death in a hospital. Her husband had taken her there after she began to hemorrhage following a botched abortion by a barber. I write this letter after a second call five days later saying, "She will make it."

My sister was not an unwed mother. She is 31 and has three children. Her husband approved of the abortion. Their proved the abortion. Their three youngsters are under six years of age. Illness and unemployment put them in a bad financial bind. They just could not see having a fourth child at this time. The barber had performed hundreds of successful abortions, according to their information, but this time something went wrong.

How many times must this tragic story be repeated before we can get some humane laws passed in this country? Why do American women have to go to Japan and Sweden and Mexico and London? Why must this be a matter for the government? What could be more personal than the decision to have a child or not to have one?

I hope you will take a stand on this issue immediately. — Sister's Champion

Dear Champion: I have taken a stand. Twice. I've gone on record in favor of the sharp revision of existing abortion laws. The laws in most states now are highly unrealistic and cruelly discriminatory against the poor. Moreover, the bad laws force physicians to make false statements regarding the dangers which might result from the birth of a child. Public sentiment is slowly but surely turning in this direction and I say it's high time. Congratulations to Hawaii. They have recently passed the best abortion legislation of all. How lovely that the last should be first!

City Holds To Act 345 Policy On Retirement

Escanaba Fire Capt. Ernest Guindon, who has 27 years service with the Escanaba Fire Department, will retire on April 23 at the age of 60.

The retirement will be in compliance with a directive by City Manager George Harvey under the provisions of Act 345, despite Guindon's effort to continue his employment past age 60.

Guindon was represented at last night's Council meeting by Atty. Nino Green. He said he thought the city should base retirement policy on individual cases, considering the person's health, rank, seniority, responsibility and other factors.

The Council, after considerable discussion and after hearing representatives of the fire and police department employes say they wanted the Counicl to continue the present policy, unanimously ratified administration policy on police-fire retirement at age 60.

Group Decision

James Christensen, representing the firemen, and Robert Garvelle, representing the police officers, said police-fire employes "back the city policy 100 per cent for retirement at age 60."

Their statements were made to the council at the invitation of Councilman Edward J. Cox, who said he felt the employe groups, and not an individual, should be consulted on whether a policy change is wanted.

Cox asked Christensen and Gravelle if they were "intimidated by City Manager Harvey or the Council" in advance of their statements and they replied: "Not in any way."

In other business the Council:

Approved at the request of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission license reclassifications for five taverns, despite a request for a delay by a group of licensees, the Escanaba Liquor Vendors. The Council expressed amused bewilderment at the request for the delay until after the city election on Monday.

Act On Licenses

"If we tabled this it would sure as the dickens not be because of the election," smiled Mayor Cecil B. Chase.

Reclassification to Class C tavern, subject to police approval was granted to Bay View Tavern, Bay de Noc Tavern, Spars', the Palm, and Bonamer's.

Council accepted a petition from residents of S. 9th St. between 3rd Ave. S. and 6th Ave. S. for the reconstruction of the street surface. The city hopes to include $25,000 in the budget for the work this year, said Harvey.

Adopted a resolution calling upon the public to cooperate in the observance of Cancer Control Week, April 6-11, which consicides with the Crusade campaign of the Delta County Cancer Society.

A CHECK FOR $1,000 from the Richard Lewis Memorial Fund to purchase printing equipment for the Escanaba Area public schools was presented to the school system Thursday. Richard Lewis, a 1967 graduate of the high school, was a student of printing and had been employed by the Delta Reporter of Gladstone before entering military service. He was killed in Vietnam. Members of the family said "he would have wanted they money to be used this way." The presentation was made around one of two light tables purchased as a memorial to Richard Lewis. Joining the presentation were, from left, Robert Micensky, principal of the high school; Dennis Foltman, printing instructor; Mrs. Richard Lewis, widow of the young soldier; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lewis of Escanaba, his parents, and Luther M. Barrett, superintendent of schools who accepted the memorial check on behalf of the school system. (Daily Press Photo) closings failed to approach the number reported a week earlier. However, the number of closings might have been far greater if many schools had not been marking spring vacation.

Depths of up to 10 inches were reported over much of an area from Lansing west to Lake Michigan and south into Indiana.

Grand Rapids reported eight inches of snow, while Flint and Saginaw each had eight. Three inches fell in Detroit and the heavy snow and reduced visibility forced closing of Detroit Metropolitan Airport briefly during the afternoon.

Flights Interrupted

Airports in Battle Creek and Grand Rapids had flights interrupted by the storm but resumed operations in the afternoon. Railroads and bus lines reported delays due to the storm but service was returning to normal late in the day.

Ironically, the storm was predicted—at least by the old farmer's almanac, which also pinpointed the storm a week earlier.

Today's forecast called for continued cold temperatures but no additional heavy snowfall. Some snow was forecast for areas in the northern lower peninsula, which missed the brunt of Thursday's storm.

Two In Court In Fish Case

Two men charged in connection with a confrontation between citizens and Department of Natural Resources officers at Fairport Tuesday appeared in District Court in Delta County this morning.

Emil D. Vetter Jr., 35, of Fairport, pleaded innocent to a charge of engaging in commercial fishing operation without a proper license. He was released on $100 personal recognizance bond to appear for trial at a date to be set later by the court.

Leslie Ranguette, 30, of Fairport, who was charged with being a disorderly person and also with obstructing, resisting and opposing Department of Natural Resources officers while they were engaged in the process of monitoring commercial fishing operations, also eppeared before Judge Dean Shipman.

Arraignment on the disorderly charge was delayed pending appointment by the court of an attorney. Ranguette also requested a preliminary examination on the obstruction charge. He was releasd on $500 personal recognizance bond.

Seven other men who also were involved in the incident have been charged, according to Prosecuting Attorney John Beauchamp. They have been asked to appear voluntarily in District Court.

In another conservation case, Allen J. Kossow, 32, of Rte. 1, Gladstone, pleaded no contest to a charge of possession of a loaded gun in an automobile and a plea of guilty automatically was entered for him by the court. He was ordered to pay a $25 fine and $16 court costs or serve eight days in the county jail. Kossow originally had pleaded innocent to the charge. He was arrested in December, officers said.

Whereabouts Of Rap Brown Still 'Big Mystery'

just south of Bel Air on the road to Baltimore. In the wreckage were the bodies of two friends of Brown—Ralph E. Featherstone and William H. "Che" Payne.

"There are three possibilities," Kunstler said recently. "One, that he was taken out of the blown-up car before it was blown up and has been kept somewhere—kidnaped—or murdered. That's the theory that worries Mrs. Brown the most.

Bombing Theory

"Two, the theory of the authorities: that the two men blew themselves up while carrying a device with some nefarious purpose—perhaps to bomb the nearby state troopers' barracks—and that Rap was not involved.

"Or three, that he's underground, in or out of the U.S."

Kunstler said he was inclined to doubt the third theory. Brown "could have split," he said, "although it's not likely in my mind."

Appealing Sentence

He noted that Brown had always shown up at every previous trial, "even at a much headier time — when he was a much more hunted man than now."

Brown 26, is appealing a five-year prison sentence for violating the federal firearms act. He was convicted in 1968 in New Orleans. The terms of his bail limited his travel to New York, except for trial appearances.

If he fails to appear for the Maryland trial, the judge may declare his $10,000 bail forfeit.

Briefly Told

Escanaba police issued tickets to Earl L. Taylor, 122 1st Ave. S., for failure to exercise due care; Fay M. Larock, 1217 8th Ave. S., for speeding; and Harry J. McCormick, Rte. 1, Gladstone, for careless driving.

Gainers, Losers Even In Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed in moderately active trading early today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down .53 at 791.84 this morning.

Gainers and losers were about even among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some analysts say the late-session downdrift Thursday may be the pause necessary for some strength gathering before a major assault on the 800 resistance level in the Dow.

A broker said further lateral movement might be required before enough momentum to hit 800 from the current level is generated.

The market followed an indecisive pattern Thursday after flirting with a modest gain early in the session. Slightly higher volume was looked upon as a favorable sign, however.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Because the inside of a bureau drawer is rarely finished, it is highly susceptible to excessive moisture and excessive dryness. The resulting expansions and contractions cause the drawer to perform erratically at certain times of the year, the exact periods being determined by the conditions inside the home.

The most common bureau drawer trouble is binding. The drawer sticks when you open it and sticks when you close it. Unless it has come apart at some point, it is binding because moisture has entered the wood, swelling and warping it so that it will not move smoothly.

In many cases, this condition can be cured simply by rubbing paraffin or some other lubricant along the sliding edges. Do not make the common mistake of using soap, which may make the drawer slide more easily but will permit additional moisture to enter the wood, causing new trouble later on.

If the lubricant fails to work, it may be necessary to sand both the drawer edges and the slides, then reapply the lubricant. Take off only as much wood as needed, otherwise you will wind up with a drawer that is ill-fitting even though it opens and closes without binding. Because of this possibility, planing should be attempted only as a last resort. This type of remedy requires a very fine touch to be certain that too much wood is not removed.

Sometimes you will find that the bottom of the drawer has come out of its groove, a condition usually caused by placing heavy objects in the drawer. In that event you will have to determine how to make the repair depending on how bad the damage is. Be sure, too, that the frame which holds the drawer has not come loose at some point.

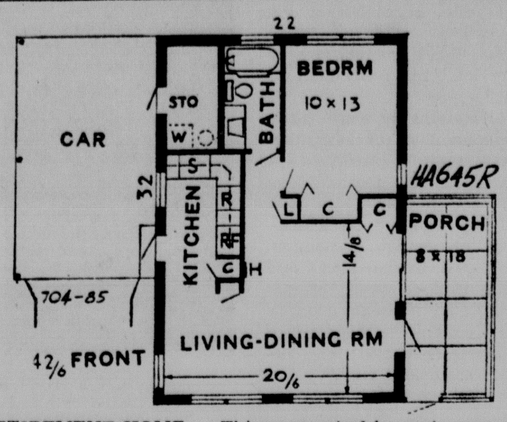

When a drawer opens partially but will not yield to moderate pressure, it can be loosened with the use of heat. This can come from an electric bulb carefully placed in the opening until the wood shrinks or by keeping the entire bureau overnight in a room where there is a space heater or a dehumidifier. But first be certain that the cause of the stoppage isn't an object inside the drawer rather than warpage of the wood. The offender usually can be dislodged by a little patient poking around or by first removing another drawer. If it can't, remember that the backs of many bureaus usually are held in place with small screws or nails and can be easily removed.

Bureau drawers can be prevented from binding by giving all unfinished parts a coat of clear sealer. If you decide to do this, first remove all traces of paraffin or other lubricant, which can be reapplied after the sealer has dried.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

RETIREMENT HOME — This economical home is compact, but it has spacious rooms. The kitchen has an L-shaped counter and there is a storage room combined with a laundry corner. Sliding doors separate the living room and the porch. The modern look of this one bedroom house is achieved by means of the sample, angular lines of the windows and the porch framing. Plan HA645R, with 704 square feet of living space, requires a minimum lot of 55 ft. by 75 ft. It was designed by architect Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

By ANDY LANG

Q. — We are having a house built soon and want to eliminate something we have in our present home — the noise of water flowing through the thin walls, lack of insulation insulation, etc. How can we be sure that the same thing will not happen in our new house?

A. — Explain your fears to your contractor and he will explain to you what steps can be taken to achieve the degree of sound conditioning you want. Don't be surprised, however, if he tells you that the use of extra or different materials will add to the total cost of the house, although it will be a good investment to achieve your objective. More and more, builders are finding that buyers are willing to pay something extra to control noises. One product being used is brushed directly onto the plumbing lines while a house is being built and is said to stay pliable with the expansion and contraction of the pipes.

Q. — I recently bought some power tools and have started to make small wooden objects. I intend to branch out soon and begin making larger things, like furniture. An old woodworker tells me there is nothing like vegetable glue which is heated before using. Is he right?

A. — This type of glue is not too practical for home use, since it requires special equipment for heating and applying. You're better off to use one of the many modern glues on the market, each of which has special properties for special purposes and none of which has to be heated before using. Even the old-time cabinet makers, who made extensive use of glues that had to be heated, are switching to the new types of adhesive.

Plexiglas In Sheets Has Many Uses

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Plexilglas in sheets — transparent, white, colored — has been made available to lumber yards, hardware stores and other outlets. It is ideal for making cube tables, display racks, picture frames and other objects.

For example, you may make the popular five-sided transparent cube. An 18-inch cube that sells for about $60 in stores may be made for about $15, plus the cost of sanding materials and adhesive. Plexiglas prices vary from store to store on ready-made items, but there should be quite a saving if you do it yourself.

Patience is the key ingredient in making the cube. But you'll need digital dexterity and time.

A cube looks simple, but when you are putting five sides together permanently, many things come into play — sheets must be supported carefully as you work and the adhesive must be applied so that the sides are secure and there are no dribbles on the material.

It may be a good idea to make a small cube (4 inches) before you begin a large one. The smaller cube can be a model that may be referred to while the large cube is being made. Hopefully, you will not make twice, the same mistake.

You may decide not to make a large cube after experimenting with a small one. If you do, the small cube will not have been a total loss — use it to display something on a table.

An experienced do-it-yourselfer with the knock of interpreting the nunances of manufacturer's directions will have little trouble with directions and illustrations that should be available at stores where the material is sold.

Here are directions used by a husband-wife do-it-yourself team, who made a pretty five-sided 18-inch cube of one-quarter inch material in less than two hours.

All four edges of the top (18¼ inch) piece and two adjacent edges of each of the other four pieces should be sanded and polished. That will leave two adjacent sanded, unpolished sides on each of the four 18-inch pieces. They are the sides that will be cemented and will not show when the cube is made.

To refinish the sides: First sand the edges with medium grit (60-80) paper. Follow with a sanding of "wet or dry" 150 grit sandpaper. Then sand with grits of 400. The polished sides are buffed with a clean muslin wheel attachment on the end of a standard electric drill which should be dressed with a good grade of fine grit buffing compound or jeweler's rouge. If you like, finish it with a clean, soft buffing wheel.

Masking paper should be peeled off acrylic sheets. Put two pieces together this way: Stand them on edge (right angle) two polished edges are on top. Fit one sanded side edge into the side of the other panel so that the transparent side edge may be seen and the sanded edge hidden. Use masking tape in several places to hold the edges secure. Add the other two pieces in the same way so that your box has four polished side edges showing with masking tape holding it together securely. If you have made a mistake, there is time to correct it.

Plexiglas requires special cement, available at the same outlets. The liquid may run like water. Transfer a small amount of it to a squirt-top container that can be controlled easily, or use an eye dropper or an oil can with a very fine spout.

Place the cube with sanded edges down on top of the 18¼ inch top. Masking tape should be placed a several places near the corners to hold cube to top in position.

Apply cement to the joints where the narrow sanded edges of the side panels rest on the table top, starting at the corner, inside the cube. Hold a cloth in the other hand to wipe up any adhesive that spills.

Let the top dry for about 15 minutes before proceeding with the sides. Now, turn the cube on a side and run cement along the joint. Do the same with the other sides. You may then remove the masking tape.

A second pair of hands is very helpful in making the large cube. One person can hold it in place while the other person applies the masking tape or cement.

Towns, Cities Seen As Sparring Mates In Pollution Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The head of a giant corporation supported the threat of fines and penalties against industries and others Thursday in the nationwide battle against air and water pollution.

Herbert D. Doan, president of Dow Chemical Co., said that at the same time it should be the cities and towns that apply the pressure to clean up.

"I would just as soon see the federal government let the municipalities" get the job done, Doan told a news conference at the National Pollution Control Convention and Exposition.

Doan congratulated agitators for environmental cleanup "who are in the front lines, holding the fort, until the reinforcements arrived." He referred to the outcry against pollution which has forced the attention of government, industry and the populace.

"The din will die down," Doan added, "but I hope and expect not until the level of money and effort has been increased substantially."

Addressing some 1,000 participants in the three-day convention, Doan called for a rethinking of America's institutional processes ... a reworking of "management of interrelationships," and a new understanding that change must take place.

The very technology that contributed to pollution can be turned to solve the problems, he said.

"The causes of environmental problems contain the solution to the problem — the solution lies in man, in his awareness, in using his numbers and his technology to solve the problem."

The convention, sponsored by the Houston Junior Chamber of Commerce, has brought together manufacturers of devices to monitor and eliminate pollution, researchers and technologists who offer designs of plants to cope with poisonous effluents, and executives of corporations which have a stake in the environmental question.

RESTRAINT AND SOPHISTICATION are combined in this contemporary ranch, which utilizes vertical siding, special windows and interesting roof to produce a house that is "different" yet has clean architectural lines.

By ANDY LANG

Continuity of design is evident in this crisp-looking contemporary ranch, intended for a family requiring three or four bedrooms and for placement on a lot with a fairly sizable frontage.

Among the eye-catching features of the exterior are a trellised roof which casts interesting shadows over the double-door entrance and a tapered skylight roof that admits natural light during the day into the central foyer of the bedroom wing.

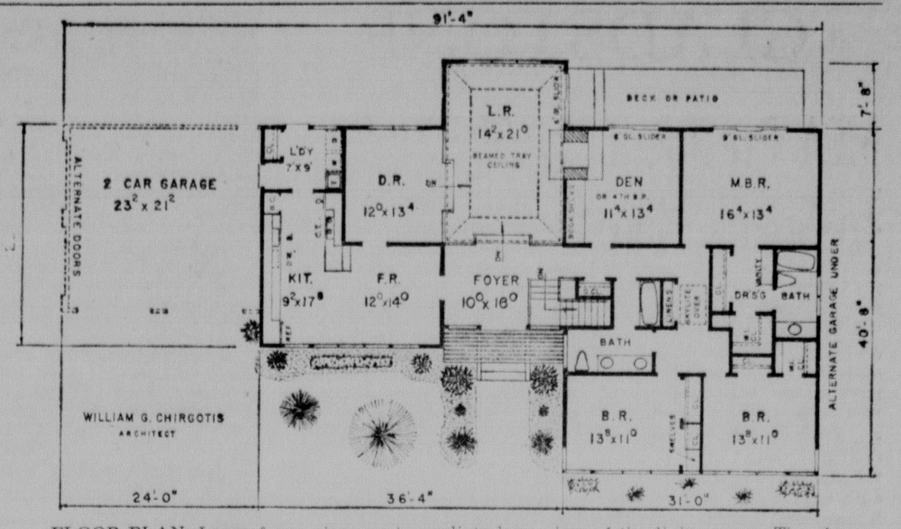

Inside, directly behind the spacious foyer, is a sunken living room with a tray-beamed sloped ceiling and a two-way stone fireplace. On the foyer and dining room sides of the living room are decorative wrought iron railings. Sliding glass doors lead to a patio area. All in all, a most impressive room for either the family or guests.

Modern in every respect is the combined kitchen - family room to the left of the foyer There's plenty of space here for informal meals and relaxation. The kitchen area alone is almost 18' long, completely equipped with sink, dishwasher, counter-top range, wall oven with a metal ventilating hood, refrigerator and an abundance of cabinets. A planning desk which could include anything from writing materials, recipe books, telephone or intercom is shown between the kitchen and family room section.

A laundry-mud room is next to the kitchen and has access to the two-car garage and the rear. While the plans show the garage doors to the front, the floor plan includes an alternate side entrance where the width of the lot permits. Architect William G. Chirgotis has another suggestion: if the house is built on a sloping lot, the garage can be located under the bedroom wing. In that event, the lot could have less frontage than if the garage were located at the left side of the house.

To the right of the living room is a room that could be used as a den or a fourth bedroom. Like the master bedroom and the living room, it has sliding glass doors to the rear patio. The master bedroom suite includes a dressing area with two closets, one a walk-in, and a private bath that has a full-width sliding door bathtub glass enclosure and a recessed vanity. The hall bath, with dual entry, is a divided room with a mirrored double-basin vanity and overtub shower. There is plenty of closet space in the bedroom wing which, as previously mentioned, has a skylight over its central foyer. Two bedrooms are at the front.

With its natural v-joint siding, long sweeping silhouette hip roof and tapered skylight, large front and continuous ribbon-windows, Design S-39 has a pleasant contemporary appearance matched by the modern, spacious look on the inside.

FLOOR PLAN: Large foyer gives an immediate long view of the living room. There's a similar vista to the left of the foyer, where the family room and the kitchen flow into each other, using only a planning desk as a partial divider.

S-39 STATISTICS

Design S-39 has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen, laundry, foyer, four bedrooms and two bathrooms. The habitable area totals 2218 square feet. Over-all dimensions, including the two-car garage, are 91' 4" by 40' 8". If the garage is placed under the bedroom wing, the dimensions change to 67' 4" by 40' 8". In that case, the stairway in the foyer would lead to the underground garage as well as the basement.

Hijacked Plane N. Korea Bound

SEOUL (AP) — Young Japanese ultra-leftists who hijacked a jet airliner to Korea Tuesday released 103 persons in Seoul today, took a Japanese government official aboard as hostage and then took off for North Korea.

Among the 99 passengers and four stewardesses freed after 79 hours' captivity were two American men living in Tokyo, Pepsi Cola executive Herbert Brill of New York and the Rev. Daniel MacDonald of San Francisco. The rest were Japanese.

Q.—We have grown tired of the wallpaper design in our bedroom and have decided to paint over it. The paper is securely attached to the wall and I don't think there will be any problem about it coming loose. What I want to know is whether any special type of paint must be used. The paper has a kind of light rose color. Will I have to put on two coats? Will the color in the paper bleed through?

A.—Generally, it is not a good idea to apply latex paint over wallpaper, since the water in the paint might loosen the paper. However, you can solve this problem and at the same time insure against the color coming through by applying a first coat of aluminum paint. One coat of your selected color then may be sufficient, but you'll have to judge for yourself after the paint has been applied and allowed to dry. Either latex or solvent-thinned paint may be used over the aluminum covering.

Q.—Our large wooden salad bowl, which we have had for many years, is losing whatever finish it had. How can it be refinished so that no taste of the finishing material will get into the salad?

A.—Rub the bowl with a very fine grade of sandpaper. Brush away all grit. Apply linseed oil to the inside and outside surfaces, wiping off any excess. Using a dry, clean cloth, rub the oil well into the wood. Place the bowl where fresh air can get at it and leave it there for a couple of days. It then is ready for use. The finish will last a long time if the bowl is dried immediately each time it is washed with cold water. Never let it soak in water and never, never put it in a dishwasher.

Marine Hospital Possible Drug Treatment Site

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken indicated Thursday that Michigan soon may be able to take over the abandoned marine hospital in Detroit for use as a dangerous drug treatment center.

Milliken reported that U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, R- Mich., says federal officials declared the hospital property as surplus and that it would be conveyed to the state.

The executive office quoted Griffin as saying the federal declaration meant the hospital—idle since being abandoned last year by the U.S. Public Health Service — now reverted to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "to be turned over to the state."

Milliken outlined acquisition of the hospital and its use as a comprehensive community mental health and dangerous drug treatment center in a recent special message to the Legislature.

He proposed $1.7 million in federal and state funds to operate the facility in the next fiscal year.

Sales Of Autos In March Said Worst Since '62

DETROIT (AP)—Spurred by the worst March sales in eight years, the U.S. auto industry reported Thursday the worst first quarter sales of new cars since 1967.

The four major U.S. producers reported sales of 1,782,434 cars in the three months ended March 31, down 12.2 per cent from the 2,029,857 sold at this time last year.

Sales for March—traditionally one of the strongest selling months of the year — were 646,673, down 10.1 per cent from March, 1969. This made it the worst March since 1962, when 616,357 cars were sold.

The decline was led by industry giant General Motors, which reported its March sales were off 16.4 per cent from last year and down 18.2 per cent for the first quarter. GM sales plunged 22.4 per cent in the final 10 days of March.

The general downward trend in the industry was reversed by the two smallest producers, Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp.

In 1968, 216 million persons passed through United States' customs inspection. They arrived at 400 ports of entry, ranging from New York to tiny airports where only a few international charter flights land in a year.

hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Before washing a wool sweater, I lay an old, folded sheet on my carpet, shape the sweater on it and draw the outline of the sweater with a pencil.

After I have hand-washed the sweater in a commercial product, I put it in my automatic washer and turn it to "spin dry." When the water is all wrung out, I remove it, shape it and then pin it onto the outline I have drawn on the sheet.

I use this same outline each time and the sweater is always the same size with little work and no measuring at all.

Whenever we run short of bread crumbs, my wife pours some cornflakes into a plastic bag and crushes them.

Dear Heloise:

The posts supporting my clothesline are steel and the bars at the ends of the posts are hollow.

I found that all sorts of things—from birds to wasps—were taking up residence in them.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Many Americans stay on the job today not because they like work or need the money but because they enjoy the coffee breaks.

These twice-a-day pauses in the office grind have become the nation's most popular social institution. They are better than cocktail parties because, after all, you don't get paid while attending a cocktail party.

Employes who used to phone in sick at the slightest sneeze now drag themselves into the office, even though they look at death's door, because they can't stand the thought of staying home and missing the goings-on during the coffee breaks.

Clarion Clara—Everybody likes to join the throng at the table of this breezy belle, because she works in the personnel department, sees all the memos, and has all the latest inside gossip. The best way to keep your own reputation safe is to sit with Clara, so she can't talk about you.

Milton the Miser—He never forks out a dime for a cup of java. He simply roams the place stealing napkins, sugar cubes, and plastic tableware for the use of his wife, his 10 kids, and his dear old mother-in-law.

The Shop Steward—Actually he hates coffee, but he is ruining his stomach drinking 12 cups a day because in 1953 he found a fly in one. His big hope now is that he can find a second fly in another cup and thus have grounds for a union grievance against an unsanitary and negligent management.

Bibulous Bill—After carefully pouring three drops of coffee in the bottom of his plastic cup, he goes out to his locker and fills it up the rest of the way with bourbon. By the end of the day Bill is so high he puts his arm around the water cooler and starts telling it off-color jokes.

Henry the Hermit—He buys two cups of coffee and deliberately spills one all over the table so no one will want to sit with him. Then he opens a copy of Henry George's "Progress and Poverty" and reads it in aloof silence. Once or twice a year he startles everybody by breaking out in a wild chuckle.

Socialable Sid-He thinks the way to get ahead is to charm everyone, and feels that day is lost in which he fails to slap every other employe on the back at least twice. His morning coffee break lasts all morning; his afternoon coffee break lasts all afternoon. The only time he leaves the cafeteria is to go to the washroom.

Bertram the Businessman—While others are wasting their time enjoying their coffee, Bertie goes from table to table trying to peddle them something. He'll sell you anything from an insurance policy to a cemetery plot, a pair of shoelaces, an everlasting light bulb or a cut-priced diamond engagement ring.

Vera the Vamp—This office cuite isn't looking for coffee—she's looking for a husband. Anything that moves and is masculine is a target for Vera. Everytime she adjusts her skirt or takes a sip from her cup, she makes it appear as if she were playing a scene in a Roman orgy staged by Cecil B. DeMille.

The Mighty Man Himself—A sudden silence falls as the Boss stalks into the cafeteria on his once-a-month visit, somberly draws his cup of coffee, stares bleakly around at the abashed revelers and goes back to his office. There, as he drinks it in solitary grandeur, he wonders why everybody has more fun during the office coffee breaks than he does.

Crime Funds

LANSING (AP) —The Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice has awarded $84,000 in crime control funds to Genesee County for a youth assistance program.

The commission also allocated $30,424 toward establishing a program for prevention and control of drug dependence and abuse. An office of drug abuse within the executive office will serve as information center and coordinating point for state government activity.

Lansing Employe Works 'Overtime' Due To Snowfall

LANSING (AP)— Douglas Savala borrowed a pair of galoshes from a coworker Thursday to help shovel out and push vehicles of workers who'd been authorized to leave the secretary of state's branch office early because of heavy snow.

"We excused the employes about 11:45 this morning," Savala reported in a telephone interview from the office—about a half-mile off a main road between Lansing and Potterville.

"We'd had the parking lot plowed out about 10 a.m. but by the time everybody wanted to leave — all the cars were snowed in again."

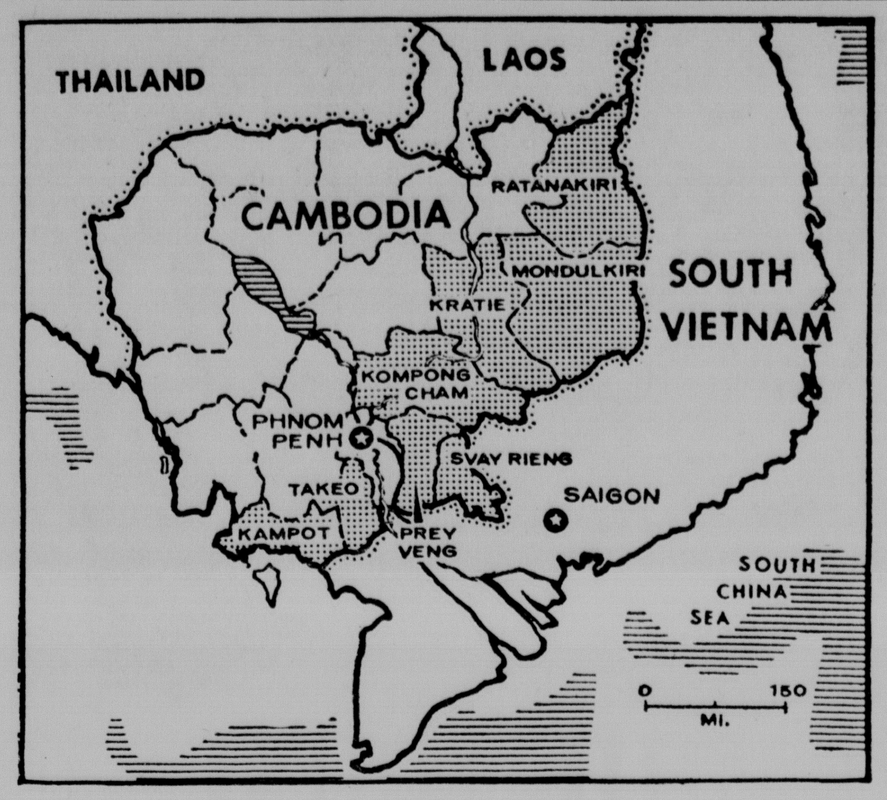

So Savala and "some of the fellas and gals out here" pushed their way into the parking lot to help free the cars, numbering about 100.

Road Toll Off

LANSING (AP)— Michigan's traffic death toll for March fell 13 per cent below last year and 8 per cent below the five-year average, State Police report, but delayed reports may boost the figures.

A total of 150 motorists died last month, 23 fewer than the 173 killed in March, 1969.

SHADED AREAS are Cambodian provinces where the North Vietnam and Viet Cong troops exert heaviest pressure on the populace to support ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk. The border area with South Vietnam is about 500 miles long. South Vietnamese troops and U. S. aircraft have attacked across it west of Saigon.

Ford, Autolite May Separate

DETROIT (AP) — A federal judge took under advisement Thursday an eight-year-old antitrust suit in which the government is seeking to force Ford Motor Company to drop its highly profitable Autolite parts division.

Chief Federal Judge Ralph Freeman said he did not expect to hand down his decision for at least two months.

"It's a difficult matter, as the government even conceded in court, for me to decide," Freeman said after hearing final oral arguments in court.

Freeman ruled in 1968 that the acquisition of Autolite by Ford violates the Clayton Antitrust Act. He still must decide, however, what Ford should do about it.

The government is asking that Ford be ordered to divest itself of its Autolite spark plug and battery-making facilities, and the Autolite name.

Ford attorneys argue that complete divestiture is not necessary to remedy the violation. They propose that the company be allowed to keep its Autolite plants in Fostoria, Ohio; Owosso, Mich., and Shreveport, La., with a promise to buy some of its spark plugs from Eltra Corporation.

Eltra is the firm from which Ford acquired the Autolite name and facilities in 1961 for $28 million.

Ford contends that by pledging to buy spark plugs from Eltra, it will create a fourth major manufacturer of spark plugs.

About 95 per cent of the nation's current spark plug production is handled by Champion, A-C and Autolite.

Knicks, Phoenix Notch Victories

By The Associated Press

It's probably only a quirk of the National Basketball Association's solar system, but the Suns are rising in the West.

The Phoenix Suns, that is, in the Western Division.

The surprising Suns burned Los Angeles 112-98 Thursday night and took a 2-1 lead over the favored Lakers in their best-of-7 Western semifinal series.

In the East, the New York Knicks clobbered Baltimore 101-80 for a 3-2 edge over the powderless Bullets, who misfired terribly in the fourth period, when they managed a meager three baskets in 30 shots and were outscored 25-11.

The other two semifinal series could end tonight. In the East, the Philadelphia 76ers, down three games to one, take on the Milwaukee Bucks at Madison, Wis. The Atlanta Hawks, winners of the Western regular season pennant, go after a four-game sweep of the Bulls in Chicago.

"We've got them (the Lakers) where we want them—at home," said Jerry Colangelo, the Phoenix coach-general manager when his club returned from a split in Los Angeles.

The Suns took a slim lead in the third period Thursday night and poured it on in the fourth. Gail Goodrich paced the Suns with 29 points and Paul Silas had 21, along with 16 rebounds, as Phoenix controlled the boards 59-32.

Jerry West topped the Lakers with 31 points but Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain were held to a subpar 20 and 11, respectively.

"The play of Paul Silas has been the big story of the series," Baylor said before the game. "We expected Connie Hawkins to get his share of points and rebounds. But Silas, he's been a little too much."

Silas has 78 points and 53 rebounds in the three games. Hawkins scored 19 points Thursday night.

The Knicks bounced back from two straight defeats and walloped the Bullets behind a scintillating 36-point, record 36-rebound performance by Willis Reed, the NBA's most valuable player.

"He chased me off the court," said Baltimore's Wes Unseld, who outrebounded tentire New York team with 34 in Sunday's game as the Bullets began their comeback. Unseld had only 10 points and 13 rebounds thursday night.

Reed took a cortisone shot in his ailing left knee and said, "It did the job, but I hope I don't have to take another one before Sunday," meaning the nationally televised (ABC-TV) sixth game in Baltimore.

The Knicks led only 76-69 after three periods but moved out to a 91-72 spread as the Bullets canned only one of their first 18 shots in the final quarter.

"I saw what Unseld did to us in the third game," said Reed, whose 36 rebounds was a team record, "and I decided I could do it, too. That game I just didn't have it, and sometimes the ball just doesn't bounce your way. Tonight it did."

Gladstone Coach To Leave System After Five Years

GLADSTONE — Carl Backstrom, a teacher and coach at Gladstone High School for the past five years, is leaving the Gladstone School System at the end of the current school year, according to Wes Fleet, School Superintendent.

Backstrom coached junior varsity basketball, cross country and golf during his stay at Gladstone. He plans to teach and coach at Perhman, Minn. as well as taking over management of a resort in the area.

Backstrom is married and the father of four children.

Grenier Picks Off 7-10 Split

GLADSTONE—Bob Grenier, bowling in the Independent League at the Midway Lanes Thursday night, picked up the near-impossible 7-10 split. The split pickup was not quite enough though, as his team lost to the Midway Lanes five by a 1093-993 margin.

Pilots' Lights Snuffed Out; Loud Echoes Left

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Pilots became a thing of the past Thursday when a bankruptcy referee affixed his signature to an order allowing the American League team's sale to Milwaukee Brewers Inc.

But the past apparently is going to be recalled by loud echoes one of these days.

William Dwyer, special assistant state attorney general, said an $82 million antitrust suit against the league and the owners of the defunct Seattle baseball franchise probably will come up in court in about a year.

"Routine cases usually take about nine months," Dwyer said. "This isn't a routine case."

The suit, brought by Washington State and Seattle, seeks damages for economic injury it contends will result from loss of the Pilots.

When the federal bankruptcy referee, Sidney Volinn, signed the order at 7:50 p.m. EST, he gave the state and the city the go ahead on the suit. Volinn had suspended all legal action while he considered a petition from the Pilots owners for permission to sell to the Brewers for $10.8 million, most of which was to pay off $8.13 million in debts.

Even before the suit comes up in court, however, organized baseball may be in for trouble because of the sale.

Sens. Warren Magnuson and Henry Jackson and Rep. Brock Adams, all Washington Democrats, have said they will introduce legislation in Congress next week in an effort to strip the sport of its 50-year-old immunity from federal antitrust law.

In Olympia, Wash., the state capital, Gov. Dan Evans said, "I think the leadership in the American League and the league owners that have led us to this sorry state of events can't be condemned too much for the way in which they treated this area."

The state's antitrust suit "may end up to the detriment of all of baseball," Evans said.

"If it does, the fault can be laid directly at the feet of the owners of the teams in the American League."

Evans said he hopes Milwaukee fares better on its second try with major league baseball.

"I think the best comment," the governor said, "is to hope the people of Milwaukee are treated better than the people of Seattle and the state of Washington were treated."

Red Wings' Hopes Much Brighter Now

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings chances of getting into the Stanley Cup hockey series were much brighter today thanks to a brilliant performance by their two "senior citizens"—Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio.

The 42-year-old Howe and 38-year-old Delvecchio each contributed a goal as the Wings overpowered the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 last night to climb into third place in the National Hockey League's east division.

The win moved the Wings a point ahead of the Montreal Canadiens who were idle last night. Detroit found itself with a three point lead over the fifth place New York Rangers whom they face in a big season-windup two game series this weeknd.

With only Toronto mathematically out of the race, the other five teams continued their helter skelter scramble for the four playoff spots in the division.

"There are still a lot of ands, and buts in this race and about the only thing I can say is that we are very much in it," said the Wings' coach Sid Abel after seeing Toronto's winless streak extended to five straight.

"This Toronto game was the one I really wanted for now we have the three point edge and the Rangers will have to come to us," he added.

"They have to win both games from us to nudge us out of the race and that's not going to happen. We have momentum now and the team's confidence is growing," Abel said.

Delvecchio, who blitzed the Leafs with a goal just 16 seconds after the game started, was equally confident the Wings would make the playoffs. "If worse came to worst, all we would have to do would be to tie either of the games and we'd be in . .but we are going to do better than that. . .we will be out to win them both."

The first game of the weekend series will be played at Detroit's Olympia Saturday night and the teams then will catch separate planes and fly to New York for a Sunday matinee. If the Wings win Saturday night, they will have their first Stanley Cup berth in four years and the Sunday game will be just a season windup.

On the other hand if the red hot Rangers win Saturday night all the marbles could be up for grabs Sunday.

Delvecchio, who went scoreless in the Wings first 34 games, notched his 20th goal of the season moments after the opening faceoff against the Leafs. It marked the 11th season, the last three in a row, that he hit the 20-goal mark.

All three members of the Wings famed Production Line—Delvecchio, Howe and Frank Mahovlich—scored in the relatively easy triumph over the last place Leafs. Delvecchio had a pair of assists as well, while Howe and Mahovlich had one each.

The Leafs, down 2-0 in the opening seven minutes, finally got on the scoreboard with Norm Ullman's power play goal early in the second period but Howe got that goal back 23 seconds later to send the Wings out in front 3-1.

Detroit ran the lead to 4-1 on Mahovlich's goal midway in the second period and the Leafs could muster only a third period goal by Bob Pulford as they wound up on the short end.

Jimmy Roberts' unassisted goal in the first period was all Ernie Wakely needed to blank the Flyers. Wakely kicked out 34 shots to record his fourth shutout of the season.

Philadelphia, with just one game left to play, has a two point edge on Oakland and Minnesota but both the Seals and North Stars have two games to play. The Flyers have lost 15 of their last 20 starts, managing just two victories and three ties over the stretch.

Hartley® Brandy is a little lighter. And a little drier. Not because we couldn't make it like the French but because we're making a brandy for Americans out of American grapes.

And it comes out tasting the way Americans expect brandy to taste.

We don't expect you to pledge allegiance to our product or anybody's just because it happens to be home-grown. But next time you buy a bottle of brandy, why shouldn't it be one of ours? HARTLEY

Strikes-n-Spares

With Mike Utt

After many weeks of writing about all the 200 games and doing a lot of wishing and hoping, it finally happened. While bowling on the last night of league play in the Bay de Noc League Tuesday night, yours truly hit the 200 mark for the first time this season, a 202, to lead the Escanaba Daily Press team out of the cellar in the league standings.

Four other bowlers also hit their first 200 games of the season this week. Joyce Koish had a 213, Nancy Perron 208 and Helen Derouin a 212 last Thursday evening at the Bowl-A-Rama, while Bertha Paulson came up with a 206 on Tuesday night, also at the Bowl-A-Rama.

Wes Ward tried his hardest to come up with that big 300 game last Thursday night in the Happy Hour League, but the magic mark still managed to remain untouched this season. Wes had eight strikes in a row in his first game before missing and wound up with a 255 and then started off his second game with five in a row before finishing with a 223. Wes had a 637 series for the night.

Gladstone Lions Club Honors Coach Of Year

By DON HOWES

Jim Henderson, head coach at Bay de Noc Community College, was the principal speaker. A feature of the program was the presentation of the U.P. Sportswriters Association Coach-of-the-Year award to Gordon LeDuc of the Holy Name Crusaders by last year's recipient, Bob Krysiak of the Menominee Maroons.

Jim Pinar, WDBC sports announcer, acted as toastmaster for the event. He introduced Eldon (Cappy) Keil, first recipient of the Coach-of-the-Year trophy, and LeDuc.

Pinar also commended Bill Wood of Gladstone High School and Brother Felix of Holy Name High School for their dedication in the field of sports. Both are leaving their respective schools at the end of the school year.

Pinar then introduced the assistant coaches — Fred Boddy, 8th grade, Jim Barrett, freshmen and Carl Backstrom, junior varsity. He congratulated the freshman team for their fine 17-1 season record. Backstrom had words of praise for members of the junior varsity team in talking of their season.

Coach Jack Ingalls presented members of the Gladstone varsity squad and made a few remarks on the 1969-70 basketball season. He praised his coaching staff, the overall basketball program and cheerleaders and gave special recognition to Cliff Young and his teammates.

Mike Utt, former sports editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, presented Cliff Young, most valuable player of the Gladstone team, with a certificate for being named to the All U.P. Class B first team by the U.P. Sportswriters.

Pinar commended LeDuc on his fine season at Holy Name and for winning three regional titles at three different locations. He also pointed out that LeDuc is the first coach at Holy Name to receive this outstanding award.

Gordy LeDuc praised his team for the fine season they had this year. "Without their fine effort, I would never have received this special award," he said.

In his first year at Holy Name, LeDuc brought the Crusaders as far as any team had been in the school's history, reaching the state Class B quarter finals before losing. After a 16-5 season, LeDuc now has a career record of 107-65 in eight years of coaching. Last year he guided Marquette Bishop Baraga to the Class D state championship.

The main speaker, Jim Henderson, talked about the importance of basketball. He pointed out the goals and values of a basketball program are good for a young person to have because they will help an athlete to set high moral and scholastic achievement standards.

Hurlers, Hitter Enjoy Great Day

By The Associated Press

Chicago was in a deep freeze. Milwaukee and Montreal were snowed under. But Hank Aaron, like a summer day in Atlanta, was sizzling ... and so were Tom Seaver and Jim Palmer.

While baseball's northern cities, readying themselves for next week's season openers despite heavy spring snowfalls, continued digging out Thursday, Atlanta slugger Aaron and pitching stars Seaver of the New York Mets and Palmer of Baltimore sparkled in exhibition victories in the southland.

Seaver, tuning up for his opening day assignment in titsburgh Tuesday, fired seven shutout innings as the Mets trimmed the Pirates 2-0 under the lights at St. Pettersburg, Fla.

Palmer, going the full nine innings for the Orioles at Houston, Beat The Astros 4-1 with a three-hitter.

New snowstorms in wintry Chicago forced the Cubs and White Sox to shift their weekend exhibition windup series from the Windy City to Tulsa, Okla. The Cubs nipped the White Sox 5-4 at Arlington, Tex., Thursday night on Glenn Beckert's run-scoring single with two out in the eighth inning.

In Milwaukee, eager fans plodded through slush at County Stadium after a six-inch snowfall to buy Brewers' season tickets. The new American League club, successor to the ill-fated Seattle Pilots, is scheduled to entertain California Tuesday in its opener. "It's bedlam," summed up a club official.

And in Montreal, where the Expos are to play their home opener next Wednesday against St. Louis, six inches of snow fell ... The day after groundskeepers cleared Jarry Park of snow and ice accumulated through the Canadian winter.

"We had the field in excellent shape," said Lou Martin, the Expos' director of operations, "and the 10 tons of straw I had on the infield all winter left everything fine. Now we've got to start again."

Left-hander Chris Short, making a new start with Philadelphia after missing almost the entire 1969 season following a back operation, pitched six scoreless innings, giving up two hits, in a 5-0 victory over Kansas City. Short has allowed just two earned runs in 28 innings this spring.

In other exhibition action, the New York Yankees outscored Montreal 9-7; Detroit slugged Washington 11-3; Oakland bounced Milwaukee 11-4; San Francisco downed San Diego 8-2; Minnesota shaded Boston 5-4 and the Phils' "B" squad beat Cincinnati 8-4.

In other developments, Washington released Zoilo Versalles, the veteran shortstop who was the AL's Most Valuable Player in 1965, and St. Louis traded infielder Steve Huntz to San Diego for relief pitcher Billy McCool.

The hot hitting of Aaron, who has gone 21 for 42 in exhibition play, helped knuckleballer Phil Niekro toss the Braves past the Indians and Sam McDowell, who struck out 12 in seven innings but was rocked for 13 hits. Niekro scattered six Cleveland hits over the first eight innings.

Seaver checked the hard-hitting Pirates on two safeties, struck out nine and drove in the only run the Mets needed with a second inning single off Steve Blass, his scheduled mound opponent in the season opener.

Palmer became the second Baltimore pitcher to go the distance—Mike Cuellar had worked nine innings last weekend—as the Orioles won with the help of a triple and single by Don Buford and two errors by Houston catcher John Edwards.

Bobby Murcer's first exhibition homer, a three-run blast in New York's five-run sixth inning rally at New Orleans, carried the Yanks past the Expos, who were without Manager Gene Mauch, hospitalized in West Palm Beach, Fla., with a virus.

Home runs by Bill Freehan, Willie Horton and Dalton Jones propelled the Tigers to their third straight victory and Reggie Jackson cracked his first homer of the spring to pace the Athletics' 15-hit attack against Milwaukee.

Smith Makes Final Tiger Roster Cuts

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Manager Mayo Smith has made his final spring training squad cuts for the Detroit Tigers, and three rookies have stuck with the team.

The cuts were made following Detroit's 11-3 exhibition clobbering of Washington Thursday, the team the Tigers will take on Monday to open the American League season in the nation's capital.

Perhaps the biggest surprise has been the performance of shortstop Szotkiewicz (Sock-ah-wits) who batted just .198 at Montgomery, Ala., of the Southern League last year. He has impressed in the field and has batted .263 this spring.

The 23-year-old native of Wilmington, Del., will be used as a backup to Cesar Gutierrez.

"Gutierrez has played well," Mayo said. "But we will pinch hit for him at times when we're looking for a long ball. So then we'll need to bring Szotkiewicz in to play short."

Sent to Tigertown for minor league assignment were pitcher Les Cain, rookie pitchers Bob Reed and Norm McRae, rookie infielder Tim Marting, and rookie catcher Gene Lamont.

The Tigers currently have 26 players, including veteran Tom Tresh who general manager Jim Campbell said he is trying to deal to another team. If no one takes Tresh, he may either quit baseball or accept an offer from Campbell to play at Detroit's Toledo farm club.

Tresh, originally from Detroit, now lives in Mount Pleasant, Mich., where he recently received a degree from Central Michigan University.

He starred with the Yankees from 1962 through mid-1969 when he was traded to the Tigers for outfielder Ron Woods. In 1962, Tresh was chosen AL Rookie of the Year, batting .286, hitting 20 home runs, and knocking in 93.

He has a lifetime batting average of .245, with 153 home runs and 530 RBIs.

He had fair to strong batti averages until he slumped to .219 in 1967, a year in which he was hampered by a reinjured right knee.

The following year, he hit just .195 and last year finished with .211.

"The last three years I was bothered by me knee and now that I have had surgery (after last season) I don't have a chance to see if it was a success," he said in the Marchant Stadium Clubhouse in Lakeland.

"I really don't think I was given much of a chance," he said. "But a man (Smith) has got to make his team up and has to make a decision.

Smith seemed somewhat upset at trimming Tresh.

"Here's a guy who all his life has given 100 per cent," Mayo declared, holding his hand on his head and nodding dejectedly. "It's easy cutting the bums, but guys like him, well....."

"I just hope somebody gives him a shot," Smith said.

Scherman, Cain, Reed and McRae were all battling for the 10th and final spot on Smith's pitching corps. Scherman, who was with Detroit briefly at the start and end of last season, has looked good his last few exhibition appearances.

The 25-year-old southpaw has a 1-0 record in four regular season games.

Maddox was labeled a bright prospect from the moment the Tigers opened spring training Feb. 20. Although he got off to a poor start and said he had some doubts about sticking, he steadily improved as a replacement for sore-armed Mickey Stanley in centerfield.

The 22-year-old former Big Ten batting champion from the University of Michigan has been hitting about .240 in Grapefruit League play with 20 hits, three homers and seven runs batted in.

Detroit scored two in the third, then had a five-run barrage in the fourth, including a three-run homer by Bill Freehan. The Bengals added four more in the fifth with two coming on a homer by Willie Horton which bounced off the top of the wall in deepest centerfield, 420 feet away.

Dalton Jones followed with a solo blast.

Ken McMullen knocked in Washington's first run with a double in the second and Tim French sent home another score with a two-bagger. McMullen added a long solo homer in the fourth, off starter and winner Joe Niekro.

Masons To Host K. Of C. April 20

The Masons will host the Knights of Columbus at a dinner on April 20, Clinton E. Leonard, Worshipful Master of Lakeside Lodge 371, announced this week.

This year's get-together will be the fourth annual meeting of the two groups. A 6:30 dinner will be served at the Masonic Temple. An evening of Christian fellowship will follow and a speaker will address the group.

Varnum Favors Local Controls On Air Pollution

Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistique) endorses the thought that local controls are needed to supplement state control of air pollution, he has advised the Escanaba City Council.

But this opinion is not shared by Gov. William Milliken and Lt. Governor Thomas Schweigert—or at least they make no mention of it in communications from them to the Council.

The letters from the state's two top officials and the representative of the district of which Delta County is a part were solicited by the Council in a letter dated Feb. 24.

Detroit Standards?

The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air had asked the City Council for an endorsement of a proposed county pollution control ordinance. This was never given.

Instead the Council asked Milliken, Schweigert and Varnum if they did not think the state controls were effective, if not why not, and was the state staff sufficient in number to met the control need.

All three state officials expressed confidence in the State's program to control air pollution on a long-term basis; all agreed that progress is being made; but only Varnum said:

"Here in Michigan the level of acceptable air quality varies widely from one part of the state to another. Level of pollution that might be tolerable to Detroit would probably be considered a disaster in Escanaba.

The State's Role

"For this reason a local air pollution ordinance would seem to make sense. It is also likely that quicker detection and better enforcement would be possible under local air pollution ordinances.

"For these reasons, I endorse the idea of local ordinances for the control of air pollution and I intend to introduce a bill in the Legislature to encourage county air pollution ordinances by providing enabling legislation."

Varnum pointed to the effective action of the state in requiring Mead Corp. to meet "definite control standards" before it would receive a permit for its new kraft mill. Evaluation of the technical aspects of the application are beyond the capacity of most communities, he pointed out.

"The same is true of the present Chicago & North Western dust problem. It must be remembered that the City of Escanaba and not the State Air Pollution Control Commission had approved of this installation and it is now the Air Pollution Control Commission and its staff who must be relied upon for the decisions to achieve dust control with continued operation of ore dumping and transfer building," Varnum said.

Words Of Caution

Gov. Milliken's reply noted that the state is "getting the job done" but not fast enough for "some people who demand instant pollution control." To eliminate all sources and all levels of pollution in the state would be quite simple but "it would also be disastrous," he added.

The Governor said the state is undermanned "especially in reference to covering all minor and local sources of air pollution." He said he is confident the "problems" in the Escanaba area will be "resolved as rapidly as possible by the State Air Pollution Control Commission to the best interests of the people in Escanaba and to the State."

Lt. Gov. Schweigert spoke of being in agreement with the trend toward pollution controls but cautioned against "precipitous, unreasonable action."

"I am of the opinion that we should move ahead in the control of our environment as rapidly as possible without the destruction of Michigan's economic and social base," he said.

The Council, which had solicited the letters from the state officials, entered them in the record without reading at last night's council session.

Copies are available at the City Hall, the public was advised.

Bail Denied For White Panther At Marquette

DETROIT (AP) — White Panther radical John Sinclair, sentenced last August to 9½ to 10 years in prison for possession of marijuana, was denied bail Thursday in Federal court.

Judge Fred Kaess ruled the court did not have jurisdiction to review the petition.

Sinclair had asked to be freed on bond while awaiting an appeal of his August conviction in a state court, but state appellate courts have refused to hear his bail-bond petition.

The appeal of his conviction is still before the Michigan Court of Appeals. No date has yet been scheduled.

Sinclair was expecetd to appear at Thursday's hearing, but it was learned he had been returned to Marquette prison after being transferred to Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson for Thursday's court appearance. Judge Kaess said he did not know why Sinclair was not present, but ruled that the appellant's appearance was not necessary for the hearing.

Justine Ravitz, Sinclair's attorney, said he would appeal Judge Kaess's decision.

MICHIGAN WEEK will be observed May 16-23 and Delta County's committee has begun meetings in planned events of the week. Meeting Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce building are (from left) Ronald F. DeVos, co-chairman; Mrs. Richard Bryson, Hospitality Day chairman; Ellis Movalson Jr., co-chairman; Walter McClintock, Education Day; Elsworth Viau, Youth Day; and Gary Barton, Livelihood Day. Chairmen not present for the meeting were Mrs. Clint Dunathan, Heritage Day; Fr. Wayne Marcotte, Spiritual Day; and Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder, Community Pride Day. (Daily Press Photo)

Stephenson To Honor Dr. Karm C. Kerwell

STEPHENSON — A grateful community will gather here April 6 to pay tribute to a pioneer resident who has devoted practically his entire life to serving the needs of the area.

Dr. Karm C. Kerwell, well-known Stephenson physician, will be honored at a testimonial dinner at the Stephenson Elementary School.

"It was 15 degrees below zero and we had four feet of snow on the ground," Dr. Kerwell recalled in describing his arrival in this lumber and farming community on Dec. 14, 1919. He came to join the late Dr. Edward Sawbridge who at that time was searching for a young medical assistant.

"My first thoughts were that I'd stay for a little time before going on to a better climate," said Dr. Kerwell. That stay turned out to be 50 years.

Cited By State

Two years ago, Dr. Kerwell was cited by the Michigan Medical Society in Detroit for a half-century of dedication to the medical profession.

A graduate of the University of Michigan School of Medicine in 1918, Dr. Kerwell interned at Saint Elizabeth Hospital in Covington, Ky., before joining Dr. Sawbridge at Stephenson.

Times have changed since the physician first arrived in the area. World War I had just ended and the nation was returning to normal life. The primary source of income in the Menominee County area was lumber and most of the inhabitants lived on farms.

Timber accidents and farm mishaps were numerous in those days and reaching hospitals for better medical attention was no easy chore. Horses were the main source of transportation, especially in the rural areas, when accidents occurred on farms and in the forests.

Flu Epidemic

One of the first real challenges of medical life in the forest lands of Upper Michigan that greeted the young doctor, however, was the famed flu epidemic of 1918. Those were trying days for any young physician. People had little money to pay their bills and some often paid their medical obligations in trade, using their farm products. It was rare for a woman to enter a hospital to give birth to a child. Many families had a mid-wife to care for the mother and child.

But Dr Kerwell remembers traveling considerable distances to care for the mother and baby, not to mention the hours of waiting before the birth of the child.

"We went to the sick and suffering," said Dr. Kerwell. "Most of our work in those days was house calls and often minor surgery was performed in the kitchen of the home."

"Lots Of Water"

His first automobile was a Model T Ford. "But it wasn't much good in some areas because of poor roads," he noted. One of his first orders when entering a home was, "I need lots of boiling water," he recalled.

Dr. Kerwell married the former Elsie Nelson in Wallace in 1932 and five years later they adopted a set of twins, a boy and a girl. Edward Karm Kerwell is now in the insurance business in Oconto Falls and Mrs. Jack Ruleau lives in Menominee. The senior Kerwells have five children.

The busy duties of a doctor and a family man did not keep Dr. Kerwell from performing his community obligations. He is a charter member of the Mid-County Men's Club, a member of the Twin City Medical Society, a member of the Twin City Shrine Club, a member of the Stephenson Masonic Order and the Michigan Medical Society.

Short Day Now

The doctor works a short day now but continues to visit his offices in the Stephenson Pharmacy Building every day. He'll occasionally make a trip to St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital in Menominee or Marinette General Hospital to visit patients. He likes to spend the summer at his cottage at Shakey Lakes or fishing off a pier near his cottage. He has always been an avid fisherman and hunter.

The community feels Dr. Kerwell has served the area well for the past half century.

"The community wishes him well and wants him to enjoy his retirement," said a committee member working on the testimonial project. "Somehow we feel that the history of our community would not be as interesting had it not been for the fact that Dr. Kerwell elected to spend his life here and contribute so much to the area," stated the committeeman.

Blood Donations Total 248 Units

The Red Cross today reported that although the quota had not been met a good showing was made at the blood procurement clinic which ended Thursday, with a total of 248 units contributed by Delta County donors. The quota was 280 units.

On Tuesday at Gladstone the collection was 63 units, one over quota; in Escanaba on Wednesday it was 87 and on Thursday 98 for a total of 248. The showing was, however, an improvement over the prior visit of the bloodmobile, the Red Cross reported.

Recognition was given several donors who contributed one or more gallons cumulatively, and pins were presented to:

Allen Kidd, Escanaba, 8 gallons; Joseph LaFave, Escanaba Rte. 1, 4 gallons; Gerald Babel, Escanaba, Lester Perison, Escanaba Rte. 2, Robert Thorsen, Rte. 1, Allen P. Gardiner, Escanaba, Harriet Hider, Bark River, each 3 gallon; Shirley Rolstad, Sonia Nelson, both of Escanaba 2 gallons; and Robert Ferguson and Carol Aker, Escanaba, and the Rev. Kuckhahn, Bark River, each 1 gallon.

Special gifts were presented to donors Julie Neumann, Escanaba; Gary Quick, Rapid River; Bob Campana, Marquette; Mrs. Franklin Steede, Tom Leonard and Veronica Stade, all of Escanaba.

The bloodmobile will return to Delta County in June.

Flat Rock Sets Registration Day For Kindergarten

The Flat Rock Public elementary school district announced today that kindergarten registration for 1970-71 will be held Monday, April 13, in the kindergarten room of the school building from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Present kindergarten children will not report for classes on that day.

Parents should bring the child's birth certificate.

All children entering any public or private school in Michigan for the first time also must sumbit a statement signed by a physician proving immunization against small pox, diptheria, tetanus, pertussis, measles, polio and that they have been tuberculin tested to determine the presence of infection of tuberculosis, said Supt. Leo J. Brunelle.
